CURRENT TOPICS.

WITH REGARD to the effect of the new procedure on the increase of litigation, it is interesting to compare the cause list of the Appeal Court and the Chancery Division of this year with that of last Michaelmas Sittings. Last year there were 30 chancery appeals; but this year there are 64, and the common law appeals amount to 128, making in all 192 cases for the re-constituted Appeal Court to begin its year with. In the Chancery Division the Master of the Rolls has 158 causes, 93 of which are with witnesses; last year he had 129. Vice-Chancellor Malone has 143 causes; last year he had 96. The list of Vice-Chancellor Bacon shows 62 causes, as against 28 last year; and Vice-Chancellor Hall has 204, as compared with 96. Shortly, the list of causes before the Master of the Rolls and the three Vice-Chancellors is 571 this year, as against 349 last year. It cannot be expected that the pressure on these judges will be less aggravated in the future than it has been during the first year of the working of the Judicature Acts, and the profession will look with anxiety for some arrangements to be made for disposing of this immense mass of business.

WE MAY BE PERMITTED to congratulate Mr. Manisty on the circumstance that he will be the first judge to obtain the benefit of the provision in the Judicature Act, 1873, which removes the necessity of the burdensome outlay incurred in being made a serjeant-at-law, presenting rings and giving the accustomed entertainment to the benchers of the new judge's Inn. He will also be the first common law judge who continues a member of his Inn, and the public will for the first time witness the novelty of a common law judge without the coif upon his wig. The origin of the rule that judges must be serjeants-at-law previously to their elevation to the bench, as regards the Courts of Queen's Bench and Common Pleas, is very obscure. The earliest authority on the subject appears to be Sir John Fortescue, who says, "No one, be he never so well read or practised in the laws, can be made a judge of the Courts of King's Bench or the Common Pleas, which are the supreme ordinary courts of the kingdom, unless he be first called to be a serjeant-at-law." The practice seems to have been uniform since the reign of Edward III., after whose accession there have been scarcely any judges whose names do not appear in the list of serjeants. In the Court of Exchequer the practice is comparatively modern; it is only since the twenty-first year of Elizabeth that the puisne barons have been created serjeants. Before that date the serjeants ranked before the barons of the Exchequer, but the rule of precedence was from that time reversed. Sir Nathaniel Lindley seems likely to be the last of the serjeants. No serjeant-at-law (other than a newly-appointed judge) has been created since 1868, in which year Serjeants Cox, Sleigh, and Sargood received the coif from Lord Cairns. No Queen's serjeant has been appointed since the promotion of Serjeants Shee and Wrangham, and on the death of Mr. Serjeant Manning, no fresh creation of a Queen's ancient serjeant was made. The last selection of a judge from the ranks of existing serjeants occurred in the case of the late Mr. Justice Hayes in 1868.

IN THE CASE OF Hawkins v. Walrond and another (24 W. R. 824), a controversy which some years ago was waged, not as usual between different courts, but between successive judges of the same court, was reopened. The question is shortly this:—A landlord who has let a farm upon a lease containing a covenant to consume upon the farm all hay, &c., produced thereon, distrains upon the farm hay belonging to the tenant; can he sell this hay under the distress at a consuming price—that is, subject to a condition that it shall be consumed on the premises? If he does, the result will, of course, be that the hay will realize a smaller sum than if sold unconditionally. The answer to this question, finally given by the Court of Exchequer in Ridgway v. Stafford (6 Ex. 404), after some fluctuation of opinion (Abbey v. Petch, 8 M. & W. 419), was that the landlord cannot sell under the distress at a consuming price. He is bound to sell "for the best price that can be gotten" (2 Will. & Mary, sess. 1, c. 5, s. 2). Now, the hay is the absolute property of the tenant, who might sell it to be consumed off the premises, although by so doing he would render himself liable to his landlord for breach of covenant. Moreover, the covenant as to consuming the hay on the premises being for the benefit of the landlord, he must be taken, if he avails himself of the provisions of the Act of 2 Will. & Mary, to have waived the covenant, as being inconsistent with the requirement as to selling at the best price. The decision which proceeded on these reasons obviously had, or might have, the effect of placing the tenant who fails to pay his rent in a better position than the honest and punctual tenant. The latter—say, in the last year before the expiration of his lease—pays his rent and leaves on the land the manure produced by the crops; the defaulting tenant may have a considerable portion of his rent paid for him by the difference between the consuming and the absolute price, and may also escape altogether from the obligation to leave manure on the land. So, however, the law was understood to be settled by Ridgway v. Stafford. But in that case and the cases which preceded it, an important legislative provision seems to have been rather overlooked. Section 11 of 56 Geo. 3, c. 50, provides that "no assignee of any bankrupt . . . nor any purchaser of the goods, chattels, stock, or crop of any person engaged in husbandry on any lands let to farm, shall take, use, or dispose of any hay . . . or any other produce of such lands . . . in any other manner than such bankrupt . . . or other person so employed in husbandry ought to have taken, used, or disposed of the same if no commission of bankruptcy . . . had been executed or sale made." In Hawkins v. Walrond reliance was placed on this provision as applying to the purchaser of hay under the distress. The court, however, held that, as the statute in which the provision was contained was an Act for the protection of landlords from the acts of their tenants, the provision as to "any purchaser" must be read "any purchaser from the tenant," and that it therefore did not apply to the sale under the distress by the landlord. We are not prepared to controvert this view, and it is always inconvenient to upset a rule which has been established as long as that laid down in Ridgway v. Stafford; but we would suggest the desirability of the insertion in leases of farms of an express provision that on any distress the landlord shall be at liberty to sell hay and other crops at a consuming price.

SINCE THE PASSING of the Licensing Act of 1872, few courts of quarter sessions have been held without the trial of an appeal under that Act. Such appeals would be especially numerous in October, when, besides the appeals against convictions, the appeals against the refusal to renew or transfer a licence come on to be heard. The recent weeks have, no doubt, witnessed many a desperate struggle over the intricate sections of the Licensing Acts which regulate the right to renewal, and it has, we believe, been recently contended in influential quarters that in the case of beerhouses licensed under the Wine and Beerhouse Act, 1869, the right of appeal against the refusal to renew has been altogether taken away by the Licensing Act of 1874. The right seems to us to be co-extensive with the right of appeal of the holder of the general licence under the Licensing Act of 1828. It has, however, been argued otherwise, on the following grounds:—The Act of 1828 applied originally to "alehouses" only, and the appeal against the refusal to renew a licence is derived from section 27 of that Act, which gives an appeal from "any act of any justice." The 75th section of the Act of 1872 absolutely repealed section 27 and the two following sections of the Act of 1828, "except in so far as they relate to the renewal or to the transfer of licences under sections four and fourteen of the same Act." It is contended that as the Wine and Beerhouse Act of 1869 is not expressly mentioned in the saving clause, appeals in relation to licences granted under that Act are not included, and, further, that section 27 of the Act of 1874, which repeals "so much of section 8 of the Wine and Beerhouse Act as incorporates or applies any repealed enactment," has the effect of entirely abrogating the right of appeal transferred from the Act of 1828 to section 8 of the Wine and Beerhouse Act, 1869. But a reference to the terms of the latter section will show that the argument is unfounded. The section enacts that all the provisions of the Act of 1828 . . . "as to appeal from any act of any justice shall, so far as may be, have effect with regard to grants" of licences under the Act of 1869. The Act of 1828, therefore, is incorporated with the 8th section of the Act of 1869, and the general term "renewal" in section 75 of the Act of 1872 is clearly wide enough to include renewals under both Acts. The "repealed enactment" incorporated by section 8 of the Act of 1869 was that part of section 27 of the Act of 1828 which allowed an appeal from the refusal to grant a new licence (see Reg. v. Smith, L. R. 8 Q. B. 146). A more serious question has been raised as to how far enlarged premises require a "new licence" to be attached to them in respect of the enlargement. This was said some time ago, in Reg. v. Albert Smith (15 L. T. N. S. 178), and more recently in a case which we do not believe to have been reported, to be a "question of fact for the justices." We suppose, however, that this must be taken cum grano, and it may be that if the transformation were very great, the licence-holder would not only not be entitled to a renewal in respect of the whole, but could be proceeded against under section 3 of the Licensing Act, 1872, for selling intoxicating liquor "at a place where he was not authorized by his licence to sell the same" unless great care were taken to describe the enlarged premises in the licence itself.

THE VACATION BUSINESS of the Chancery Division has been especially heavy this year. Mr. Justice Field sat on eight several days, and Mr. Baron Huddleston on six days. The motions and summonses disposed of in court amounted to at least 210 and there were fourteen petitions. The number of orders on summonses made at chambers and drawn up at the registrar's office is estimated at 500, and there were many more orders drawn up at chambers. From this it appears that the vacation business continues to increase, the total number of vacation orders, in court and at chambers, drawn up by the registrar last year having been rather over 500.

THE NEW LAW AS TO CROSSED CHEQUES.

It is not to be wondered at that Mr. Hubbard was so little satisfied with the mode in which the Crossed Cheques Bill of last session was carried through the House of Commons by the Government that, on the eve of the expiring session, he gave notice of his intention to bring in a further measure on the subject. It must, indeed, be regarded as a happy accident if a satisfactory result has emerged from the scramble in which the Bill was passed. But yet the Legislature will probably be reluctant to disturb so recent a settlement of the question, and it will certainly need strong reasons to induce it to introduce fresh changes in the law relating to instruments by which so large a part of the business of the country is conducted. At any rate the question must now be calmly considered on the Act as it stands, and on this examination it may perhaps be found that, notwithstanding its imperfection, there is no such radical mischief as calls for the inconvenience of a further change.

We need not remind our readers that the moving cause of the recent Act was the decision in Smith v. Union Bank of London (24 W. R. 194, L. R. 1 Q. B. D. 31), by which a crossing appeared to many persons to have lost the efficacy which was commonly thought to belong to it. We have on more than one occasion discussed that case; it now only remains to deal with the decision as law, and to observe in what respects the previously existing law is altered by its provisions. It will be remembered that the effect of that case was that a crossing, though special, did not destroy, or even in any degree qualify or impair, the negotiability of a cheque; that consequently a bona fide holder for value of a crossed cheque acquired a perfect title to it as against the true owner; and that having such a title the true owner could not be damaged by the payment of the cheque to the holder, though in violation of the mandate contained in the crossing. Implicitly that doctrine is affirmed by the Act, because, in providing that a crossing with a certain addition shall prevent the acquisition by the holder of "a better title to the cheque than that which the person from whom he took it had" (section 12), it tacitly affirms that in other cases the rule established by Smith v. Union Bank prevails. But to satisfy the requirements of those who asked for an instrument which, being of the nature of a cheque, should yet be free from the risk of larceny, it is provided that to a crossing, whether general or special, the words "not negotiable" may be added, in which case section 12 prevents the acquisition of title otherwise than by a transfer from a person legally entitled to it. It naturally occurs to one's mind that a restriction of negotiability thus imposed by express words has nothing to do with crossing to a banker, and that it is difficult to assign any reason why it should be coupled with, and made dependent upon, crossing. If a crossed cheque may, by the addition of these words, be deprived of negotiability, why may not the same effect be given to the same words placed upon an uncrossed cheque? We do not know that any satisfactory reason can be given for compelling those who wish cheques drawn or held by them to be freed from the consequences of negotiability, at the same time to limit the mode of payment to payment to a banker; but so the law stands, and the words "not negotiable" will not be entitled to the benefit of the Act unless they accompany a crossing, which may, however, under section 4, be effected by marking the cheque with "two parallel transverse lines simply."

The enactment in favour of the public is, however, coupled with a somewhat oddly drawn provision in favour of bankers. By a proviso to section 12, "a banker who has in good faith and without negligence received payment for a customer of a cheque crossed generally or specially to himself shall not, in case the title to the cheque proves defective, incur any liability to the true owner of the cheque by reason only of having received such payment." The only construction which we can put on these words is, that the bankers shall not be comsidered to have received the money to the use of the true owner; but this leaves open the question whether the true owner has any other remedy against the banker who has illegally dealt with his property and deprived him of its use and value. If, however, the proviso should be held to afford complete protection to the banker thus receiving payment, the true owner manifestly has recourse against the customer on whose behalf payment has been received. But has he also any remedy against the banker who has paid the cheque to a person not entitled to receive payment, but merely protected against the consequences of receiving it? Apparently not. It is true the cheque still remains the property of the true owner, for no one can derive title to it but through him, but the banker on whom it is drawn is under no contract with, or liability to, him as to its payment, and the statutory duty on which the plaintiff founded himself in Smith v. Union Bank with respect to crossed cheques is not created by this Act in respect of the words "not negotiable." As in the former Acts, a banker is still enjoined "not to pay" a crossed cheque otherwise than according to the crossing (section 7), but there is no statutory prohibition against his paying a cheque marked "not negotiable" except to a person entitled to it. It is unfortunate that the Act leaves it somewhat ambiguous whether the words "not negotiable" form part of the crossing. This is important with reference to section 6, which makes the crossing a material part of the cheque; but here again by section 9 the banker on whom the cheque is drawn is protected, for if "in good faith and without negligence" he pays "a crossed cheque," "if crossed generally, to a banker, and if crossed specially to the banker to whom it is crossed" his payment is a good payment. Now this language is perfectly general, and applies to all crossed cheques; and as the words "not negotiable" can only be added to a crossed cheque, the banker who acts in good faith and without negligence will have made a good payment of a "not negotiable" cheque, although the holder may not have been entitled to it. The drawer is in the like case protected, but to a less degree; for the payment on his behalf is only good in his favour if the cheque "has come to the hands of the payee." The drawer, therefore, may be charged by his banker for payment of a cheque, even though marked "not negotiable," the payment of which discharges him from no liability by reason of the cheque not having ever reached the payee.

This appears to be the extent of the alteration in the law as to crossed cheques so far as regards the question of negotiability; otherwise the rules on this point are untouched.

With respect to crossing proper, the provisions of the Act are substantially the same as those contained in the repealed Acts of 19 & 20 Vict. c. 25, and 21 & 22 Vict. c. 79; but some alterations are made of more or less importance. As we have already pointed out, crossing may now be effected by the simple addition of "two parallel transverse lines" (section 4). Further, an express sanction is added to the limitation placed on crossing, which will, it may be hoped, for the future avoid a difficulty which only thoughtlessness on the part of those who deal with cheques can have allowed to arise. Notwithstanding that 21 & 22 Vict. c. 79, s. 2, only allowed a special crossing to be added to a cheque not already specially crossed, it was, we believe, not a very uncommon thing for a cheque to be presented for payment bearing several special crossings. The banker would, there can be little doubt, under such circumstances, have been perfectly justified in refusing payment; but the present Act relieves him from all doubt. As before, the drawer or any lawful holder may cross a cheque, and a lawful holder may cross specially a generally crossed cheque (section 5). But when a cheque is once specially crossed it cannot be specially crossed again, except in the single case of a banker crossing it "to another banker his agent for collection" (which is a new privilege to bankers), and if it is so crossed "the banker on whom it is drawn shall refuse payment thereof" (sections 5, 8).

By section 10 it is provided that any banker paying a generally or specially crossed cheque otherwise than to a banker, or to the banker named, as the case may be, "shall be liable to the true owner of the cheque for any loss he may sustain owing to the cheque having been so paid." We have already pointed out that the prohibition in section 7 is limited to the case of payment otherwise than to a banker, and does not include the case of payment of a cheque marked "not negotiable" otherwise than to the true owner, and the same remark is true of section 10. But the question arises here, how far does this provision, which is a new one, go in providing the true owner with a remedy against the banker? It does not appear to add anything to the existing law, except, perhaps, that it removes a doubt. If it was doubtful whether the statutory prohibition of the earlier Acts created a duty in the banker to the true owner of the crossed cheque not to pay it otherwise than according to the crossing—a doubt which seems to be favoured by some expressions of the court in Smith v. Union Bank—that doubt is removed. But if a true owner should find himself in the plight of the plaintiff in that case, he will have no further remedy than the plaintiff had; for the ground of the decision there was that the plaintiff was not damaged because he had lost his title to the cheque, which had passed to the bona fide holder for value; and as the rules as to the negotiability of crossed cheques are not altered, his case will be the same still; he will not "sustain any loss owing to the cheque having been so paid." The removal, therefore, of the suggested doubt will probably only be of service to the owner of a "not negotiable" cheque which the banker has paid contrary to the direction of the crossing, and to a person not entitled to it.

The provision which protects bankers in the case of obliteration of the crossing is substantially the same as under the repealed Act of 21 & 22 Vict. c. 79.

The Act certainly cannot be said to indicate any very clear view of what was to be effected; its arrangement is faulty, and its effect in several instances doubtful. But upon the whole it is better than the circumstances of its birth would warrant us to expect, and it has the advantage of bringing the whole statutory law on the subject into a single Act. Having regard to the multitude of amendments with which it was threatened, and to the very divergent views of those who represented the interest of the bankers and those who represented the interest of the public, we do not look forward with any confidence to a renewed attempt at legislation. We venture to think, however, that, in the mélée of last session, the bankers have got the best of it.

LEGISLATION OF THE YEAR.

VI.

BANKERS' BOOKS EVIDENCE.

CAP. 48.—An Act to amend the Law with Reference to Bankers' Books Evidence.

We have on several occasions noticed the fact that it is not an uncommon provision in the law of foreign countries to allow merchants' books to be used as evidence of their contracts, and also to allow copies of them to take the place of the originals in courts of justice; but that where this is permitted, the law also contains strict provisions as to the mode in which such accounts are to be kept; sometimes subjects them to inspection by the Tribunal of Commerce, and only admits the evidence when the books are kept strictly in conformity with the law. In England we have no provisions analogous to these latter rules, and in ordinary cases there is no such regularity about the keeping of accounts as would make it safe to allow the corresponding privilege. But bankers' books so greatly surpass in regularity the books kept in other businesses, and they, as a rule, so nearly approach a uniform method and a standard of perfect accuracy, that we may view the intention of the present Act without alarm. And, on the other hand, it cannot be doubted that it will be of equal advantage to the public, whose business is hindered by the absence of the books, and suitors, who will be relieved of the trouble and expense of procuring their production, as to the bankers themselves and their servants, whose books and time are protected from invasion and disturbance.

We must therefore see how far this end is effectually attained by the Bankers' Books Evidence Act, 1876 (39 & 40 Vict. c. 48).

In the first place the privileges of the Act are confined to bankers "who, at the commencement of each year, shall have made their return to the Commissioners of Inland Revenue, and any savings bank certified under the Act of 1863" (section 2), and the fact of a due return having been made may be proved by production of a copy of the return, verified as having been duly made by the affidavit of a partner, manager, or officer of the bank, or by the production of a copy of a newspaper purporting to contain a copy of such return published there by the Commissioners of Inland Revenue (section 9).

We know of no return to which this can refer, except the return of partners required on each 1st of January from English, Irish, and Scotch bankers respectively, by 7 & 8 Vict. c. 32, s. 21; 8 & 9 Vict. c. 37, s. 22; and 8 & 9 Vict. c. 38, s. 13; and this seems also identified as the one spoken of by the reference to "the commencement of the year." But from the obligation to make this return the Bank of England, the Bank of Ireland, the Bank of Scotland, the Royal Bank of Scotland, and the British Linen Company are excluded, the first by the interpretation clause of 7 & 8 Vict. c. 32, s. 28, the other by the express words of 8 & 9 Vict. c. 37, s. 22, and 8 & 9 Vict. c. 38, s. 13. It may be that these banks are under some other obligation to make such a return, though we have not been able to trace any such in the statutes incorporating them. We presume that this must be so, for the point could hardly have been overlooked; otherwise the singular result would follow that these banks (and the Act extends to the three kingdoms) are deprived of the benefit of the Act. It may be that they were considered not to need it. But even with respect to the Bank of England all the modern decisions which treat their books as on the footing of public irremovable documents have referred only to the transfer books of stock, not to the books containing their ordinary banking entries (Bretton v. Cope, Peake, 30; Marsh v. Collnett, 2 Esp. 665; Mortimer v. McCallan, 6 M. & W. 58; so also the case mentioned in the note to Rex v. Lord George Gordon, 2 Day, 593, n. 3), related to the transfer books of the East India Company); and there is a manifest difference between the cases, because it is only by means of the books that a transfer can take place. There is, indeed, an early case of Man v. Carey (3 Salk. 155), in which a copy of "a bank bill remaining upon the file in the Bank of England" was admitted in evidence, on the ground that the Bank was "a public body established by Act of Parliament for public purposes"; but it may be doubted how far this rule, which assumes a state of things much more true at that time (9 Will. 3) than it is now, would be followed with respect to the books kept by the Bank in the conduct of their private business. But however this may be with respect to the question of whether such documents must be proved by primary or secondary evidence, there is at least nothing to give the books more evidentiary force than any other books of the like kind would have; and therefore, if the point as to the return really is as we have supposed it may be, there seems to be a serious omission in the Act.

The Act extends the privilege to "the entries in ledgers, day-books, cash-books, and other account-books of any bank," which, in cases where the bank is not a party, are made prima facie evidence of the matters recorded in them, if coupled with an affidavit of a partner, manager, or officer of the bank that the books in question are "the ordinary books of such bank, and that the said entries have been made in the usual and ordinary course of business, and that such books are in, or come immediately from, the custody or control of such bank" (section 3); and, further, copies of such entries, verified by affidavit as examined copies, may be given in evidence without production of the originals (section 4).

This privilege is, however, guarded by a proviso which requires any party who intends to adduce such entries or copies in evidence to give to the other party five days' notice in writing, or such other notice as may be ordered by the court, containing a copy of the entries proposed to be adduced, and notifying the other party that he is "at liberty to inspect the original entries, and the accounts of which such entries form a part"; and upon receipt of such notice the party served may obtain a judge's order to inspect and take copies of the entries in the books of the bank "relating to the matter in question (not, it is to be observed, merely of the entries proposed to be adduced by the other side), which order may be made by the judge, either with or without summoning the bank or the other party, and which is to be "intimated" to the bank at least three days before such copies are required (section 6). The language of these sections is very obscure, and the practice will not be easy to settle. Does the notification that the other party is "at liberty" to inspect the originals, required by section 5, merely refer to the power to obtain an order for inspection conferred by section 6, or does it mean that the notifying party has already obtained the permission of the bank to such inspection? We presume it must refer to the former; but, if so it is not happily expressed. Again, what is the meaning of the final provision of section 6? The inspecting party is to "intimate" the order to the bank "at least three days before such copies are required." What copies? He may not require more than inspection. Will the three days' "intimation" be necessary in that case? If a three days' intimation is required in every case it will certainly not be easy to do what is necessary within the five days given by the notice; yet why should the notifying party give more than a five days' notice? And if he gives only a five days' notice, how can it be set aside? He has acted within his rights, for an order by the court is not a condition precedent to his notice, and a subsequent order for a longer time would absolutely deprive him of the benefit of the Act. Perhaps it will be a prudent thing in every case to obtain an order; but this will considerably increase the expense.

But a further difficulty is created by the use of the word "court," which by section 2 means "the court, judge, magistrate, sheriff, arbitrator, or other person authorized to preside over the legal proceedings for the time being," or "to exercise judicial control over the said legal proceedings or the procedure or any steps therein," while by the same section the phrase "legal proceedings" is given the widest possible signification. Now, section 5 refers to an order of "the court," but sections 6, 7, refer only to orders by "a judge of one of the superior courts." Here we have at once a curious discrepancy. In the case of a proceeding carried on elsewhere than in one of the superior courts, it is the court where the action is proceeding by which the order under section 5 is to be made; but all the supplementary apparatus of orders by which the party served is to obtain the rights given him by the statute is placed under the control of a judge of the superior courts, defined as meaning in England "a judge of her Majesty's High Court of Justice" (section 2).

But whatever difficulties may exist in applying these provisions, suitors will not be able, at any rate, to ignore the Act, for by section 8 no bank will hereafter be compelled to produce its books without a special order from a judge. It will be necessary, therefore, for a party who wishes to give evidence of a banking account either to give the notice mentioned in section 5, or obtain a special order (for which, of course, special circumstances will be required) under section 8.

With respect to the provision which makes bankers' books or copies of them prima facie evidence, a limit is imposed by section 7, for by that section the party served with notice may obtain a judge's order that the "entries and copies mentioned in the notice" shall not be admissible as evidence of the matters recorded. If such an order is obtained it will be necessary for the notifying party to obtain an order for the production of the originals under section 8; for, although such an order would, perhaps, not affect the provision making copies as good evidence as the originals, it will take away all their practical value, and it may be doubtful whether the effect of such an order would not be to exclude all the other provisions of the Act except that contained in section 8. An order under section 8 would, however, obviously follow, as a matter of course, an order under section 7.

We cannot but regret that more attention has not been directed to the practical working out of the details of practice, for want of which, we fear, the utility of the Act will be greatly lessened.

RIVERS POLLUTION.

Cap. 75.—An Act for making Further Provision for the Prevention of the Pollution of Rivers.

This Act is the practical result of the many attempts at legislation which have been from time to time made with reference to the pollution of rivers, and in its cautious and carefully guarded provisions it represents the difficulties with which the subject is beset. The first portions are occupied with the declaration of offences under the Act, and here there meets us at once a somewhat singular provision as to "solid matters" (section 2). The Act, judging by its title and preamble, is intended to prevent the pollution of rivers; but the very first provision is aimed, inter alia, at interference with the "due flow" of any stream by putting, or causing to be put, or knowingly permitting to be put into it solid refuse, rubbish, cinders, waste, or putrid solid matter. To interfere with the "due flow" in this way is declared to be an offence against the Act. What is the "due flow" of a stream is not explained; and it seems possible that there may be a due flow which is not the ordinary or accustomed flow. Section 5 speaks of prejudicially interfering with the due flow of a stream; is it intended that a distinction shall be drawn between interference and prejudicial interference? But the word "stream" includes (see section 20) the sea, lakes, and canals. What can be the mysterious offence of interfering with the "due flow" of a lake?

Section 2 also renders it an offence to pollute the waters of a stream by solid matter, &c. But the term "solid matter" (section 20) is not to include "particles of matter in suspension in water." The offence is the putting solid matter in any stream so as to pollute its waters. But the pollution, if any, is due, not to the solid matter which sinks to the bottom of the stream, but to the particles of matter held in suspension in the water. These, however, are not "solid matter" within the definition; all that is necessary, therefore, is to see that the "solid matter" is well mixed up with water before it is poured into the stream. Again, "polluting" is not to include "innocuous discolouration" (section 20). "Innocuous" to whom or what? A solution of lime, which would discolour a stream and kill the fish, might not be injurious to human beings.

Part II. relates to sewage pollution, and provides (section 3) that every person who causes to fall or flow, or knowingly permits to fall or flow, into any stream any solid or liquid sewage matter shall be deemed to have committed an offence against the Act. But it is provided that where sewage matter passes along a channel used or constructed at the passing of the Act for the purpose of conveying such sewage matter, the person permitting it to flow shall not be deemed to have committed an offence if he shows that he is using the best means to render it harmless. The certificate of an inspector of the Local Government Board is to be conclusive evidence of this (section 12). Provision is made for delaying, by order of the Local Government Board, the operation of the section in the case of sanitary authorities who at the passing of the Act are discharging sewage matter into any stream, and a private person is not to be guilty of an offence under the section for passing sewage matter, with the sanction of a sanitary authority, into a stream along a drain connecting with a sewer under the control of such sanitary authority.

The next part deals with manufacturing and mining pollutions. It is provided that any person who causes or knowingly permits to fall or flow into any stream any "poisonous, noxious, or polluting liquid" proceeding from any factory or manufacturing process, shall be deemed to have committed an offence (section 4). Since "polluting" does not include innocent discolouration (section 20), the force of the word "polluting" in this section is limited to innocent and non-discolouring pollutions. While it probably is no offence to dye a stream scarlet with an infusion of cochineal, it would apparently be an offence under the Act to empty into a stream the soda water from a manufactory of that beverage. Similar provisions are made as in part II. for the case of persons using the best practicable means of rendering harmless the noxious liquid. Section 5 deals with the case of streams from mines, and provides that any person causing or knowingly permitting to fall or flow into any stream any solid matter from any mine, in such quantities as to "prejudicially interfere with its due flow," or any noxious matter proceeding from any mine, shall be deemed to have committed an offence, unless he shows that he has used the best practicable means to render the noxious matter harmless.

Next come the provisions which have been inserted with a view of solving the main difficulty which has so long delayed legislation on this subject—the difficulty, namely, of providing a remedy which shall not prejudicially interfere with manufacturers. Section 6 provides that no proceeding shall be taken under part III. of the Act except by a sanitary authority, and with the consent of the Local Government Board. This consent is not to be given unless the Board are satisfied that means for rendering harmless the noxious liquids are "reasonably practicable," and that no material injury will be inflicted by the proceedings on the interests of the manufacturing industry of which the district is the seat. Moreover, the right is given to any person against whom proceedings are proposed to be taken under part III. to be heard in opposition to the taking of such proceeding, before the local sanitary authority. No proceedings in respect of sewage, manufacturing or mining pollutions, are to be taken until the end of twelve months from the passing of the Act, and not until two months after written notice has been given to the offender, nor while other proceedings are pending in relation to the same offence (section 13). And (section 7), sanitary authorities are to afford facilities for enabling manufacturers to carry the liquids proceeding from their factories into the sewers.

The remedy provided for offences under the Act is by injunction of the county court, either prohibitory or mandatory (section 10), with the power to inflict a penalty not exceeding £50 per day for every day during which the offender makes default in complying with the order of the court. If he disobeys the order for a period of not less than a month, the court, in addition to the penalty, may appoint a person to carry out the order, and the expenses of doing this are to be a debt due from the person in default to the person executing the order. A right of appeal to the High Court, in the form of a special case, is given to either party to the proceedings before the county court, and any plaint under the Act may, by leave of a judge of the High Court, be removed into the High Court (section 11).

THE JUDICIAL STATISTICS, 1875.

CRIMINAL PROCEEDINGS, &c.

In the number of persons sent for trial in 1875 there was a decrease of 481, or 3·1 per cent., as compared with the number for 1874, and, as compared with the average of each period of five years, 1875-71, 1870-66, 1865-61, and 1860-56, the number for 1875 shows a decrease of 460, or 3·0 per cent., 4,247, or 22·3 per cent., 6,739 or 31·4 per cent., and 3,333 or 18·4 per cent., respectively. The number sent for trial in 1875 gives 1 for every 1,627 of the estimated population for that year, in comparison with 1 for every 1,556 of the population as estimated for 1874, and the actual number of cases was 14,714. Of these, 2,705 were in respect of offences against the person, and the number under this head shows an increase of 370, or 15·8 per cent., upon the number for the previous year. There were 84 commitments for murder, or 22 more than in 1874 and 25 more than in 1873. There were 1,250 cases of offences against property with violence; and this number shows a decrease of 42, or 3·2 per cent., upon that for 1874. The commitments for burglary, 227 in number, were less by 54 than those in the previous year; but of housebreaking cases there was an increase of 73. In respect of offences against property without violence 9,609 cases were sent for trial, or 592 less than in 1874, and for malicious offences against property there were 176 commitments against 197. For forgery and other offences against the currency there were 398 commitments, or 25 more than in 1874; but for miscellaneous offences the commitments, 579 in number, show a decrease of 221, or 27·6 per cent., as compared with the number for the preceding year. In 1875, 6,451 persons were tried at the county quarter sessions courts; 1,767 at the Middlesex county sessions; 2,970 at the borough sessions courts; 2,627 at the circuit assize courts; and 899 at the Central Criminal Court, with the following results:—

Acquitted or discharged...	3,714
Detained as insane	46
Sentenced to death	33
" penal servitude	1,639
" imprisonment	8,872
" reformatories	165
" fine, &c.	245

Thus it will be seen that the number acquitted and discharged was 25·24 per cent. of the whole number committed. The proportion in 1874 was 24·01. The number sentenced to death in 1874 was 26; to penal servitude, 1,690; to imprisonment, 9,313; to reformatories, 173; and to fine or discharge on sureties, 307; the total number convicted having been 11,509 in that year and 11,089 in 1873. Of the 1,639 convicts sentenced to penal servitude in 1875, 1,352, or 82·5 per cent., were males, and 257, or 17·5 per cent., females, against 84·8 and 15·2 per cent. respectively in 1874. Of the 33 persons sentenced during the year to death for murder, 4 were females; and 17 males and 1 female, were executed. Of the remaining 15 the sentences were commuted to penal servitude for life, 1 male being subsequently certified to be insane.

In 1875, 9 cases only were submitted for the decision of the court of criminal appeal, against the same number in 1874 and against 24 in 1873. In 6 of these the conviction was affirmed, while in the remaining 3 it was reversed.

As has been for many years the case, the return of the costs of criminal prosecutions is one year in arrear of the other matters under the head of criminal proceedings, and the latest statistics only deal with the year 1874. The payments by her Majesty's Treasury in respect of 13,769 indictments amounted to £117,219 9s. 5d., giving an average of £8 10s. 2d. as the cost of each case. The payments from the same source in respect of 14,651 cases under the Criminal Justice Act amounted to £15,393 14s. 6d., or £1 0s. 10d. for each; and in respect of 2,955 cases under the Juvenile Offenders Act to £1,776 10s., being an average of 12s. 10d. in each case. As compared with the numbers and amounts for 1873, the foregoing figures show an increase of 250, or 1·8 per cent., in the total number of cases tried on indictment, and of £7,253 18s. 7d., or upwards of 6·0 per cent., in the costs of these cases. In the number of summary proceedings there is an increase of 247, or 1·4 per cent., and in the amount of costs of these proceedings an increase of £376 12s. 2d., or 2·2 per cent. The average cost of each case tried on indictment shows an increase of 7s. 7d.; and under summary proceedings there is an increase of 2d. in the average cost.

The total number of Mint cases prosecuted and concluded by the Government in 1875, as shown in the return furnished by the Solicitor to her Majesty's Treasury, was 180, and the total costs paid by the Department in respect of these cases amounted to £1,511 9s. 9d. The number of criminal cases, other than Mint cases, prosecuted by the Solicitor to the Treasury, and brought to a conclusion within the year 1875, was 60, and the costs of the same amounted to £4,819 11s. 10d. In the previous year the number of Mint cases was 48, and the costs in respect of them £62,029 8s. 8d. The number of other prosecutions was 182, the costs amounting to £1,544 16s. 3d.

PRISONS.

Under the heading of prisons the list comprises 81 county and liberty prisons, including 2 for the Isle of Ely, and 3, one each, for the liberties of St. Albans, Peterborough, and Ripon; and 34 city, town, and borough prisons, inclusive of Newgate, for the City of London and county of Middlesex. The returns for local prisons, reformatories, and industrial schools, as also those which deal with criminal lunatics, are for the year ending September 29, 1875; those for the convict prisons being for the year ending March 31, 1876. The total number of commitments was 170,300, being 3,712, or 2·2 per cent., more than in the previous twelve months. The appended table shows the different classes of commitments, and the numbers under each class:—

Remanded and discharged	10,900
For trial at assizes and sessions	13,245
Convicted at assizes and sessions (not previously in custody)	1,446
Convicted summarily	132,594
Want of sureties	3,303
Debtors, and on civil process	4,845
Military and naval offences	3,967
	170,300

In the number for trial there is an increase of 69 as compared with the number for 1874; but in the number convicted at assizes and sessions (not previously in custody) there is a decrease of 148, or 9·2 per cent. In the number committed on summary conviction there is an increase of 3,870, or 3·0 per cent.; and in the number committed for want of sureties, an increase of 63, or 1·9 per cent. The commitments for debt and on civil process show a decrease of 313, or 6·0 per cent., following a decrease of 1,529, or 22·8 per cent., in the previous year. In military and naval offences there is an increase of 317, or 8·6 per cent., following an increase of 608, or 20·0 per cent., in 1874. In the total number of re-committed prisoners for 1875 there is an increase of 2,714, or 4·2 per cent., as compared with the return for the previous year; and the proportion of the re-committed to the total number committed, exclusive of debtors and military and naval offenders, was 40·7 per cent. The higher proportionate number of females frequently re-committed is, the return again notice, as usual, remarkable. Of the total number re-committed, 22,433 had been already committed once; 10,671 twice; 6,531 thrice; 4,933 four times; 3,469 five times; 4,784 six or seven times; 4,316 eight, nine, or ten times; and 8,734 more than ten times. Of those re-committed, 1,157 had been previously sentenced to trans-portion or penal servitude, against 1,134 in 1874. As is usually the case, the greatest number of criminals committed were between the ages of 16 and 40. As many as 50,876, or nearly one-third of the whole number, were between 21 and 30 years of age; and 37,093 were aged between 30 and 40. Of children under 12 years of age 1,084 were committed, against 1,470 in 1874, and 1,482 in 1873. The proportion which the number under 16 years of age bears to the total number committed (exclusive of debtors, &c.) is 4·4, against 6·0 in the previous year. Of the whole number committed, 125,613, or 77·8 per cent., were natives of England; 4,608, or 2·8 per cent., were natives of Wales; 3,847, or 2·4, were natives of Scotland; and 24,040, or 14·9, were natives of Ireland; the rest having been born in the colonies and in foreign countries. Of those who could neither read nor write there were 54,046; 100,722 could read, or read and write imperfectly; only 6,078 could read and write well; and 288 possessed superior instruction. The educational status of the remaining 354 was not ascertained.

In addition to the 170,300 persons committed during 1875, 19,249 were in prison at the commencement of the year. At the conclusion of the twelve months 19,241 remained in prison. Of those in custody during the year, 165,442 were discharged on termination of sentence or commitment, 117 on pardon or commutation of sentence, and 1 on ticket-of-leave; 4 escaped, 11 committed suicide, 272 died, and 24 were executed; while others were removed from local prisons to Government and other places of incarceration, to reformatory schools, and to lunatic asylums. The number, 19,241, remaining in prison at the end of the year was 3 less than at the end of the statistical year 1874. The greatest number of prisoners under confinement at one time in 1874-75 was 22,553, being 531, or 2·4 per cent., more than in 1873-74; and the daily average of prisoners was 18,487, being 591, or 3·3 per cent., more than in the previous year. There were, in 1875, 111,210 prisoners under sentence of hard labour, or 2,707 more than in 1874. Of deaths from natural causes among prisoners, there were, as has been noticed, 272; of infirmary cases of sickness, 4,357; and of slight indisposition, 87,765. The cases of insanity numbered 211, or 16 more than in 1874; and the greatest number of sick at one time in 1875 was 1,756.

Punishments for infraction of prison discipline, &c., were inflicted as follows:—

Whipping	166
Iron or handcuffs	84
Solitary or dark cells	17,853
Stoppage of diet, &c.	39,482

57,585

This total shows an increase of 653 as compared with that for 1874; but in the number of whippings there is a decrease of 3.

OKE'S MAGISTERIAL SYNOPSIS.

OKE'S MAGISTERIAL SYNOPSIS: A PRACTICAL GUIDE FOR MAGISTRATES, THEIR CLERKS, SOLICITORS, AND CONSTABLES, &c., &c. Twelfth Edition. By THOMAS WILLIAM SAUNDERS, Esq., Barrister-at-Law, Recorder of Bath. In Two Vols. Butterworths.

All we can do in reviewing a new edition of a work, on the general plan of which the profession has justly conferred so distinguished a mark of approval as is involved in a twelfth edition, is to see whether the statutes and cases which have been passed and decided within the four years which have elapsed since the last edition have been duly incorporated. They appear, on the points on which we have tested the book, to have been noticed by Mr. Saunders with considerable care; we observe, however, some omissions—e.g., on p. 28, the case of Reg. v. Meyer (L. R. 1 Q. B. D. 172, reported also 24 W. R. 392), as to the disqualification of justices through interest or bias. Why the references are given to two sets only of general reports which do not include either the Law Reports or the WEEKLY REPORTER, we cannot imagine; the practice is apt to lead the editor to overlook cases, and it is most inconvenient to the subscriber to these publications to have to hunt up all the references to cases for himself. The legislation of 1876 is tabulated on the same plan as the rest of the work, but is placed by itself. As, however, careful references are given to it in the index, the inconvenience likely to be occasioned is reduced to a minimum, and the practitioner can easily note a reference in the few places in the body of the work where it will be required. The index has been very greatly improved, and has become a valuable feature of the work.

CUSTOMS LAWS.

THE LAWS OF THE CUSTOMS, CONSOLIDATED BY DIRECTION OF THE LORDS' COMMISSIONERS OF HER MAJESTY'S TREASURY (39 & 40 VICT. C. 36); WITH PRACTICAL NOTES AND REFERENCES THROUGHOUT, &c., &c. By FELIX JOHN HAMEL, Esq., Solicitor for her Majesty's Customs. Butterworths.

By issuing this handy edition of the Customs Laws Consolidation Act of last session Mr. Hamel has conferred a benefit on a very large class of the public, and has completed the work which that Act was intended to accomplish. The ease with which this important and bulky measure was passed through Parliament affords encouragement to the hope that no great difficulty would attend the passing of a series of similar consolidations of statute law, if executed with equal care. The new Act is described by Mr. Hamel as "a reproduction in a condensed form of all that has survived of its predecessor of 1853, combined with the various subsequent Customs enactments" which were scattered through, and intermixed with, enactments relating to the Inland Revenue and Excise. Mr. Hamel's book gives the Act in full, with brief annotations, cross-references, and references where necessary to the provisions of other Acts bearing upon the subject-matter of the sections. There are also given in the appendix the provisions of the former Act which have been excepted from the general repeal; portions of the Manufactured Tobacco Act; the Merchant Shipping Act, 1863, relating to entry, lien for freight, &c., and the Customs Tariff Act of last session. A copious index is added referring to the sections of the Consolidation Act. We must add a word of praise of the convenient form of the work, and of the excellent type adopted.

ELECTION LAW.

ROGERS ON ELECTIONS, REGISTRATION, AND ELECTION AGENCY; WITH AN APPENDIX OF STATUTES AND FORMS. Twelfth Edition. By F. S. P. WOLFERSTAN, Esq., Barrister-at-Law. Stevens & Sons.

This well-known book has in this edition undergone considerable alterations. The passing of the Ballot Act has necessitated the re-modelling of the chapters relating to election proceedings, and Mr. Wollerstan has added a new chapter on election agency, which contains a careful and valuable digest of the decisions and dicta on this thorny subject. At present nothing more can be done than to form such a digest; as Blackburn, J., said, in the Bridgewater case, "No one has yet been able to go farther than to say, as to some cases, enough has been established; as to others, enough has not been established, to vacate the seat." As to the other alterations in the work, so far as we have been able to test them, they appear to have been carefully done, and the cases are given down to a very late period.

CHANCERY DIVISION.

(Before FIELD, J.)*

Oct. 17.—Holmes v. The Borneo Company (Limited).

Partnership between an individual and a limited company—Appointment of receiver and manager of assets of the partnership.

This was a motion to restrain the defendant company from selling the property, assets, or effects of the Borneo branch of their business without the plaintiff's consent, and for the appointment of a receiver and manager.

The company was a registered company under the Joint Stock Companies Act, 1856.

The objects for which the company was established, as defined in the 4th article of association, were "to take and work mines, ores, veins, and seams of all descriptions of minerals in the Island of Borneo, . . . and to barter or sell the produce of such workings, . . . and to carry on business as general and commission merchants, shipowners, miners, agriculturists, and planters in any part or parts of the world, and in one place or several places at once, as the directors shall deem it expedient, and for such purposes it shall be part of the business of the company to do all such acts and have all such powers incidental to such purposes" as were set out in the subsequent clauses of the articles of association.

The company, under its powers, purchased an old-established business in Borneo, of which the plaintiff had been manager. After the purchase he continued to act for the company upon certain terms which were ultimately settled by an agreement of the 27th of December, 1866.

The material parts of the agreement were as follows:—

The plaintiff was to continue to act as the manager of the Borneo branch of the company's business as from the 31st of October, 1866, to do no business on his own account, and to act in all cases and at all times in subserviency to the instructions of the directors in London; to contribute towards the capital of the branch in proportion to his interest in the business, the profits remaining after paying the expenses of machinery, &c., to be divided between the company and the plaintiff in the proportion of two-thirds to the company and one-third to the plaintiff. At the termination of the agreement, whether by notice or common consent, or by transfer of the business, or death of the plaintiff, the assets of the branch, whether to be determined by common agreement, by sale, or by the valuation of arbitrators mutually chosen, and the profit or loss after liquidating all liabilities, was to be divided between the company and the plaintiff in the proportions mentioned. Either party was to be at liberty to terminate the agreement giving twelve months' notice to the other.

This agreement was subsequently ratified by a deed dated the 30th of December, 1868, under the seal of the company, to which the company and the plaintiff were parties.

On the 22nd of October, 1875, the company gave the plaintiff the twelve months' notice required by the agreement, announcing the termination of the agreement as from the 31st of October, 1876.

The company was proceeding to sell and dispose of the assets of the Borneo branch without the plaintiff's consent, and it was to prevent this that the present motion was brought.

W. Pearson, Q.C., and Warmington, for the plaintiff.—The agreement constituted an ordinary partnership between the company and plaintiff; that partnership has now been dissolved by the notice of the company. The plaintiff has the ordinary right upon dissolution to have a sale of the assets. The fact that one of the partners is a limited company can make no difference. The agreement of the 27th of December, 1866, is ratified by a deed under the seal of the company, and, therefore, must be assumed to be valid. The plaintiff is entitled to a receiver and manager as of right: Thompson v. Anderson, L. R. 9 Eq. 523; and the company has no right to sell property in which the plaintiff is interested to the extent of one-third without his consent.

Eddis, Q.C., and Bush, for the company, assented to the appointment of a receiver, but objected to a manager on the ground that this was a company formed under certain

Acts of Parliament for particular purposes defined in the memorandum and articles of association. The directors here assume to give to the plaintiff an interest in the assets, and he is now coming to the court to ask it to take away the management of the company from the directors—the persons to whom the Legislature had intrusted it for the benefit of all the shareholders. In cases analogous to this, e.g., corporations empowered to raise money by mortgage of their tolls or undertaking, the court has, at the request of the mortgagee or judgment creditor, granted a receiver, or allowed execution of a fitz fa, but has expressly reserved to the company its powers of management: De Winton v. Mayor of Brecon, 26 Beav. 533; Potts v. The Warwick and Birmingham Canal Company, Kay, 142; Gardiner v. London, Chatham, and Dover Railway, L. R. 2 Ch. 212, the judgment of Lord Cairns. There may be a question whether this agreement was not actually ultra vires the directors.

FIELD, J., held that it was a clear case for an injunction. There could be no doubt as to the existence of a partnership between the plaintiff and the company, and it could, in his opinion, make no difference that one of the partners was a limited company. This partnership was terminated by the acts of the defendant company itself; it had, of course, a perfect right so to terminate it under the agreement, the terms of which were very precise as to what was to be done upon the termination of the partnership. It was quite clear that the company had no right to sell the property without the plaintiff's consent, and he was accordingly entitled to an order for an injunction in the terms of the motion, and the appointment of a receiver and manager of the assets belonging to the plaintiff and the company under the agreement.

[V.C.M.—V.C.H.]

Winding up—Two petitions—Notice—Fiat—Irregular advertisements—Companies Act, 1862, ss. 79, 80, 85, 87; Gen. Ord. 1862, rr. 2, 53.

Where a company presented a petition and obtained a fitz for hearing in vacation, and a creditor, four days afterwards, presented a second petition, which was answered and advertised for November, but subsequently directed to be heard with the company's petition (the latter being supported by the majority of creditors).

The court refused to adjourn the hearing till November to enable the second petitioner to issue fresh advertisements and make out a case of collusion against the company, but made an order on the first petition, and dismissed the second with costs.

This company presented a petition on the 12th of October, which was answered (in accordance with an ex parte application) for the 24th inst., and duly advertised for that date. On the 17th of October Messrs. Wright & Co. presented a creditor's petition, which was answered and advertised on the same day in the usual manner for the first petition day in Michaelmas Sittings (the 3rd of November). Subsequently it was ordered by Field, J., on ex parte application, to come on for hearing with the company's petition, and was then advertised on the 20th of October for the 29th inst. This, however, was explained to be a printer's error for the 24th.

Higgins, Q.C., and Romer, for the company, submitted that their petition was perfectly good and regular, and that, as the company was admittedly insolvent, a winding-up order was a matter of course.

W. Pearson, Q.C., and Buckley, for Messrs. Wright & Co., and other creditors, to the amount of £570, asked that the company's petition might stand over and come on with the other in November, or that an order might now be made on both petitions. If time was given they would be able to bring evidence that the company's petition was collusive, and that circumstances existed which would induce the court to make no order on that petition. Even now they could prove that, since the petition was presented, advertisements and circulars had been issued calling an extraordinary meeting for the 14th of November to pass a resolution for voluntary winding up. If the second petition had not been presented the company would probably have asked for their petition to stand over till after the meeting, and would then have come for a supervision order. Their petition was evidently presented merely to oust any one else, and to obtain the rule of the road. That course of proceeding raised a strong suspicion that something existed concerning which the company wished to stifle inquiry. On the other hand, Messrs. Wright & Co. were bona fide trade creditors, and, as such, were entitled, ex debito justitia under section 79, after serving the statutory notice under section 80, to a compulsory order. There were only two exceptions to this rule:—(1) Where a company has expended a large capital which may, upon fair trial, prove remunerative, and there is a reasonable probability that the creditors will be paid earlier by giving the company time, the petition will be ordered to stand over: In re Western of Canada Oil, &c., Company, 22 W. R. 44, L. R. 17 Eq. 1—[see also In re St. Thomas Dock Company, 24 W. R. 544, L. R. 2 Ch. D. 116]; (2) Where there is a voluntary winding up in progress, and a supervision order will give the creditor ample protection. Neither of those exceptions applied to the present case.

Higgins, Q.C., and Romer, submitted that the first petition was perfectly regular, and contended that the second was irregular in every respect, and should be dismissed with costs. It was important to obtain an order as soon as possible to save expense; because, before the hearing, an application under section 85 would be necessary to stay every action; and after the order no action could be brought against the company: section 87. The second petition ought to be dismissed with costs, inasmuch as it was presented with distinct notice of the first, which had been advertised some days. When a person presents a second petition on the chance of the first not coming to a hearing, he does so at his own risk. Moreover, the advertisements were irregular; the seven days' notice required by Gen. ord., 1862, 2, had not been given, and the date was incorrect in both advertisements.

Bristow, Q.C., and Ferrers, for creditors, debenture-holders, and shareholders representing £1,000,000,

S. Dickinson, for other creditors, and Chubb, for stall-holders at the palace, supported the first petition.

W. Pearson, Q.C., submitted that the court had power under Gen. ord., 1862, r. 53, to dispense with the advertisements, and so cure any irregularity.

Huddleston, B., said that his Brother Field had not dispensed with the advertisements, but had merely ordered both petitions to be heard together. The most desirable course was to adopt the speediest mode of realizing and distributing the assets. The company's petition was supported by shareholders holding a very large stake in the concern, by the bankers, and a large majority of creditors, and it was quite obvious that the opposition to it was merely a struggle for the best chance of nominating an official liquidator. Collusion had been suggested, but not made out, and all were agreed that a winding-up was inevitable. He should, therefore, make the order on the first petition in point of time, as he felt convinced that that course would save a large amount of expense, litigation, and delay. As to the second petition he did not feel greatly impressed by the "bona fide creditor" argument; the interest of all bona fide creditors was to have a speedy winding up. He should therefore dismiss the second petition with costs, and make the usual order as to costs upon the first.

Solicitors for the company, Davies & Sons.

Solicitors for Wright & Co., Hillearys & Taylor.

Solicitors for Kell & Lucas, and other creditors, Markby, Tarry, & Stewart.

Solicitors for Barclay, Bevan, & Co., Janson, Cobb, & Pearson.

Solicitor for stall-holders, G. Thatcher.

In one of the western counties of Texas, say the Albany Law Journal, not long since, a man was tried and found not guilty of stealing a pig. In writing out the verdict, the foreman wrote "We fine the prisoner knot guilty." One of the jury wanted some slight change made in the spelling of the verdict, but the foreman whispered, "I know that spelling is sort of shaky, but you have to pander to the sheriff and the judge and the district clerk, for that's the way they all spell. If I was to spell a verdict right, and they were to find it out, the whole jury would be indicted next term of the court, and we would not even get our jury fee for this day's work. You see they have got the drop on us. Let us not exasperate them as long as they are in power."

Appointments, Etc.

Sir THOMAS CHAMBERS, Q.C., M.P., Common Serjeant of the City of London, has been appointed Returning Officer for the forthcoming Election of the School Board for London.

Mr. ALFRED HEALES, solicitor and proctor, of 45, Carter-lane, Doctors'-commons, has been appointed a Commissioner in England to take Affidavits in all Causes depending in the Supreme Court of the Colony of Victoria.

Mr. ROMESH CRUNDER MITTER, of Calcutta, has been appointed a Judge of the High Court of Judicature of Bengal, in succession to the late Mr. Justice Glover.

Mr. EDWARD BOYCE POMEROY, solicitor, of Wymondham, has been elected Clerk to the Foreshore Incorporation of the Poor. Mr. Pomeroy was admitted a solicitor in 1873.

Mr. GEORGE CHRISTOPHER ROBERTS, solicitor, has been elected an Alderman for the Borough of Kingston-upon-Hull. Mr. Roberts was admitted in 1854, and is in partnership with Mr. John Leak. For several years he has been town clerk of the borough, deputy-judge and registrar of the court of record, and steward of the corporation manor of Myton, from all which offices, except that of deputy-judge, he retired in February last. Previous to his appointment as town clerk, Mr. Roberts was an active member of the town council, first as councillor for South Myton ward, and subsequently as an alderman. Vacancies, the first in the council since February last, have recently occurred in both these offices, and the electors of the ward and the council have spontaneously elected him successively to both vacancies. Mr. Roberts was mayor of the borough in 1867-8.

Societies.

PLYMOUTH, STONEHOUSE, AND DEVON-PORT LAW STUDENTS' SOCIETY.

The annual meeting of this society was held in the Athenaeum on Friday evening, the 20th inst., the president (Mr. J. Shelly) in the chair. The report of the committee for the session 1875-6, which was read by the secretary (Mr. E. F. Fox), stated that the progress made by the society during the past session was highly satisfactory, and that there was every prospect of equal success in the future. Among the other points touched upon in it were proposals to discuss subjects of a more general character than hitherto, and to revise the rules, which were not thought to work well. The report, after an animated discussion, was, on the motion of the chairman, seconded by Mr. W. Adams, adopted and ordered to be printed and circulated among the members. The treasurer's report, which was presented by Mr. T. Wolferstan (hon. treasurer), and which showed a good balance in favour of the society, was also adopted. On the motion of the secretary, six new ordinary members were elected. The retiring officers were then re-elected, with the exception of Mr. Fox, who resigned the secretaryship. Mr. C. Matthews was afterwards elected to that office. A revision committee, consisting of Messrs. Benson, Fox, and Matthews, was appointed to revise the rules and to report on the same to the society. The proceedings closed with the usual vote of thanks to the officers of the past year, and special mention was made of the services rendered by Mr. Fox during his secretaryship.

A novel claim, says the Central Law Journal, has been filed in the Probate Court by the proprietor of an hotel in St. Louis. It is against the estate of a person who committed suicide in the claimant's hotel, by which he was greatly damaged in his business from the boarders leaving his house on account of the tragedy.

At a recent session of the court at Waco, Texas, says the Galveston News, a general knock down took place among the members of the bar. Judge Gerald, who was holding court, drew a revolver and therewith restored order. He then fined two of the offending lawyers 25dols. each, and another who was most prominent in the disturbance, 100dols.

THE MERCHANT SHIPPING ACTS, 1854 to 1876.

GENERAL RULES FOR FORMAL INVESTIGATIONS INTO SHIPPING CASUALTIES, 1876.

Whereas, by the Merchant Shipping Act, 1876, it is provided that the Lord High Chancellor of Great Britain may from time to time make general rules for carrying into effect the enactments relating to formal investigations into shipping casualties :

Now, therefore, I, the Right Honourable Hugh MacCormick, Baron Cairns, Lord High Chancellor of Great Britain, do order as follows :—

1. Short title.] These rules may be cited as "The Shipping Casualties Rules, 1876."

2. Commencement.] These rules shall come into operation on the 1st day of October, 1876.

3. Interpretation.] In the construction of these rules words importing the singular number shall include the plural, and words importing the plural number shall include the singular number; and the words "shipping casualty" shall have and include the meaning given to them in the Merchant Shipping Act, 1876; and the word "judge" shall mean the authority by whom any formal investigation into a shipping casualty is held.

4. Publication of rules.] These rules shall be published by her Majesty's Stationery Office through its agents, and a copy shall be kept at every Custom-house and mercantile marine office in the United Kingdom, and may be perused therat by the master or owner of any ship, and by any person deputed by him.

5. Notice of holding investigation.] When the Board of Trade has directed that a formal investigation into a shipping casualty shall take place, they shall cause a notice to be served upon the master and upon the certificated officers of the ship who were on board at the time of the happening of the casualty, in the form No. 1 in the appendix.

6. The Board of Trade may, if they think fit, cause a notice of the investigation to be served upon the owner, and also upon any other person who appears to have been in any way responsible for the casualty.

7. Parties.] The Board of Trade, and the defendant, hereinafter referred to, shall be parties to the proceedings.

8. Any person, having any interest in the investigation, shall, on filing an affidavit showing the nature of his interest, have a right to appear, and shall thereupon become a party to the proceedings.

9. Any other person may, by permission of the judge, appear, and shall thereupon become a party to the proceedings.

10. Notice to produce.] Either party may give to the other a notice in writing to produce such documents (saving all just exceptions) as relate to any matters in difference, and which are in the possession or control of such other party; and if such notice be not complied with, secondary evidence of the contents of the said documents may be given by or on behalf of the party who gave such notice.

11. Notice to admit.] Either party may give to the other party a notice in writing to admit any documents (saving all just exceptions); and in case of neglect or refusal to admit after such notice, the party so neglecting or refusing shall be liable for all the costs of proving such documents, whatever the result may be, unless the court is of opinion that the refusal to admit was reasonable; and no costs of proving any document shall be allowed unless such notice be given, except where the omission to give the notice is, in the opinion of the officer by whom the costs are taxed, a saving of expense.

12. Witnesses.] The wreck commissioner shall have power to issue subpoenas as nearly as may be in the form used in the High Court of Justice, and such subpoenas shall have effect, and may be served, in any part of the United Kingdom.

13. Affidavits.] Affidavits may, by permission of the judge, be used as evidence at the hearing, when sworn to in any of the following ways, viz.:

In the United Kingdom, before the judge, or before a person authorized to administer oaths in the Supreme Court of Judicature, or before a justice of the peace for a county or place where it is sworn or made.

In any place in the British dominions out of the United Kingdom, before any court, judge, or justice of the peace, or any person authorized to administer oaths there in any court.

In any place out of the British dominions, before a British Minister, consul, vice-consul, or notary public, or before a judge or magistrate, his signature being authenticated by the official seal of the court to which such judge or magistrate is attached.

14. Proceedings in court.] The proceedings shall commence with the examination of the master, officers, and any other person who was on board at the happening of the casualty, and, who can give material evidence in regard thereto.

15. On the completion of their examination, the Board of Trade shall state, in writing, whether they have any, and, if so, what charge to make against any person, and against whom.

16. Where the person against whom a charge is made, in these rules called the defendant, is in court, or before the court, the Board of Trade may make him a party to the proceedings by handing to him a copy of the charge.

17. Where the defendant is not in court, or before the court, the judge may, on the application of the Board of Trade, cause a summons to be served upon him in the form No. 2 in the appendix.

18. When the defendant has become a party to the proceedings, or when the time allowed for his appearance has expired, and he has not appeared, the Board of Trade shall produce any further witnesses whom they may wish to examine.

19. The defendant shall then produce any witnesses whom he may wish to examine.

20. The judge may then allow any further witnesses to be examined before him.

21. When the evidence is concluded, the defendant, and any parties who may have appeared, shall first be heard, and afterwards the Board of Trade.

22. The judge may adjourn the court from time to time, and from place to place, as may be most convenient.

23. The judge may deliver the decision of the court either vis à vis or in writing; and, if in writing, it may be sent or delivered to the respective parties, and it shall not be necessary to hold a court merely for the purpose of giving the decision.

24. If, however, the judge decides that the certificate of any officer is to be cancelled or suspended, he shall give his decision in open court.

25. The judge may, if he thinks fit, order the costs and expenses of the proceedings, or any part thereof, to be paid by the Board of Trade, or by the parties to the proceedings, or by any one or more of them, in the form No. 3 in the appendix.

26. The judge shall report to the Board of Trade in the form No. 4 in the appendix.

27. Computation of time.] In computing the number of days within which any act is to be done, the same shall be reckoned exclusive of the first day and inclusive of the last day, unless the last day shall happen to fall on a Sunday, Christmas-day, or Good Friday, or on a day appointed for a public fast or thanksgiving, in which case the time shall be reckoned exclusive of that day also.

28. The days between Thursday next before and the Wednesday next after Easter-day and Christmas-day, and the three following days, shall not be reckoned or included in the computation.

29. Service of notices, &c. Any notice, summons, or other document issuing out of the court may be served by post.

30. The service of any notice, summons, or other document may be proved by the oath or affidavit of the person by whom it was served.

Dated this 29th day of September, 1876.

9. Repeal of enactments in schedule.] The enactments relating to income tax specified in the schedule to this Act are hereby repealed.

CAP. XVII.

An Act to amend "The Partition Act, 1868."
[27th June, 1876.]

Be it enacted, &c. :

1. Short title. This Act may be cited as "The Partition Act, 1876," and shall be read as one with "The Partition Act, 1868."

2. Application of Act. This Act shall apply to actions pending at the time of the passing of this Act as well as to actions commenced after the passing thereof, and the term "action" includes a suit, and the term "judgment" includes decree or order.

3. Power to dispense with service of notice of decree or order in special cases. Where in an action for partition it appears to the court that notice of the judgment on the hearing of the cause cannot be served on all the persons on whom that notice is by "The Partition Act, 1868," required to be served, or cannot be so served without expense disproportionate to the value of the property to which the action relates, the court may, if it thinks fit, on the request of any of the parties interested in the property, and notwithstanding the dissent or disability of any others of them, by order, dispense with that service on any person or class of persons specified in the order, and, instead thereof, may direct advertisements to be published at such times and in such manner as the court shall think fit, calling upon all persons claiming to be interested in such property who have not been so served to come in and establish their respective claims in respect thereof before the judge in chambers within a time to be thereby limited. After the expiration of the time so limited all persons who shall not have so come in and established such claims, whether they are within or without the jurisdiction of the court (including persons under any disability), shall be bound by the proceedings in the action as if on the day of the date of the order dispensing with service they had been served with notice of the judgment, service whereof is dispensed with; and thereupon the powers of the court under "The Trustee Act, 1850," shall extend to their interests in the property to which the action relates as if they had been parties to the action; and the court may thereupon, if it shall think fit, direct a sale of the property, and give all necessary or proper consequential directions.

4. Proceedings where service is dispensed with. Where an order is made under this Act dispensing with service of notice on any person or class of persons, and property is sold by order of the court, the following provisions shall have effect:

- (1) The proceeds of sale shall be paid into court to abide the further order of the court:
- (2) The court shall, by order, fix a time, at the expiration of which the proceeds will be distributed, and may from time to time, by further order, extend that time:
- (3) The court shall direct such notices to be given by advertisements or otherwise as it thinks best adapted for notifying to any persons on whom service is dispensed with, who may not have previously come in and established their claims, the fact of the sale, the time of the intended distribution, and the time within which a claim to participate in the proceeds must be made:
- (4) If at the expiration of the time so fixed or extended the interests of all the persons interested have been ascertained, the court shall distribute the proceeds in accordance with the rights of those persons:
- (5) If at the expiration of the time so fixed or extended the interests of all the persons interested have not been ascertained, and it appears to the court that they cannot be ascertained, or cannot be ascertained without expense disproportionate to the value of the property or of the unascertained interests, the court shall distribute the proceeds in such manner as appears to the court to be most in accordance with the rights of the persons whose claims to participate in the proceeds have been established, whether all those persons are or are not before the court, and with such reservations (if any) as to the court may seem fit in favour of any other persons (whether ascertained or not) who may appear from the evidence before the court to have any prima facie rights which ought to be so provided for, although such rights may not have been fully established, but is the exclusion of all other persons, and thereupon all such other persons shall by virtue of this Act be excluded from participation in those proceeds on the distribution thereof, but notwithstanding the distribution any excluded person may recover from any participating person any portion received by him of the share of the excluded person.

5. Provision for case of successive sales in same action. Where in an action for partition two or more sales are made, if any person who has by virtue of this Act been excluded from participation in the proceeds of any of those sales establishes his claim to participate in the proceeds of a subsequent sale, the shares of the other persons interested in the proceeds of the subsequent sale shall abate to the extent (if any) to which they were increased by the non-participation of the excluded person in the proceeds of the previous sale, and shall to that extent be applied in or towards payment to that person of the share to which he would have been entitled in the proceeds of the previous sale if his claim thereto had been established in due time.

6. Request by married woman, infant, or person under disability. In an action for partition a request for sale may be made, or an undertaking to purchase given, on the part of a married woman, infant, person of unsound mind, or person under any other disability, by the next friend, guardian, committee in lunacy (if so authorized by order in lunacy), or other person authorized to act on behalf of the person under such disability, but the court shall not be bound to comply with any such request or undertaking on the part of an infant unless it appear that the sale or purchase will be for his benefit.

7. Action for partition to include action for sale and distribution of the proceeds. For the purposes of "The Partition Act, 1868," and of this Act, an action for partition shall include an action for sale and distribution of the proceeds, and in an action for partition it shall be sufficient to claim a sale and distribution of the proceeds, and it shall not be necessary to claim a partition.

CAP. XVIII.

An Act to incorporate the Solicitor for the affairs of her Majesty's Treasury, and make further provision respecting the grant of the administration of the Estates of deceased persons for the use of her Majesty.

[27th June, 1876.]

Be it enacted, &c. :

1. Treasury Solicitor constituted a corporation sole. The person for the time being holding the office of Solicitor for the affairs of her Majesty's Treasury (in this Act referred to as the Treasury Solicitor) shall be a corporation sole by the name of the Solicitor for the affairs of her Majesty's Treasury, and by that name shall have perpetual succession, with a capacity to acquire and hold in that name lands, Government securities, shares in any public company, securities for money, and real and personal property of every description, to sue and be sued, to execute deeds, using an official seal, to make leases, to enter into engagements binding on himself and his successors in office, and to do all other acts necessary or expedient to be done in the execution of the duties of his office.

CAP. XXII.

An Act to amend "The Trade Union Act, 1871."
[30th June, 1876.]

Whereas it is expedient to amend "The Trade Union Act, 1871":

Be it enacted, &c.:

1. Construction and short title.] This Act and "The Trade Union Act, 1871," hereinafter termed the principal Act, shall be construed as one Act, and may be cited together as "The Trade Union Acts, 1871 and 1876," and this Act may be cited separately as "The Trade Union Act Amendment Act, 1876."

2. Trade Unions to be within s. 28 of "Friendly Societies Act, 1875."] Notwithstanding anything in section five of the principal Act contained, a trade union, whether registered or unregistered, which insures or pays money on the death of a child under ten years of age, shall be deemed to be within the provisions of section twenty-eight of "The Friendly Societies Act, 1875."

3. Amendment of s. 8 of principal Act.] Whereas by section eight of the principal Act it is enacted that "the real or personal estate of any branch of a trade union shall be vested in the trustees of such branch," the said section shall be read and construed as if, immediately after the hereinbefore recited words, there were inserted the words "or of the trustees of the trade union, if the rules of the trade union so provide."

4. Provision in case of absence, &c., of trustee.] When any person, being or having been a trustee of a trade union or of any branch of a trade union, and whether appointed before or after the legal establishment thereof, in whose name any stock belonging to such union or branch transferable at the Bank of England or Bank of Ireland is standing, either jointly with another or others, or solely, is absent from Great Britain or Ireland respectively, or becomes bankrupt, or files any petition, or executes any deed for liquidation of his affairs by assignement or arrangement, or for composition with his creditors, or becomes a lunatic, or is dead, or has been removed from his office of trustee, or if it be unknown whether such person is living or dead, the registrar, on application in writing from the secretary and three members of the union or branch, and on proof satisfactory to him, may direct the transfer of the stock into the names of any other persons as trustees for the union or branch; and such transfer shall be made by the surviving or continuing trustees, and if there be no such trustee, or if such trustees refuse or be unable to make such transfer, and the registrar so direct, then by the Accountant-General or Deputy or Assistant Accountant-General of the Bank of England or Bank of Ireland, as the case may be; and the Governors and Companies of the Bank of England and Bank of Ireland respectively are hereby indemnified for anything done by them or any of their officers in pursuance of this provision against any claim or demand of any person injuriously affected thereby.

5. Jurisdiction in offences.] The jurisdiction conferred in the case of certain offences by section twelve of the principal Act upon the court of summary jurisdiction for the place in which the registered office of a trade union is situate may be exercised either by that court or by the court of summary jurisdiction for the place where the offence has been committed.

6. Registry of unions doing business in more than one country.] Trade unions carrying or intending to carry on business in more than one country shall be registered in the country in which their registered office is situate; but copies of the rules of such unions, and of all amendments of the same, shall, when registered, be sent to the registrar of each of the other countries, to be recorded by him, and until such rules be so recorded the union shall not be entitled to any of the privileges of this Act or the principal Act in the country in which such rules have not been recorded, and until such amendments of rules be recorded the same shall not take effect in such country.

In this section "country" means England, Scotland, or Ireland.

7. Life Assurance Companies Acts not to apply to registered unions.] Whereas by "The Life Assurance Companies Act, 1870," it is provided that the said Act shall not apply to societies registered under the Acts relating to friendly societies, the said Act (or the amending Acts) shall not apply nor be deemed to have applied to trade unions registered or to be registered under the principal Act.

8. Withdrawal or cancelling of certificate.] No certificate or registration of a trade union shall be withdrawn or cancelled otherwise than by the chief Registrar of Friendly Societies, or in the case of trade unions registered and doing business exclusively in Scotland or Ireland, by the assistant-registrar for Scotland or Ireland, and in the following cases:

- (1) At the request of the trade union to be evidenced in such manner as such chief or assistant registrar shall from time to time direct:
- (2) On proof to his satisfaction that a certificate of registration has been obtained by fraud or mistake, or that the registration of the trade union has become void under section six of "The Trade Union Act, 1871," or that such trade union has wilfully, and after notice from a registrar whom it may concern, violated any of the provisions of the Trade Union Acts, & has ceased to exist.

Not less than two months' previous notice in writing, specifying briefly the ground of any proposed withdrawal or cancelling of certificate (unless where the same is shown to have become void as aforesaid, in which case it shall be the duty of the chief or assistant registrar to cancel the same forthwith) shall be given by the chief or assistant registrar to a trade union before the certificate of registration of the same can be withdrawn or cancelled (except at its request).

A trade union whose certificate of registration has been withdrawn or cancelled shall, from the time of such withdrawal or cancelling, absolutely cease to enjoy as such the privileges of a registered trade union; but without prejudice to any liability actually incurred by such trade union, which may be enforced against the same as if such withdrawal or cancelling had not taken place.

9. Membership of minors.] A person under the age of twenty-one, but above the age of sixteen, may be a member of a trade union, unless provision be made in the rules thereof to the contrary, and may, subject to the rules of the trade union, enjoy all the rights of a member except as herein provided, and execute all instruments and give all acquittances necessary to be executed or given under the rules, but shall not be a member of the committee of management, trustee, or treasurer of the trade union.

10. Nomination.] A member of a trade union not being under the age of sixteen years may, by writing under his hand, delivered at, or sent to, the registered office of the trade union, nominate any person not being an officer or servant of the trade union (unless such officer or servant is the husband, wife, father, mother, child, brother, sister, nephew, or niece of the nominator), to whom any money payable on the death of such member, not exceeding fifty pounds, shall be paid at his decease, and may from time to time revoke or vary such nomination by a writing under his hand similarly delivered or sent; and on receiving satisfactory proof of the death of a nominator, the trade union shall pay to the nominee the amount due to the deceased member not exceeding the sum aforesaid.

11. Change of name.] A trade union may, with the approval in writing of the chief Registrar of Friendly Societies, or in the case of trade unions registered and doing business exclusively in Scotland or Ireland, of the assistant-registrar for Scotland or Ireland respectively, change its name by the consent of not less than two-thirds of the total number of members.

No change of name shall affect any right or obligation of the trade union or of any member thereof, and any pending legal proceedings may be continued by or against the trustees of the trade union, or any other officer who may sue or be sued on behalf of such trade union notwithstanding its new name.

12. Amalgamation.] Any two or more trade unions may by the consent of not less than two-thirds of the members of each or every such trade union, become amalgamated

13. Registration of changes of names and amalgamations.] Notice in writing of every change of name or amalgamation signed, in the case of a change of name, by seven members, and countersigned by the secretary of the trade union changing its name, and accompanied by a statutory declaration by such secretary that the provisions of this Act in respect of changes of name have been complied with, and in the case of an amalgamation signed by seven members, and countersigned by the secretary of each or every union party thereto, and accompanied by a statutory declaration by each or every such secretary that the provisions of this Act in respect of amalgamations have been complied with, shall be sent to the central office established by "The Friendly Societies Act, 1875," and registered there, and until such change of name or amalgamation is so registered the same shall not take effect.

14. Dissolution.] The rules of every trade union shall provide for the manner of dissolving the same, and notice of every dissolution of a trade union under the hand of the secretary and seven members of the same, shall be sent within fourteen days thereafter to the central office hereinbefore mentioned, or, in the case of trade unions registered and doing business exclusively in Scotland or Ireland, to the assistant-registrar for Scotland or Ireland respectively, and shall be registered by them: Provided, that the rules of any trade union registered before the passing of this Act shall not be invalidated by the absence of a provision for dissolution.

15. Penalty for failure to give notice.] A trade union which fails to give any notice or send any document which it is required by this Act to give or send, and every officer or other person bound by the rules thereof to give or send the same, or if there be no such officer, then every member of the committee of management of the union, unless proved to have been ignorant of, or to have attempted to prevent the omission to give or send the same, is liable to a penalty of not less than one pound, and not more than five pounds, recoverable at the suit of the chief or any assistant registrar of friendly societies, or of any person aggrieved, and to an additional penalty of the like amount for each week during which the omission continues.

16. Definition of "trade union" altered.] So much of section twenty-three of the principal Act as defines the term trade union, except the proviso qualifying such definition, is hereby repealed, and in lieu thereof be it enacted as follows:—

The term "trade union" means any combination, whether temporary or permanent, for regulating the relations between workmen and masters, or between workmen and workmen, or between masters and masters, or for imposing restrictive conditions on the conduct of any trade or business, whether such combination would or would not, if the principal Act had not been passed, have been deemed to have been an unlawful combination by reason of some one or more of its purposes being in restraint of trade.

[13th July, 1876.]

Whereas by "The Prevention of Crimes Act, 1871," all persons convicted of crime in the United Kingdom are required to be registered and photographed, and unnecessary expense is thereby incurred:

Be it enacted, &c.:—

1. Short title of Act.] This Act may be cited for all purposes as "The Prevention of Crimes Amendment Act, 1876."

2. Restriction on obligation to register and photograph criminals.] In Great Britain the Secretary of State, and in Ireland the Lord Lieutenant, may from time to time by order prescribe the class or classes of prisoners to which the enactments of "The Prevention of Crimes Act, 1871," relating to registry and photographing, are for the time being to apply; and such enactments shall, so long as any such orders are in force, be deemed to apply to the prescribed class or classes of prisoners only, and not to all persons convicted of crime.

CAP. XXVIII.

An Act to amend "The Court of Admiralty (Ireland) Act, 1867," and confer a more extended Admiralty Jurisdiction on the Recorders of Cork and Belfast.

[13th July, 1876.]

Whereas it is expedient to extend the jurisdiction in admiralty conferred by "The Court of Admiralty (Ireland) Act, 1867" (in this Act referred to as "the principal Act") upon the recorders of the boroughs of Cork and Belfast:

Be it enacted, &c.:—

1. Short title.] This Act may be cited as "The Court of Admiralty (Ireland) Amendment Act, 1876."

2. Construction of Act.] The principal Act as amended by this Act and this Act shall be construed together as one Act.

3. Admiralty jurisdiction of Recorders of Cork and Belfast.] The district within which admiralty jurisdiction may be exercised by the court of the recorder of the borough of Cork shall be the county of Cork, with the parts of the sea adjacent to the same to a distance of three miles from the shore thereof; and the district within which admiralty jurisdiction may be exercised by the court of the recorder of the borough of Belfast shall be the counties of Antrim and Down, with the parts of the sea adjacent to the same to a distance of three miles from the shore thereof.

In addition to any jurisdiction conferred by the principal Act upon these courts, each of them shall have all such jurisdiction, power, and authority as may be necessary for the trial and determination of any cause relating to all or any of the matters following (in this Act referred to as an "admiralty cause"):

(1) As to any claim for salvage, any cause in which the value of the property saved does not exceed one thousand four hundred pounds, or in which the amount claimed does not exceed four hundred pounds;

(2) As to any claim arising out of any agreement made for or in relation to the use or hire of any ship, or for or in relation to the carriage of goods in any ship, and also as to any claim in tort in respect of goods carried in any ship, provided the amount claimed does not exceed four hundred pounds;

(3) In all cases where jurisdiction is given by the principal Act to the local court, and where the amount claimed does not exceed four hundred pounds : (4) Any cause in respect of any such claims as aforesaid, in which the value of the property saved or the amount claimed is beyond the amount limited as above mentioned, when the parties agree by a memorandum, signed by them or by their attorneys or agents, that the court shall have jurisdiction, and hear and determine the same.

4. Power to arrest and hold to bail.] Each of the said courts shall have jurisdiction to hold to bail, notwithstanding that the amount sued for in the cause shall exceed the limit fixed by the principal Act or by this Act ; but in such cases the cause shall in other respects be subject to the provisions of the thirty-seventh section of the principal Act, and the registrars, or officers acting as registrars, in the said courts shall have the same powers within their jurisdiction as are conferred on registrars by section forty-six of the principal Act.

5. Bail in certain cases.] If a ship or goods shall be arrested, by a warrant from the High Court of Admiralty in Ireland, within a district subject to the jurisdiction of the court of either of the said recorders (except in the case of final execution), bail may be given in the court of the recorder in whose district the same shall have been arrested in like manner as is provided for by the preceding section ; and such recorder shall have in respect of the proceedings for that purpose the same authority and power as the judge of the High Court of Admiralty, subject, however, upon appeal, to the control and direction of the said judge, and the provisions of section forty-seven of the principal Act shall apply in all cases of arrest under this Act.

6. Power to change venue.] The High Court of Admiralty, on motion by any party to an admiralty cause pending in such High Court, may, if it thinks fit, transfer the cause to either of the said recorders' courts, on such terms (if any) as to security for costs or otherwise as said High Court may direct.

7. Procedure.] The mode of procedure in the courts of the said recorders in admiralty causes, and the scale of costs and charges to be payable in respect of admiralty business in such courts, shall be regulated and fixed by rules and orders to be made by the Lord Chancellor, with the concurrence of the said recorders or one of them.

The Lord Chancellor, with the concurrence of the Commissioners of her Majesty's Treasury, may also fix and determine what court and office fees shall be payable in respect of such business, and such fees shall be received and accounted for in the manner provided in the one hundred and fourteenth and one hundred and fifteenth sections of the principal Act.

8. Nautical assessors in recorders' courts.] On the hearing of any admiralty cause by any one of the said recorders, such recorder shall have power to call to his assistance one or more nautical assessor or assessors, to be selected by him ; and the advice and opinion of such nautical assessor or assessors may be taken by the said recorder in the same manner as is in use in the High Court of Admiralty (Ireland) ; and such recorder shall have power to direct what remuneration shall be paid to each such assessor for his attendance, and to order the same to be paid by such of the parties to the cause as he shall think just.

9. Courts for hearing admiralty causes.] The said recorders respectively shall hear and determine admiralty causes at the usual courts held within their jurisdiction, or at special courts to be held by them, and which they are hereby required to hold as soon as conveniently may be, after they shall respectively have had notice of issue being joined in an admiralty cause arising within the jurisdiction of their respective courts.

10. In certain cases may sue by civil bill.] When the amount or value in dispute shall not exceed fifty pounds, the same may be sued for by civil bill process, and the proceedings conducted in the same manner and subject to the same rules as are applicable to other actions by civil bill.

11. Additional salaries.] It shall be lawful for the Commissioners of her Majesty's Treasury, if they shall think fit, with the consent of the Lord Lieutenant or other chief governor or governors of Ireland, to award to each of the said recorders or either of them, as remuneration for any additional duty imposed upon them by this Act or by the principal Act, such annual or other sums as they shall deem reasonable, and such sums shall be paid out of moneys which shall be provided by Parliament for the purpose.

12. Power to appoint marshals.] It shall be lawful for each of the said recorders, with the approval of the Lord Chancellor, to appoint some officer of his court, or other fit person, to act as marshal within the district over which such recorder has jurisdiction ; and such person shall, while acting as such marshal, have, exercise, and be subject to the like jurisdiction, powers, authorities, and liabilities within such district as the marshal of the High Court of Admiralty in Ireland ; and such person, while acting as such marshal as aforesaid shall be entitled to claim and receive such fees in respect of admiralty business as from time to time the Lord Chancellor, with the approval of the Commissioners of her Majesty's Treasury, shall order and direct.

The registrar and other officers of the courts of said recorders may also receive, for their own use, such fees in respect of admiralty business as the Lord Chancellor with such concurrence as aforesaid may direct.

Every officer receiving fees shall keep an account of the fees received by him, and shall be bound, when required, to furnish to the Commissioners of her Majesty's Treasury an account of his receipts : Provided that it shall be lawful for said commissioners at any time to order that such officers shall be paid by salaries instead of fees, and to fix the salaries, and thereupon the fees paid to such officer shall be paid into the Exchequer at such times and under such regulations as the said commissioners shall direct, and the salaries of such officers shall be paid out of moneys to be provided by Parliament.

In causes transmitted from the court of either of the said recorders to the High Court of Admiralty, the person for the time being appointed by such recorder to act as marshal in the district subject to his jurisdiction shall be subject to, and bound to obey, the judge of the High Court of Admiralty.

The marshal of the High Court of Admiralty shall act only in proceedings in the High Court.

13. Registrar to appoint deputy in case of illness, &c.] In case of the illness or unavoidable absence of any person who, at the time of the passing of this Act, shall hold the office of registrar of either of the said courts, it shall be lawful for such registrar from time to time to appoint a good and sufficient deputy, subject to the approval of the Lord Chancellor, to act during the illness or unavoidable absence of such registrar in his place and for the discharge of the duties by this Act imposed upon such registrar, but not further or otherwise.

The registrar appointing any deputy under this section shall pay the remuneration of such deputy, and shall continue liable notwithstanding such appointment for the due discharge of the duties of this Act imposed upon such registrar.

14. Appeal.] An appeal shall lie from decrees and orders made in admiralty causes within the provisions of this Act to the same tribunal, and in the same manner, and subject to the same rules as are provided in the principal Act in reference to cases within the jurisdiction of local courts, and the several provisions of the principal Act in relation to local courts (except when the same shall be inconsistent with the provisions of this Act) shall apply to causes and proceedings under this Act.

15. Amendment of thirty-seventh section of principal Act.] The jurisdiction conferred by the thirty-seventh section of the principal Act upon the High Court of Admiralty shall be and is hereby extended to goods shipped upon or carried by, or about to be shipped upon or carried by, any ship from any port in Ireland.

This jurisdiction, as extended, may and shall be exercised by the recorders of the borough of Cork and Belfast respectively, where the amount claimed does not exceed four hundred pounds.

16. Additional jurisdiction given to the High Court of Admiralty.] After the passing of this Act the High Court of Admiralty shall have jurisdiction to decide all claims arising out of any agreement made for or in relation to the use or hire of any ship, or for or in relation to the carriage of goods in any ship, and also all claims in tort in respect of goods carried in any ship.

CAP. XXIX.

An Act for the Preservation of Wild Fowl.

[24th July, 1876.]

Whereas the wild fowl of the United Kingdom, forming a staple article of food and commerce, have of late years greatly decreased in number by reason of their being indiscriminately slaughtered during the time that they have eggs and young; and whereas owing to their marketable value the protection accorded to them by the Act of the thirty-fifth and thirty-sixth years of the reign of her present Majesty, chapter seventy-eight, intituled "An Act for the Protection of Certain Wild Birds during the Breeding Season," is insufficient; it is expedient therefore to provide for their further protection during the breeding season:

Be it enacted, &c.:

1. Definition of terms.—[The words "wild fowl" shall for all the purposes of this Act be deemed to include the different species of avocet, curlew, dotterel, dunbird, dunlin, godwit, greenshank, lapwing, mallard, oxbird, pewit, phalarope, plover, plover's-page, pochard, purre, redshank, reeve or ruff, sandpiper, sandpiper, sealark, shoveller, snipe, spoonbill, stint, stone-curlew, stonchatch, summer-snipe, teal, thick-knee, whamp, whimbrel, widgson, wild duck, wild goose, and woodcock; the word "sheriff" shall include steward and also sheriff substitute and steward substitute.

2. Season during which wild fowl shall not be killed.—Penalty.—[Any person who shall kill, wound, or attempt to kill or wound, or take any wild fowl, or use any boat, gun, net, or other engine or instrument for the purpose of killing, wounding, or taking any wild fowl, or shall have in his control or possession any wild fowl recently killed, wounded, or taken between the fifteenth day of February and the tenth day of July in any year, shall, on conviction of any such offence before any justice or justices of the peace in England or Ireland, or before the sheriff or any justice or justices of the peace in Scotland, forfeit and pay for every such wild fowl so killed, wounded, or taken, or so in his possession, such sum of money not exceeding one pound as to the said justices or sheriff shall seem meet, together with the costs of the conviction.

[24th July, 1876.]

Whereas by section fourteen of "The Settled Estates Act of 1856" (19 and 20 Victoria, chapter 120), herein called the principal Act, it is enacted that it shall be lawful for the court, if it shall deem it proper and consistent with a due regard for the interests of all parties entitled under the settlement, and subject to the provisions and restrictions in the principal Act contained, from time to time to direct that any part of any settled estates be laid out for streets, roads, paths, squares, gardens, or other open spaces, sewers, drains, or water-courses, either to be dedicated to the public or not: And whereas difficulty in the exercise of the said power has arisen for want of sufficient power to direct the said streets and other works to be made and executed, and to provide for the expenses incurred in relation thereto, and it is expedient to amend the principal Act accordingly:

Be it enacted, &c.:

1. Making and executing, and expenses of laying out and making and executing, streets, roads, and other works.—[Where under section fourteen of the principal Act any part of any settled estates is directed to be laid out for streets, roads, paths, squares, gardens, or other open spaces, sewers, drains, or watercourses, either to be dedicated to the public or not, the court may direct that any such streets, roads, paths, squares, gardens, or other open spaces, sewers, drains, or watercourses, including all necessary or proper fences, pavings, connections, and other works incidental thereto respectively, be made and executed, and that all or any part of the expenses in relation to such laying out and making and execution be raised and paid by means of a sale or mortgage of, or charge upon, all or any part of the settled estates, or out of any moneys or investments representing moneys liable to be laid out in the purchase of hereditaments to be settled in the same manner as the settled estates.

38 & 39 Vict. c. 91.] Whereas by "The Trade-Marks Registration Act, 1875," in this Act referred to as the pripal Act, it is provided that from and after the first day of July, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-six, a person shall not be entitled to institute any proceeding to prevent the infringement of any trade-mark as defined by the principal Act until and unless such trade-mark is registered in pursuance of that Act:

And whereas by reason of the number of trade-marks, and especially by reason of the difficulties attending the registration of trade-marks in relation to textile fabrics, it has been found impossible to complete the registration of existing trade-marks within the time specified by the said section; and it is therefore expedient to prolong the time for the completion of such registration as aforesaid, and otherwise to amend the principal Act:

1. Amendment of s. 1 of the principal Act.—There shall be repealed so much of section one of the principal Act as provides that from and after the first day of July, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-six, a person shall not be entitled to institute any proceeding to prevent the infringement of any trade-mark as defined by that Act until and unless such trade-mark is registered in pursuance of that Act, and in place thereof be it enacted that—

From and after the first day of July, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-seven, a person shall not be entitled to institute any proceeding to prevent or to recover damages for the infringement of any trade-mark as defined by the principal Act until and unless such trade-mark is registered in pursuance of that Act, or until and unless, with respect to any device, mark, name, combination of words, or other matter or thing in use as a trade-mark before the passing of the principal Act, registration thereof as a trade-mark under the principal Act shall have been refused as hereinafter is mentioned.

2. Saving of marks and devices not capable of being registered under Act.—When an application by any person to register as a trade-mark a device, mark, name, word, combination of words, or other matter or thing proposed for registration as a trade-mark, which has been in use as a trade-mark before the passing of the recited Act, has been refused, it shall be the duty of the registrar, on request, and on payment of the prescribed fee, to give to the applicant a certificate of such refusal, and a certificate so granted shall be conclusive evidence of such refusal.

3. Short title.—This Act may be cited for all purposes as "The Trade-Marks Registration Amendment Act, 1876."

CAP. XXXIV.

And whereas it is expedient to amend the law relating to elver fishing:

Be it enacted, &c.:

1. Repeal of part of 15th section of 36 & 37 Vict. c. 71.—From and after the passing of this Act, so much of the fifteenth section of "The Salmon Fishery Act, 1873," as prohibits the taking of elvers or the fry of eels shall be and the same is hereby repealed.

CAP. LVI.

An Act for facilitating the Regulation and Improvement of Commons, and for amending the Acts relating to the Inclosure of Commons.

[11th August, 1876.]

Whereas by the Inclosure Acts, 1845 to 1868, upon the application and with the consent of such of the persons interested in any common as in the said Acts in that behalf specified, the Inclosure Commissioners are empowered by provisional order under their seal to authorize the inclosure of such common, provided such inclosure is made on such terms and conditions as may appear to the commissioners to be proper for the protection of any public interests, and provided also that the commissioners are of opinion that such inclosure would be expedient, having regard as well to the health, comfort, and convenience of the inhabitants of any cities, towns, villages, or populous places in or near any parish in which the land proposed to be inclosed, or any part thereof, may be situate (hereinafter included under the expression the benefit of the neighbourhood), as to the advantage of the persons interested in the common to which such application relates (hereinafter included under the expression private interests); but such provisional order is of no validity until and unless the commissioners have in a report to be laid before Parliament certified that in their opinion the inclosure of such common, if made on the terms and conditions in their provisional order expressed, would be expedient, having regard to the benefit of the neighbourhood as well as to such private interests as aforesaid, nor until and unless an Act of Parliament has been passed confirming such order and affirming such certificate as aforesaid, and directing that the proposed inclosure of the common should be proceeded with accordingly:

And whereas by the said Inclosure Acts, information is required to be supplied and inquiries to be made for the purpose of enabling the Inclosure Commissioners to judge of such expediency as aforesaid, but it is desirable to make further provisions for bringing under the notice of the said commissioners and of Parliament any circumstances bearing on the expediency of allowing the inclosure of a common, and that inclosure in severity as opposed to regulation of commons should not be hereinafter made unless it can be proved to the satisfaction of the said commissioners and of Parliament that such inclosure will be of benefit to the neighbourhood as well as to private interests, and to those who are legally interested in any such commons:

And whereas by the said Inclosure Acts the commissioners are empowered in the case of a common being waste land of a manor to require, and in their provisional order to specify as one of the conditions of inclosure, the appropriation of an allotment for the purposes of exercise and recreation by the inhabitants of the neighbourhood, and also of an allotment for the labouring poor, and it is expedient to give further effect to the provisions relating to the said allotments (in this Act referred to as allotments for recreation grounds and field gardens):

And whereas it is expedient to give further facilities for enabling the Inclosure Commissioners to regulate, improve, stint, and otherwise deal with commons without wholly inclosing and allotting the same in severity:

Be it enacted, &c.:

1. Short title.] This Act may be cited for all purposes as "The Commons Act, 1876."

PART I.

(2) For the inclosure of a common or parts of a common; Further, an application may be made as respects the same common for the regulation of part of such common, specifying the part to be regulated, and for the inclosure of the residue, and in such case the application shall be dealt with as respects such parts as if they were separate commons, with this exception, that the boundaries as proposed in the application of the part to be regulated and the part to be inclosed may be modified by the provisional order.

The commissioners shall not proceed to carry any application under this Act into effect until it is made to appear to them that the persons making the application represent at least one-third in value of such interests in the common as are proposed to be affected by the provisional order.

3. "Regulation of commons" includes adjustment of rights and improvement.] A provisional order for the regulation of a common may provide, generally or otherwise, for the adjustment of rights in respect of such common, and for the improvement of such common, or for either of such purposes, or for any of the things by this Act comprised under the expression "adjustment of rights" or "improvement of a common," or may state that all or any of such subjects are to be provided for in the proceedings subsequent to the confirmation of the provisional order by Parliament.

which, and the times at which such rights are to be exercised, also on compensation made to any person aggrieved, either by grant of a right of equal value, or, with his consent in writing, in money—the restriction, modification, or abolition of all or any of such rights which may permanently injure the common;

- (3) As respects rights of common in land which is not waste land of a manor—the stinting or other determination of such rights, and the persons by whom, and the mode in which, and the times at which such rights are to be exercised, as also on compensation made to any person aggrieved, either by grant of a right of equal value, or, with his consent in writing, in money—the restriction, modification, or abolition of all or any of such rights which may be injurious to the general body of the commoners or to the proper cultivation of the land;
- (4) As respects any common whether it is or is not waste land of a manor—the determination of the rights and obligations of the lord of the manor, severally owners, or other person or persons entitled to the soil of such common, as also on compensation made to any person aggrieved, either by grant of a right of equal value, or, with his consent in writing, in money—the restriction, modification, or abolition of all or any of such rights, and in particular in the case of severally owners of all or any of such rights which may be injurious to the general body of the severally owners or to the proper cultivation of the land; and
- (5) Generally as respects any common, whether it is or is not waste land of a manor—the determination of any rights and settlement of any disputes relating to boundaries, rights in the soil or in the produce of the soil, or otherwise, whether arising between the commoners themselves or between the commoners in relation to the lords of the manors, severally owners, or other person or persons entitled to the soil of the common, which settlement may be conducive to the interests of all or any class of persons interested in the common.

6. Meaning of provisional order for inclosure of commons.] A provisional order for the inclosure of a common means a provisional order for inclosing the common as provided by the Inclosure Acts, 1845 to 1868, as amended by this Act.

7. Provisions for the benefit of a neighbourhood applicable alike to orders for regulation and orders for inclosure.] In any provisional order in relation to a common, the Inclosure Commissioners shall, in considering the expediency of the application, take into consideration the question whether such application will be for the benefit of the neighbourhood, and shall, with a view to such benefit, insert in any such order such of the following terms and conditions (in this Act referred to as statutory provisions for the benefit of the neighbourhood) as are applicable to the case; that is to say,

- (1) That free access is to be secured to any particular points of view; and
- (2) That particular trees or objects of historical interest are to be preserved; and
- (3) That there is to be reserved, where a recreation ground is not set out, a privilege of playing games or of enjoying other species of recreation at such times and in such manner and on such parts of the

- (4) That carriage roads, bridle paths, and footpaths over such common are to be set out in such directions as may appear most commodious; and
- (5) That any other specified thing is to be done which may be thought equitable and expedient, regard being had to the benefit of the neighbourhood.

Suburban Commons.

8. Sanitary authorities to be represented in the case of common in the neighbourhood of towns.] Notice of any application under this Act in relation to a common which is situate either wholly or partly in any town or towns, or within six miles of any town or towns (which common is situate in this Act referred to as a suburban common), shall be served as soon as may be on the urban sanitary authority or authorities having jurisdiction over such town or towns, and it shall be lawful for the urban sanitary authority of any such town to appear before the assistant-commissioner on the occasion of his holding a local inquiry as in this Act mentioned, and also to appear before the Inclosure Commissioners, and to make to him or them, at any time during the proceedings in relation to obtaining a provisional order under this Act, such representations as they may think fit with respect to the expediency or inexpediency of such application, regard being had to the health, comfort, and convenience of the inhabitants of the town over which such authority has jurisdiction, and to propose to him or them such provisions as may appear to such urban sanitary authority to be proper, regard being had as aforesaid.

Any urban sanitary authority entitled to receive notice of an application in relation to a suburban common may, with the sanction of the Inclosure Commissioners, enter into an undertaking to contribute out of their funds for or towards the maintenance of recreation grounds, or of paths or roads, or the doing any other matter or thing for the benefit of their town in relation to the common to which such application relates.

They may also, in relation to any such common, and with such sanction as aforesaid, enter into an undertaking to pay compensation in respect to the rights of commoners, for the purpose of securing greater privileges for the benefit of their town.

An urban sanitary authority may acquire by gift and hold without licence in mortmain on trust for the benefit of their town any suburban common in respect of which they would be entitled to receive notice of any application made to the Inclosure Commissioners in pursuance of this Act, and any rights in such a common.

They may also in the case of any such suburban common purchase and hold as aforesaid, with a view to prevent the extinction of the rights of common, any saleable rights in common or any tenement of a commoner having annexed thereto rights of common.

They may also, with the consent of persons representing at least one-third in value of such interests in a suburban common as aforesaid as are proposed to be affected by the provisional order, make an application to the Inclosure Commissioners for the regulation of such common with a view to the benefit of their town and the improvement of such common.

Where an urban sanitary authority makes an application under this Act with such consent as aforesaid in respect of the regulation of a common, or undertakes to make any contribution or to pay any compensation or make any other payment out of its funds in respect of a common, such urban sanitary authority may, if the Inclosure Commissioners deem it advisable, having regard to the benefit of the neighbourhood as well as to private interests, be invested with such powers of management or other powers as may be expedient.

The expenses incurred by an urban sanitary authority in pursuance of this section may be defrayed out of any rate applicable to the payment of expenses incurred by such authority in the execution of "The Public Health Act, 1875," and not otherwise provided for.

A town for the purposes of this section means any municipal borough, or Improvement Act district, or Local Government district, having a population of not less than five thousand inhabitants.

The population of any town for the purposes of this Act shall be reckoned according to the last published census for the time being, and distances shall be measured in a direct line from the town-hall, or if there shall be no town-hall, then from the cathedral or church, if there shall be only one church, or if there be more churches than one, then from the principal market-place of such town to the nearest point of the suburban common. When part only of a common is situate within the aforesaid distance from a town, such part shall be deemed for the purposes of this section to be a common separate and distinct from the part situated without and beyond such distance.

Procedure.

9. Issue of forms by commissioners.] The Inclosure Commissioners shall from time to time, upon application made by the persons interested in any common, issue in such form as they may deem expedient in formation and directions as to the mode in which applications for the regulation or inclosure of commons under the Inclosure Acts, 1845 to 1868, as amended by this Act are to be made to the commissioners, with such explanations as they may think fit with respect to the law for the regulation and inclosure of commons, and the persons so interested may apply accordingly in manner directed by the Inclosure Commissioners.

10. Rules as to application to commissioners.] The following rules shall be observed with respect to an application to the Inclosure Commissioners for a provisional order for the regulation or inclosure of a common; that is to say,

- (1) Publication of notices of application.] The applicants previously to making their application shall publish, in such manner as the Inclosure Commissioners may from time to time, by general or special order, direct, an advertisement giving notice of their intention to apply for such provisional order, and shall also serve a like notice on any urban sanitary authority entitled under this Act to receive such notice: Provided that such advertisement as aforesaid shall always be inserted in at least one paper circulating in the neighbourhood of the common to which the application relates:
- (2) Manner of application.] The application shall be in writing, accompanied with a map of the common, or part thereof, and, if for the regulation of a common, shall express whether the applicants propose that all or certain specified provisions only of this Act for the adjustment of rights or improvement of commons should be put in force in relation to such common, and whether to apply to the whole or part of such common, but, subject as aforesaid, an application for the regulation or inclosure of a common shall be in such form and be made in such manner as the Inclosure Commissioners may from time to time direct:
- (3) Evidence to be furnished in support of application.] On making their application in respect of any common, the applicants shall furnish the Inclosure Commissioners, in answer to questions previously submitted or otherwise in such manner as the said commissioners may from time to time direct, with information bearing on the expediency of the application considered in relation to the benefit of the neighbourhood as well as to private interests:
- (4) Evidence in relation to benefit of neighbourhood.] The information to be furnished as bearing on the expediency of the application, considered in relation to the benefit of the neighbourhood, shall comprise statements as to the particulars following: that is to say, as to the number and occupation of the inhabitants of the parish or place in which the common is situate; as to the population of the neighbourhood, and the distance of the common from any neighbouring towns and villages; as to the intention of the applicants to propose the adoption of all or any of the statutory provisions as defined by this Act for the benefit of the neighbourhood; as to the circumstances of any ground other than the common to which the application relates being available for the recreation of the neighbourhood; and in the case of a common being waste land of a manor, as to the site, extent, and suitability of the allotments, if any, proposed to be made for recreation grounds and field gardens, or for either of such purposes; and as to any other matter which in the judgment of the Inclosure Commissioners may assist them in forming an opinion as to whether such application ought to be acceded to, having regard to the benefit of the neighbourhood, and, if acceded to, as to what statutory provisions as defined by this Act ought to be inserted in the provisional order for the benefit of the neighbourhood:

The Inclosure Commissioners shall also require, in the case of an application for inclosure, special information as to the advantages the applicants anticipate to be derivable from the inclosure of a common as compared with the regulation of a common, also the reasons why an inclosure is expedient when viewed in relation to the benefit of the neighbourhood:

(5) Evidence in relation to private interests.] The information to be furnished as bearing on the expediency of the application considered in relation to private interests shall comprise statements as to the several particulars following; that is to say, as to the extent and nature of the common to which the application relates; as to the mines, minerals, or valuable strata (if any) under the same; as to the questions of boundary (if any) concerning such common, or such mines, minerals, or strata; as to the parties interested in such common, and the numbers and proportion in value of interest who have consented to or dissented from the application; as to the nature of the rights requiring the intervention of the Inclosure Commissioners or the interference of Parliament; as to the supposed advantages of the application being acceded to; as to (in cases where the interest of any lord of the manor in the soil of a common or in mineral or other rights may be affected by the provisional order applied for) the allotment (if any) or compensation agreed on or proposed to be made to such lord of the manor in respect of his interest so affected; and as to any other matter which in the judgment of the Inclosure Commissioners may assist them in forming an opinion as to whether such application ought to be acceded to, having regard to private interests, and if acceded to as to what provisions ought to be inserted in the provisional order for the protection of private interests:

(6) Duty of commissioners on application.] The Inclosure Commissioners shall take into consideration any application made to them as in this Act provided, and if satisfied by the information furnished to them as aforesaid, or by any further inquiries made by themselves or an assistant-commissioner, that a prima facie case has been made out, and that, regard being had to the benefit of the neighbourhood as well as to private interests, it is expedient to proceed further in the matter, they shall order a local inquiry to be held by an assistant-commissioner.

11. Rules as to local inquiry.] The following rules shall be observed with respect to a local inquiry held by order of the Inclosure Commissioners:

(1) Inspection and public meeting.] The assistant-commissioner appointed to hold such inquiry shall inspect the common to which the application relates, and shall convene one or more public meetings at a suitable time and place for securing the attendance of the neighbouring inhabitants, and of all persons claiming interest in the common: Provided always, that one at least of such public meetings shall be held in the evening between the hours of seven and ten of the clock.

(2) Notice of meeting.] The assistant-commissioner shall give not less than twenty-one days' notice of his intention to hold the first of such meetings.

(3) Contents of notice.] The notice shall, in such form as the Inclosure Commissioners from time to time direct, state the nature of the application made, the objects of the meeting, that the meeting is a public one, and held for the purpose of enabling the assistant-commissioner to hear all persons desirous of being heard on the subject-matter of the application, whether considered in relation to the benefit of the neighbourhood or to private interests, and the desirability of the attendance of all persons interested in the subject-matter of the inquiry.

(4) Publication of notice.] The notice shall be given—

(a) By affixing a copy thereof on the principal door of the church of the parish in which the common to which the application relates, or the greater part thereof, is situate; and

(b) By posting copies of the same on or near the common to which it relates at the post-office or post offices of the parish or district in which the common to which the application relates is situate, at any town-hall, or vestry-hall, or other building or room the expense of maintaining which is payable out of any local rate, situate in the parish or district, and at all places therein where notices are usually posted; and

(c) By advertising in such manner as the Inclosure Commissioners may direct, or otherwise giving notice of the meetings in such manner as they think best calculated to insure publicity in the locality.

(5) Conduct of meeting.] The assistant commissioner shall preside and regulate the proceedings at such meetings, and shall hear all persons desirous of being heard in relation to the subject-matter of the inquiry. He may adjourn any such meeting from time to time, or from place to place, on giving such notice of adjournment as he thinks best calculated to insure publicity.

(6) Personal inquiries by assistant-commissioner.] The assistant-commissioner shall also make any inquiries and do any other acts which he may be instructed by the Inclosure Commissioners or may think it advisable to do, for the purpose of enabling the commissioners to judge as to the expediency of making the provisional order applied for, also as to the nature of the provisions to be inserted in any such provisional order if made.

(7) Report of assistant-commissioner to Inclosure Commissioners.] The assistant-commissioner shall report in writing to the Inclosure Commissioners the result of the local inquiry, and of the public meeting or meetings held by him (in such form and with such details as the Inclosure Commissioners may from time to time direct), and specially shall report to the Inclosure Commissioners the information obtained by him as to the several particulars in respect of which the applicants for a provisional order are, by this Act, required to furnish information to the Inclosure Commissioners:

He shall also report the number of persons who attended the meetings held by him, the objections (if any) made to the application, and the suggestions (if any) made in relation to the provisions to be inserted in the provisional order for the benefit of the neighbourhood or for the protection of private interests, and any other circumstances which he may think expedient, with a view to enable the Inclosure Commissioners to judge of the expediency of making the provisional order, having regard to aforesaid, and also, if the order be made, of the provisions to be inserted therein:

(8) Map to accompany report.] The report shall be accompanied by an outline or other map on such scale and of such a description as may be directed by the Inclosure Commissioners, with a sketch in the case of an inclosure of a common being waste of land of a manor, of the allotments (if any) proposed to be made for recreation grounds and field gardens, or for either of such purposes.

12. Rules as to provisional orders.] The following rules shall be observed with respect to provisional orders to be made by the Inclosure Commissioners; that is to say:

(1) Draft provisional order to be framed.] The Inclosure Commissioners, if satisfied by the report of the assistant-commissioner or by further inquiries to be made by themselves or an assistant-commissioner, that, having regard to the benefit of the neighbourhood as well as to private interests, it is expedient to proceed further in the matter, shall frame, in such form and with such provisions as they, having regard to aforesaid, may think expedient, and as are comsistent with law and the description of provisional order applied for, a draft provisional order for the consideration of the persons interested in the common, specifying, if such application is for the regulation of a common, whether all or any one or more of the provisions of this Act for the adjustment of rights and the improvement of a common are to be put in force :

(2) Provisions for benefit of neighbourhood. With respect to provisions for the benefit of the neighbourhood, there shall be inserted in such draft provisional order all such of the statutory provisions as defined by this Act for the benefit of the neighbourhood as are applicable to the case ; also, if the order is an inclosure order in the case of a common being waste land of manor, the quantity and situation of the allotments (if any) to be made for recreation grounds and field gardens :

(3) Provision for protection of private interests. With respect to private interests, there shall be inserted in such draft provisional order, (1) where the interest of any lord of the manor in the soil of a common or in mineral or other rights may be affected by the order, a statement of the allotment (if any) or other compensation to be allotted or made to the lord of such manor in respect of his interest so affected ; and (2) where there is any mineral property or other rights in relation thereto belonging to persons other than the lord of the manor which may be affected by the order, such provisions and reservations as are required to be inserted by the Inclosure Acts, 1845 to 1868, or as may appear to the Inclosure Commissioners proper to be inserted ; also, if there are any other rights which appear to the commissioners proper to be specially provided for or to be excepted from the operation of the order, there shall be specified the provisions or exceptions to be made in that behalf :

(4) Deposit of draft order for consideration of parties interested. As soon as may be after making their draft provisional order, the Inclosure Commissioners shall cause a copy thereof to be deposited in the parish or parishes in which the common is situate to which such order relates, in order that the same may be considered by the parties interested therein, and they shall give notice, in such manner as they think best calculated to secure publicity, of such deposit having been made, and of their intention to certify the expediency of such order if the necessary consents are obtained thereto :

(5) Consents before provisional order certified to be expedient. The Inclosure Commissioners shall not certify the expediency of a draft provisional order unless they are satisfied that persons representing at least two-thirds in value of such interests in the common as are affected by the order consent thereto ; and when the common to which the order relates is the waste land of any manor, or land within any manor to the soil of which the lord of such manor is entitled in right of his manor, then, unless there is more than one person interested in such manor according to the definition of "The Inclosure Act, 1845," the commissioners shall not certify the expediency of the same, unless the person interested in the common in right of such manor, or his substitute under the said Inclosure Act, 1845, consent to such order ; and where there is more than one person interested in such manor the commissioners shall not certify the expediency of the order, in case such persons or the majority of such persons in respect of interest signify their dissent within a time to be limited by the commissioners :

(6) Reservation in favour of freemen interested in common. Where the freemen, burgesses, or inhabitant householders of any city, borough, or town are entitled to rights of common or other interest in the common to which the draft provisional order relates, the Inclosure Commissioners shall not certify the expediency of such order unless it appears to the commissioners that two-thirds in number of such of the freemen and burgesses so entitled as may be resident in such city, borough, or town, or within seven miles thereof, or of such inhabitant householders, as the case may be, have consented to the order ; and in case two-thirds in number of such resident freemen and burgesses, or of such inhabitant householders, have so consented, such consent shall be deemed the consent of the class of freemen, burgesses, or inhabitant householders, as the case may be, so entitled :

(7) Means of obtaining consents. The Inclosure Commissioners may cause a meeting or meetings to be held by an assistant-commissioner for the purpose of obtaining the necessary consents, or of ascertaining the interests of consenting or dissenting parties, or they may cause such consents or dissents to be ascertained in such other manner as they may think fit :

(8) Power to modify provisional order before expediency certified. The Inclosure Commissioners may, at any time before certifying the expediency of a draft provisional order, modify the same of their own mere motion, or on the suggestion of any parties interested, but such modifications shall not be of any validity unless they are consented to in the same manner as if they formed part of the draft provisional order originally deposited by the commissioners :

(9) Certificate of expediency of provisional order. When the necessary consents have been obtained to any draft provisional order as originally deposited, or as modified in pursuance of this Act, such order shall be deemed to be final ; and the Inclosure Commissioners shall, in a report or reports to be made from time to time, as respects each provisional order which has become final as aforesaid, certify that it is expedient that such provisional order should be confirmed by Parliament, together with their reasons for certifying such expediency, and specially, as respects each provisional order, they shall, in such manner as they think best adapted to enable Parliament to judge of the expediency of such order, state the information furnished to them as to the several particulars in respect of which the applicants for a provisional order are by this Act required to furnish information to the commissioners ; also the result of the local inquiry, and of the number and description of the persons who attended the meetings held during such inquiry, and the nature of the objections (if any) made to the application, and the suggestions (if any) made in relation to the provisions to be inserted for the benefit of the neighbourhood or for the protection of private interests by the persons so attending, and any other circumstances which the commissioners may think it expedient to state for such purposes as aforesaid :

(10) Confirmation of provisional order. Every report made by the Inclosure Commissioners certifying the expediency of any provisional order under this Act shall be presented to Parliament, and if at any time thereafter it is enacted by Act of Parliament that any order for the regulation or inclosure of a common, the expediency of which has been so certified by the commissioners, shall be confirmed, the regulation or inclosure of any common to which any such order relates shall be proceeded with and completed according to the terms of the provisional order relating to such common, and to the provisions of the Inclosure Acts, 1845 to 1868, as amended by this Act, and an Act of Parliament containing such enactments as aforesaid shall be deemed to be a public general Act, but a provisional order, until such Act of Parliament as aforesaid has been passed in relation thereto, shall not be of any validity whatever :

(11) Supplemental power to modify provisional order after expediency certified. If, after the presentation to Parliament of a report made by the Inclosure Commissioners certifying the expediency of any provisional order for the regulation or inclosure of a common, and before a Bill has been brought in for the confirmation of such order, such report is referred to a committee of either House of Parliament for consideration, and such committee recommend that such provisional order should not be confirmed by Parliament except subject to certain modifications, the Inclosure Commissioners may modify the provisional order accordingly, but such modifications shall not be of any validity unless they are consented to in the same manner as if they had formed part of the draft provisional order originally deposited by the commissioners:

And it shall be the duty of the commissioners to take the necessary steps for ascertaining whether such consent as aforesaid can be obtained or not, and if such consent be obtained, the commissioners shall make a special report to the effect that the order has been modified as aforesaid and such consent duly obtained, and such report shall be presented to Parliament; and thereupon the order so modified shall be deemed to be in the same position in all respects as if it were an order in respect of which a report had been made by the commissioners certifying the expediency thereof, and such report had been presented to Parliament.

13. Partial application of procedure under Inclosure Acts.] The Inclosure Commissioners may insert in any provisional order for the regulation of a common any provisions they may deem necessary for the purpose of carrying such order into effect; but, subject as aforesaid, when an Act of Parliament has been passed as aforesaid, enacting that the regulation of a common shall be proceeded with, the subsequent proceedings for carrying into effect the regulation of such common shall be the same, so far as is practicable, as they would be in case such common were to be inclosed instead of being regulated, and the provisions of the Inclosure Acts, 1845 to 1868, as amended by this Act, shall apply accordingly.

14. Power to raise money for improvement of common.] A provisional order for the regulation of a common may provide for the raising from time to time by such persons interested in the common, and for such amounts as the commissioners think fit, of money to be applied towards the improvement or protection of such common, either by means of rates to be levied on the persons and in respect of the property who to which respectively will be benefited or principally benefited by such improvement or regulation, or by means of the sale of any outlying or other small portion not exceeding in the whole one-fortieth part of the total area of such common.

Supplemental Provisions.

15. Owners may make bye-laws.] The majority in value of the owners of rights or rights of pasture in any regulated pasture created under the provisions of "The General Inclosure Act, 1845," in addition to the powers they now possess, are hereby authorized at any annual meeting for the election of field Reeves to make bye-laws and regulations for the prevention of or protection from nuisances or for keeping order on the regulated pasture, and for general management, occupation, and enjoyment of the regulated pasture, provided the consent of the lord of the manor is given to such bye-laws.

16. Provision as to bye-laws.] Any bye-law made in pursuance of this Act, and any alteration made therein, and any revocation of a bye-law, shall not be of any validity until it has been confirmed by one of her Majesty's principal Secretaries of State.

Penal penalties (to be recovered summarily before any two justices) may be imposed by any such bye-laws on persons breaking the same, provided that no penalty exceeds for any one offence the sum of forty shillings.

17. Notice of application for confirmation of bye-laws.] No such confirmation shall take place unless notice of the intention to apply thereto, stating the effect of this section, has been published by the conservators one month at least before the application.

During one month at least before the application a copy of every bye-law, the making, alteration, or revocation of which is submitted for confirmation, shall be kept at the office of the person or body of persons making, altering, or revoking such bye-law open for inspection by persons interested, and such person or body of persons shall furnish a printed copy thereof to every person applying for the same on payment of a sum not exceeding one shilling for each copy.

18. Provision as to certain expenses under order for regulation of a common.] Subject to the terms of the provisional order the amount of any compensation to be paid for any restriction, modification, or abolition of rights in pursuance of an order for the regulation of a common shall be deemed to be expenses of and incidental to the regulation of the common, and may be defrayed accordingly.

19. Definition of power of Charity Commissioners in certain cases.] Whereas by several awards made under the authority of Inclosure Acts prior to the year one thousand eight hundred and forty-five, fuel allotments for the poor have been set out and awarded, and vested in divers persons and bodies of persons as trustees of such allotments:

And whereas under the provisions of the Inclosure Acts, 1845 to 1868, and the several Acts of Parliament and awards made thereunder, allotments for recreation grounds and field gardens have been set out and awarded to the churchwardens and overseers of parishes and other persons:

And whereas power exists or is claimed, under divers Acts of Parliament, to divert such allotments from the uses declared by Parliament respecting the same: Be it enacted, that after the passing of this Act, notwithstanding anything in any other Act contained, it shall not be lawful (save as hereinafter mentioned) to authorize the use of or to use any such allotment, or any part thereof, for any other purpose than those declared concerning the same by the Act of Parliament and award, or either of them, under which the same has been set out: Provided, that it shall be lawful for the Charity Commissioners for England and Wales in the exercise of their ordinary jurisdiction under the Charitable Trusts Acts, upon the application of the trustees of any fuel allotment, to authorize the use of such fuel allotment as a recreation ground and field gardens, or for either of those purposes, and to make an order under the provisions of "The Charitable Trusts Act, 1860," for the establishment of a scheme for the administration of such fuel allotment accordingly; and provided that it shall be lawful for the said Charity Commissioners, on such application as aforesaid, to authorize the exchange of any fuel allotment, or any part thereof, for land of equal value situate within the parish or district for the benefit of the poor of which such allotment was set out, if the commissioners are of opinion that by means of such exchange land better suited for the purpose for which such allotment was set out will be obtained.

20. Gravel digging.] After the passing of this Act, where any common is regulated pursuant to this Act by a provisional order of the Inclosure Commissioners confirmed by Parliament, or is the subject of a scheme confirmed by Parliament under the provisions of "The Metropolitan Commons Act, 1866," or "The Metropolitan Commons Amendment Act, 1869," or (being situate within the metropolitan police district) is the subject of any private or local Act of Parliament having for its object the preservation of such common as an open space, no surveyor of highways or highway board constituted in pursuance of the Highway Acts, or trustees of any turnpike road, shall search for, dig, get, or carry away gravel, sand, stone, or other materials in or from any part of such common which has not been set apart for that purpose with the sanction of Parliament, without the consent of the person or persons having the regulation or management of the same, or in default of such consent, without an order of two or more justices in petty sessions assembled, and acting in and for the petty sessional division in which such common is situate, who may in their order prescribe such conditions as to mode of working and restitution of the surface as to them shall seem expedient.

PART II.

AMENDMENT OF THE INCLOSURE ACTS.

Field Gardens and Recreation Grounds.

21. Expenses of clearing, draining, and fencing field gardens.] Whereas it is expedient that the expenses of clearing any allotments made for field gardens may be included in the expenses of an inclosure: Be it enacted, that the value shall, unless the Inclosure Commissioners otherwise direct, cause every allotment made for a field garden to be cleared, drained, fenced, levelled, and otherwise made fit for immediate use and occupation; and the expenses incurred by the valuer under this section shall be paid as part of the general expenses of the inclosure.

22. Substituted allotments for recreation grounds and field gardens.] The provisions of the Inclosure Acts, 1845 to 1868, which authorize the Inclosure Commissioners to allow an equal quantity of the land proposed to be inclosed to be allotted for the purpose of a recreation ground or field garden, or for any other public purpose, in lieu of that directed to be allotted by any provisional order, shall extend to authorize them to allow the allotment of land of equal value although it may not be of equal quantity.

23. Situation of allotments for recreation grounds and field gardens.] Every allotment made for the purpose of a recreation ground or field garden shall be in such part of the land proposed to be inclosed as is best suited for the purpose for which it is appropriated, and where any land proposed to be inclosed consists partly of common being waste land of a manor (in this section referred to as the first-mentioned land), and partly of common not being waste land of a manor (in this section referred to as the second-mentioned land), and the commissioners are satisfied that it would be advantageous that the allotment for a recreation ground or a field garden, or any part thereof, should be made out of the second-mentioned land instead of out of the first-mentioned land, the commissioners may, in the provisional order relating to such land, specify as one of the terms and conditions of the inclosure thereof that the said allotments or the said part thereof shall be made accordingly out of the second-mentioned land, and shall out of the first-mentioned land allot land of equal value by way of exchange to the persons interested in the second-mentioned land.

24. Field gardens to be free of rent-charge.] There shall be repealed so much of the Inclosure Acts, 1845 to 1868, as relates to the charging of an allotment made for the purpose of a field garden with a rent-charge, and every such allotment made after the passing of this Act shall be made free of any such rent-charge.

25. Allotments for recreation grounds to be vested in churchwardens and overseers.] There shall be repealed so much of the Inclosure Acts, 1845 to 1868, as provides that an allotment made for the purpose of a recreation ground may be allotted to any person entitled to an allotment under the inclosure, and every such allotment made after the passing of this Act shall be vested in the churchwardens and overseers for the time being of the parish in which the same shall be situate, and shall be held by them as provided by the Inclosure Acts, 1845 to 1868.

26. Amendment of law as to letting field gardens.] Whereas by "The Inclosure Act, 1845," allotment wardens are required to let the allotments under their management to the poor inhabitants of the parish in gardens not exceeding a quarter of an acre, and are further required to demand in respect of such letting, a rent not below the full yearly value of the land to be ascertained in manner in the said Act mentioned; and whereas it is expedient to amend the said provisions: Be it enacted that allotment wardens, if they are unable to let the allotments under their management, or any portion thereof, to the poor inhabitants of the parish in gardens not exceeding a quarter of an acre, may let the same, or any unlet portion thereof, in gardens not exceeding an acre each to such inhabitants as aforesaid: Further, it shall be the duty of allotment wardens to offer the gardens under their management to the poor inhabitants of the parish at a fair agricultural rent, if from time to time sufficient to satisfy all rates, taxes, tithes, tithe rent-charge, and the rent-charge charged on the said allotments under the provisions of "The General Inclosure Act, 1845," but not otherwise, instead of at such rent as is required by the said Act. Moreover, if in any parish the allotment wardens are unable to let the allotments under their management, or any portion thereof, to the poor inhabitants of the parish in such quantities and at such rents as aforesaid, they may let the same, or such portion as may be unlet, to any person whatever at the best annual rent which can be obtained for the same, without any premium or fine, and on such terms as may enable the allotment wardens to resume possession thereof within a period not exceeding twelve months, if it should at any time be required for such poor inhabitants as aforesaid.

This section shall apply to all land allotted to the poor for the purpose of cultivation under any Inclosure Act whatever, whether public or private, whether under the management of allotment wardens, feoffees, trustees, rector, or vicar and churchwardens, overseers, managers, or any other person or persons whatever, and whether at present cultivated or uncultivated, so that all such persons as aforesaid shall have like powers and duties as are hereinbefore given to and imposed upon allotment wardens.

27. Application of surplus rents of recreation grounds and field gardens.] Whereas by section seventy-three of "The Inclosure Act, 1845," the surplus rents arising from recreation grounds are applicable in aid of the rates for the repair of the public highways in the parish or respective parishes in which the said grounds are situate, and by section one hundred and twelve of the same Act the surplus rents arising from field gardens are payable to the overseers of the poor in aid of the poor rates of the parish: And whereas it is expedient to amend the said provisions: Be it enacted, that the surplus rents arising from recreation grounds shall from and after the passing of this Act cease to be applied in manner provided by the said seventy-third section, and shall be applied to all or any of the following purposes, and to no other purpose; that is to say, in improving the recreation grounds or any of them in the same parish or neighbourhood, or maintaining the drainage and fencing thereof, or in hiring or purchasing additional land for recreation grounds in the same parish or neighbourhood; and the surplus rents arising from field gardens shall, from and after the passing of this Act, cease to be applied in manner provided by the said one hundred and twelfth section, and shall be applied to all or any of the following purposes, and to no other purpose; that is to say, in improving the field gardens or any of them in the same parish or neighbourhood, or maintaining the drainage and fencing thereof, or in hiring or purchasing additional land for field gardens in the same parish or neighbourhood.

The trustees of any recreation ground and the allotment wardens of any field gardens may, with the approval of the Inclosure Commissioners, sell all or any part of the allotment vested in them, and out of the proceeds of such sale purchase any fit and suitable land in the same parish or neighbourhood: Provided, that the land so purchased shall be held in trust for the purposes for which the allotment so sold as aforesaid was allotted, and for no others; and provided, that the Inclosure Commissioners shall not sanction any such sale as aforesaid unless and until it shall be proved to their satisfaction that land more suitable for the purposes for which the allotment proposed to be sold was allotted may and will be forthwith purchased; and the proceeds of any such sale shall be paid to the Inclosure Commissioners, and shall remain in their hands until such purchase of other land as aforesaid.

28. Reports to be made by managers of recreation grounds and field gardens.] The trustees of recreation grounds, where such trustees are the overseers or churchwardens of a parish, and the allotment wardens of field gardens shall, from time to time, and at such intervals of not less than three years nor more than five years, as the Inclosure Commissioners direct, make such reports to the said commissioners in respect of the recreation grounds and field gardens under their management, with such particulars of the rents received by them, as the commissioners may require.

29. Amendment of law as to town and village greens.] Whereas by "The Inclosure Act, 1857," provision is made for the protection of town and village greens, and recreation grounds, and it is expedient to amend such provision: Be it enacted as follows, that is to say, an encroachment on or inclosure of a town or village green, also any erection thereon or disturbance or interference with or occupation of the soil thereof which is made otherwise than with a view to the better enjoyment of such town or village green or recreation ground, shall be deemed to be a public nuisance, and if any person does any act in respect of which he is liable to pay damages or a penalty under section twelve of the said Inclosure Act, 1857, he may be summarily convicted thereof upon the information of any inhabitant of the parish in which such town or village green or recreation ground is situate, as well as upon the information of such persons as in the said section mentioned.

This section shall apply only in cases where a town or village green or recreation ground has a known and defined boundary.

30. Jurisdiction of county court in respect of illegal inclosures.] A county court within whose jurisdiction any common or part of a common is situate shall have jurisdiction to hear any case relating to any illegal inclosure or encroachment of or upon such common or part of a common respectively made after the passing of this Act, or to any nuisance impeding the exercise of any right of common arising after the passing of this Act, and to grant an injunction against such inclosure, encroachment, or nuisance, or to make an order for the removal or abatement of such inclosure, encroachment, or nuisance.

Any person aggrieved by any injunction granted or order made or refusal to grant an injunction or make an order by a county court in pursuance of this section may, on giving security for costs to the satisfaction of the county court, appeal to the High Court of Justice in a summary manner, or by special case or otherwise, as may be prescribed by rules of court to be made by the Supreme Court of Judicature in manner provided by the seventeenth section of "The Supreme Court of Judicature Act, 1875."

The appellate court may on hearing the appeal reverse, modify, or confirm the injunction or order complained of, or remit the case to the county court from which the appeal lay, with instructions to deal with the case according to the directions given by the appellate court.

Where an appeal is lodged against the order of a county court directing the removal or abatement of any inclosure, encroachment, or nuisance, such order shall be suspended during such time as such appeal is pending.

Nothing in this Act contained shall abridge or interfere with any existing right of abating or otherwise preventing any illegal inclosure of or encroachment on any common, or any nuisance interfering with any right of common.

Until rules of court are made for the purposes of this section, an appeal may be had from the decision of any county court under this section in the same manner in which an appeal from the decision of a county court may be had in a case within its ordinary jurisdiction.

31. Three months' notice of claim to inclose to be given in the local papers.] Any person intending to inclose or approve a common or part of a common otherwise than under the provisions of this Act shall give notice to all persons claiming any legal right in such common or part of a common, by publishing, at least three months beforehand, a statement of his intention to make such inclosure, for three successive times, and in two or more of the principal local newspapers in the county, town, or district in which the common or part of a common proposed to be inclosed is situate; but the provisions of this section shall not apply to any commons or waste lands wherein the rights of common are vested solely in the lord of the manor.

A production of a newspaper containing such advertisement as aforesaid shall be evidence of the same having been issued, and the inclosure shall, until the contrary is proved, be deemed to have taken place at the time specified in such advertisement.

32. Appointment of valuer to be confirmed by commissioners.] An appointment of a valuer after the passing of this Act shall not be valid until it has been confirmed by the commissioners. The commissioners may disapprove of a valuer on the ground of his incompetency, interest, want of impartiality, or any reasonable cause, and where they so disapprove of a valuer may call a meeting, and a meeting may be held to appoint, and another person appointed (subject to the approval of the commissioners) to be valuer in like manner as if no previous meeting had been held and no valuer had been previously appointed, and so on until a valuer approved by the commissioners is appointed.

General Amendment.

33. Extension of sec. 105 of "The Inclosure Act, 1845," as to exchanges and partitions.] The provisions of section one hundred and five of "The Inclosure Act, 1845," relating to the validity after confirmation of an award of inclosure of the exchanges, and partitions set forth in such award, shall apply to orders of exchange, partition, and division of intermixed lands carried into effect in pursuance of the Inclosure Acts, 1845 to 1868, by separate orders, and not included in an award of inclosure.

PART III.

Miscellaneous.

34. Repeal of certain parts of "The Inclosure Act, 1845," and amendment of law as to reports.] There shall be repealed so much of section thirty of "The Inclosure Act, 1845," as prescribes a limit to the quantity of land to be allotted to recreation grounds; also the twenty-fourth, twenty-fifth, twenty-sixth, and twenty-seventh sections of "The Inclosure Act, 1845," and the Inclosure Commissioners shall not be required to repeat, in their general annual report, any of the particulars in relation to the regulation or inclosure of commons which they may have stated in any other reports made by them in pursuance of this Act in relation to such commons, but they may refer to such other reports, or give a summary thereof, or otherwise deal with the same as may be thought expedient.

35. Act not to apply to metropolitan commons.] This Act, save as herein expressly provided, shall not apply to any metropolitan common within the meaning of the Metropolitan Commons Act, 1866 and 1869.

36. A common regulated under Act not to be inclosed without sanction of Parliament.] Where an Act of Parliament has been passed confirming a provisional order under this Act for the regulation of a common, then, subject to and without prejudice to the provisions of that order, such common shall not, nor shall any part thereof, be inclosed without the sanction of Parliament subsequently obtained.

- (1) For uniting such county for the purpose of winter assizes to any neighbouring county or counties; and Amendment of Acts.

14. Amendment of the Act of 34 & 35 Vict. c. 91, relating to the constitution of the Privy Council.] Whereas by the Act of the session of the thirty-fourth and thirty-fifth years of the reign of her present Majesty, chapter ninety-one, intituled "An Act to make further provision for the despatch of business by the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council," her Majesty was empowered to appoint and did appoint four persons qualified as in that Act mentioned to act as members of the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council at such salaries as are the said Act mentioned, in this Act referred to as paid judges of the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council:

And whereas the power given by the said Act of filling any vacancies occasioned by death, or otherwise, in the offices of the persons so appointed, has lapsed by efflux of time, and her Majesty has no power to fill any such vacancies:

Be it enacted, that whenever any two of the paid judges of the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council have died or resigned, her Majesty may appoint a third Lord of Appeal in Ordinary in addition to the Lords of Appeal in Ordinary hereinbefore authorized to be appointed, and on the death or resignation of the remaining two paid judges of the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council her Majesty may appoint a fourth Lord of Appeal in Ordinary in addition to the Lords of Appeal in Ordinary aforesaid; and may from time to time fill up any vacancies occurring in the offices of such third and fourth Lord of Appeal in Ordinary.

Any Lord of Appeal in Ordinary appointed in pursuance of this section shall be appointed in the same manner, hold his office by the same tenure, be entitled to the same salary and pension, and in all respects be in the same position as if he were a Lord of Appeal in Ordinary appointed in pursuance of the power in this Act before given to her Majesty.

Her Majesty may by Order in Council, with the advice of the Judicial Committee of her Majesty's Privy Council or any five of them, of whom the Lord Chancellor shall be one, and of the archbishops and bishops being members of her Majesty's Privy Council, or any two of them, make rules for the attendance, on the hearing of ecclesiastical cases as assessors of the said committee, of such number of the archbishops and bishops of the Church of England as may be determined by such rules.

The rules may provide for the assessors being appointed for one or more years, or by rotation or otherwise, and for filling up any temporary or other vacancies in the office of assessor.

Any rule made in pursuance of this section shall be laid before each House of Parliament within forty days after it is made if Parliament be then sitting, or, if not then sitting, within forty days after the commencement of the then next session of Parliament.

If either House of Parliament present an address to her Majesty within forty days after any such rule has been laid before such House, praying that any such rule may be annulled, her Majesty may thereupon by Order in Council annul the same, and the rule so annulled shall thenceforth become void, but without prejudice nevertheless to the making of any other rule in its place, or to the validity of anything which may in the meantime have been done under any such rule.

15. Amendment of the Supreme Court of Judicature Acts in relation to her Majesty's Court of Appeal.] Whereas it is expedient to amend the constitution of her Majesty's Court of Appeal in manner hereinafter mentioned: Be it enacted, that there shall be repealed so much of the fourth section of "The Supreme Court of Judicature Act, 1875," as provides that the ordinary judges of her Majesty's Court of Appeal (in this Act referred to as "the Court of Appeal") shall not exceed three at any one time.

In addition to the number of ordinary judges of the Court of Appeal authorized to be appointed by "The Supreme Court of Judicature Act, 1875," her Majesty may appoint three additional ordinary judges of that court.

The first three appointments of additional judges under this Act shall be made by such transfer to the Court of Appeal as is in this section mentioned of three judges of the High Court of Justice, and the vacancies so created in the High Court of Justice shall not be filled up, except in the event and to the extent hereinafter mentioned.

Her Majesty may by writing, under her sign manual, either before or after the commencement of this Act, but so as not to take effect until the commencement thereof, transfer to the Court of Appeal from the following divisions of the High Court of Justice, that is to say, the Queen's Bench Division, the Common Pleas Division, and the Exchequer Division, such of the judges of the said divisions, not exceeding three in number, as to her Majesty may seem meet, each of whom shall have been a judge of any one or more of such divisions for not less than two years previously to his appointment, and shall not be an ex-officio judge of the Court of Appeal, and every judge so transferred shall be deemed an additional ordinary judge of the Court of Appeal in the same manner as if he had been appointed such judge by letters patent. No judge shall be so transferred without his own consent.

Every additional ordinary judge of the said Court of Appeal appointed in pursuance of this Act shall be subject to the provisions of sections twenty-nine and thirty-seven of "The Supreme Court of Judicature Act, 1873," and shall be under an obligation to go circuits and to act as commissioner under commissions of assize or other commissions authorized to be issued in pursuance of the said Act, in the same manner in all respects as if he were a judge of the High Court of Justice.

There shall be paid to every additional ordinary judge appointed in pursuance of this Act, in addition to the salary which he would otherwise receive as an ordinary judge of the Court of Appeal, such sum on account of his expenses on circuit or under such commission as aforesaid as may be approved by the Treasury upon the recommendation of the Lord Chancellor.

Each of the judges of the High Court of Justice who is in pursuance of this Act transferred to the Court of Appeal, by writing under the sign manual of her Majesty, shall retain such officers as are attached to his person as such judge, and are appointed and removable by him at his pleasure, in pursuance of "The Supreme Court of Judicature Act, 1873," and the officers so attached shall have the same rank, and hold their offices by the same tenure, and upon the same terms and conditions, and receive the same salaries, and if entitled to pensions be entitled to the same pensions, and shall, as nearly as may be, perform the same duties as if the judges to whom they are attached had not been transferred to the Court of Appeal.

Subject as aforesaid, the provisions of the Supreme Court of Judicature Acts, 1873 and 1875, for the time being in force in relation to the appointment of ordinary judges of her Majesty's Court of Appeal, and to their tenure of office, and to their precedence, and to their salaries and pensions, and to the officers to be attached to such judges, and all other provisions relating to such ordinary judges, shall apply to the additional ordinary judges appointed in pursuance of this section in the same manner as they apply to the other ordinary judges of the said court.

For the purpose of a transfer to the Court of Appeal under this section, service as a judge in a court whose jurisdiction is transferred to the High Court shall be deemed to have been service as a judge in any one or more of such divisions of the High Court as are in this section in that behalf mentioned; and for the purpose of the pension of any person appointed under this Act an additional ordinary judge of appeal, service in the High Court of Justice, or in any court whose jurisdiction is transferred to the High Court of Justice or to the Court of Appeal, shall be deemed to have been service in the Court of Appeal.

16. Orders in relation to conduct of business in her Majesty's Court of Appeal.] Orders for constituting and holding divisional courts of the Court of Appeal, and for regulating the sittings of the Court of Appeal, and of the divisional courts of appeal, may be made, and when made, in like manner rescinded or altered, by the President of the Court of Appeal, with the concurrence of the ordinary judges of the Court of Appeal, or any three of them; and so much of section seventeen of "The Supreme Court of Judicature Act, 1875," as relates to the regulation of any matters subject to be regulated by orders under this section, and so much of any rules of court as may be inconsistent with any order made under this section, shall be repealed, without prejudice nevertheless to any rules of court made in pursuance of the section so repealed, so long as such rules of court remain unaffected by orders made in pursuance of this section.

17. Regulations as to business of High Court of Justice and divisional courts of High Court.] On and after the first day of December, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-six, every action and proceeding in the High Court of Justice, and all business arising out of the same, except as is hereinafter provided, shall, so far as is practicable and convenient, be heard, determined, and disposed of before a single judge, and all proceedings in an action subsequent to the hearing or trial, and down to and including the final judgment or order, except as aforesaid, and always excepting any proceedings on appeal in the Court of Appeal, shall, so far as is practicable and convenient, be had and taken before the judge before whom the trial or hearing of the cause took place: Provided nevertheless, that divisional courts of the High Court of Justice may be held for the transaction of any business which may for the time being be ordered by rules of court to be heard by a divisional court; and any such divisional court when held shall be constituted of two judges of the court and no more, unless the president of the division to which such divisional court belongs, with the concurrence of the other judges of such division, or a majority thereof, is of opinion that such divisional court should be constituted of a greater number of judges than two, in which case such court may be constituted of such number of judges as the president, with such concurrence as aforesaid, may think expedient; nevertheless the decisions of a divisional court shall not be invalidated by reason of such court being constituted of a greater number than two judges; and

Rules of court for carrying into effect the enactments contained in this section shall be made on or before the first day of December, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-six, and may be afterwards altered, and all rules of court to be made after the passing of this Act, whether made under "The Supreme Court of Judicature Act, 1875," or this Act, shall be made by any three or more of the following persons, of whom the Lord Chancellor shall be one, namely, the Lord Chancellor, the Lord Chief Justice of England, the Master of the Rolls, the Lord Chief Justice of the Common Pleas, the Lord Chief Baron of the Exchequer, and four other judges of the Supreme Court of Judicature, to be from time to time appointed for the purpose by the Lord Chancellor in writing under his hand, such appointment to continue for such time as shall be specified therein, and all such rules of court shall be laid before each House of Parliament within such time and subject to be annulled in such manner as is provided by "The Supreme Court of Judicature Act, 1875."

There shall be repealed on and after the first day of December, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-six, so much of sections forty, forty-one, forty-two, forty-three, forty-four, and forty-six of "The Supreme Court of Judicature Act, 1873," as is inconsistent with the provisions of this section.

18. Power in certain events to fill vacancies occasioned in High Court of Justice by removal of judges to Court of Appeal.] Whenever any two of the said paid judges of the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council have died or resigned, her Majesty may, upon an address from both Houses of Parliament, representing that the state of business in the High Court of Justice is such as to require the appointment of an additional judge, fill up one of the vacancies created by the transfer hereinbefore authorized, by appointing one new judge of the said High Court in any division thereof; and on the death or retirement of the remaining two paid judges of the said Judicial Committee, her Majesty may, upon the like address, fill up in like manner another of the said vacancies, and from time to time fill up any vacancies occurring in the offices of judges so appointed.

19. Attendance of judges of High Court of Justice on Court of Appeal.] Where a judge of the High Court of Justice has been requested to attend as an additional judge at the sittings of the Court of Appeal under section four of "The Supreme Court of Judicature Act, 1873," such judge shall, although the period has expired during which his attendance was requested, attend the sittings of the Court of Appeal for the purpose of giving judgment or otherwise in relation to any case which may have been heard by the Court of Appeal during his attendance on the Court of Appeal.

20. Amendment of Judicature Acts as to appeals from High Court of Justice in certain cases.] Where by Act of Parliament it is provided that the decision of any court or judge the jurisdiction of which court or judge is transferred to the High Court of Justice is to be final, an appeal shall not lie in any such case from the decision of the High Court of Justice, or of any judge thereof, to her Majesty's Court of Appeal.

21. Continuation until 1st January, 1878, of s. 34 of 33 & 39 Vict. c. 77, as to vacancies in legal offices.] Whereas by section thirty-four of "The Supreme Court of Judicature Act, 1875," it is enacted that upon the occurrence of any vacancy in an office coming within the provisions of section seventy-seven of "The Supreme Court of Judicature Act, 1873," the Lord High Chancellor of Great Britain may, with the concurrence of the Treasury, suspend the making any appointment to such office for any period not later than the first day of January, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-seven, and may, if it be necessary, make provision in such manner as he thinks fit for the temporary discharge in the meantime of the duties of such office, and it is expedient to extend the said period as hereinafter mentioned: Be it therefore enacted as follows:

The said section shall be construed as if the first day of January, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight, were therein inserted in lieu of the first day of January, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-seven.

22. Appointment of deputy by district registrars.] A district registrar of the Supreme Court of Judicature may from time to time, but in each case with the approval of the Lord Chancellor and subject to such regulations as the Lord Chancellor may from time to time make, appoint a deputy, and all acts authorized or required to be done by, to, or before a district registrar may be done by, to, or before any deputy so appointed: Provided always, that in no case such appointment shall be made for a period exceeding three months. This section shall come into force at the time of the passing of this Act.

23. Appointment of vice-admiral, judge, and officers of vice-admiralty court.] Whereas by "The Vice-Admiralty Courts Act, 1863," it is enacted, that "nothing in this Act contained shall be taken to affect the power of the Admiralty to appoint any vice-admiral, or any judge, registrar, marshal, or other officer of any vice-admiralty court, as heretofore, by warrant from the Admiralty, and by letters patent issued under the seal of the High Court of Admiralty of England":

And whereas since the commencement of the Supre-

Court of Judicature Acts, 1873 and 1875, doubts have arisen with respect to the exercise of the said power of the Admiralty, and it is expedient to remove such doubts: Be it therefore enacted as follows:

Any power of the Admiralty to appoint or cancel the appointment of a vice-admiral, or a judge, registrar, marshal, or other officer of a vice-admiralty court, may, after the passing of this Act, be exercised by some writing under the hands of the Admiralty, and the seal of the office of Admiralty, and in such form as the Admiralty from time to time direct.

Every appointment so made shall have the same effect, and every vice-admiral, judge, registrar, marshal, and other officer so appointed shall have the same jurisdiction, power, and authority, and be subject to the same obligations, as if he had been appointed before the commencement of the Supreme Court of Judicature Acts, 1873 and 1875, under the seal of the High Court of Admiralty of England.

"Admiralty" in this section means the Lord High Admiral, or the commissioners for executing his office, or any two of such commissioners.

Repeal and Definitions.

24. Repeal of certain sections of "The Church Discipline Act" and of "The Supreme Court of Judicature Acts." Section sixteen of the Act for better enforcing Church Discipline, passed in the session of the third and fourth years of the reign of her present Majesty, chapter eighty-six, and sections twenty, twenty-one, and fifty-five of "The Supreme Court of Judicature Act, 1873," and section two of "The Supreme Court of Judicature Act, 1875," shall be repealed (with the exception of so much of section two as declares the day on which that Act is to commence).

25. Definitions: "high judicial office": "superior courts": "error." In this Act, if not inconsistent with the context, the following expressions have the meaning hereinafter respectively assigned to them; that is to say,

"High judicial office" means any of the following offices; that is to say,

The office of Lord Chancellor of Great Britain or Ireland or of paid judge of the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council, or of judge of one of her Majesty's superior courts of Great Britain and Ireland:

"Superior courts of Great Britain and Ireland" means and includes—

As to England, her Majesty's High Court of Justice and her Majesty's Court of Appeal, and the superior courts of law and equity in England as they existed before the constitution of her Majesty's High Court of Justice; and

"Error" includes a writ of error or any proceedings in or by way of error.

CAP. LXXV.

An Act for making further Provision for the Prevention of the Pollution of Rivers.

[15th August, 1876.]

Whereas it is expedient to make further provision for the prevention of the pollution of rivers, and in particular to prevent the establishment of new sources of pollution:

Be it enacted, &c.:

1. Short title of Act.] This Act may be cited for all purposes as "The Rivers Pollution Prevention Act, 1876."

PART I.

LAW AS TO SOLID MATTERS.

2. Prohibition as to putting solid matters into streams.] Every person who puts or causes to be put or to fall, or knowingly permits to be put or to fall or to be carried, into any stream, so as either singly or in combination with other similar acts of the same or any other person to interfere with its due flow, or to pollute its waters, the solid refuse of any manufactory, manufacturing process or quarry, or any rubbish or cinders, or any other waste or any putrid solid matter, shall be deemed to have committed an offence against this Act.

In proving interference with the due flow of any stream, or in proving the pollution of any stream, evidence may be given of repeated acts which together cause such interference or pollution, although each act taken by itself may not be sufficient for that purpose.

PART II.

LAW AS TO SEWAGE POLLUTIONS.

3. Prohibition as to drainage into streams of sewers.] Every person who causes to fall or flow, or knowingly permits to fall or flow or to be carried, into any stream any solid or liquid sewage matter, shall (subject as in this Act mentioned) be deemed to have committed an offence against this Act.

Where any sewage matter falls or flows or is carried into any stream along a channel used, constructed, or in process of construction at the date of the passing of this Act for the purpose of conveying such sewage matter, the person causing or knowingly permitting the sewage matter so to fall or flow or to be carried shall not be deemed to have committed an offence against this Act if he shows to the satisfaction of the court having cognizance of the case that he is using the best practicable and available means to render harmless the sewage matter so falling or flowing or carried into the stream.

Where the Local Government Board are satisfied after local inquiry that further time ought to be granted to any sanitary authority, which at the date of the passing of this Act is discharging sewage matter into any stream, or permitting it to be so discharged, by any such channel as aforesaid, for the purpose of enabling such authority to adopt the best practicable and available means for rendering harmless such sewage matter, the Local Government Board may by order declare that this section shall not, so far as regards the discharge of sewage matter by such channel, be in operation until the expiration of a period to be limited in the order.

Any order made under this section may be from time to time renewed by the Local Government Board, subject to such conditions, if any, as they may see fit.

A person other than a sanitary authority shall not be guilty of an offence under this section in respect of the passing of sewage matter into a stream along a drain communicating with any sewer belonging to or under the control of any sanitary authority, provided he has the sanction of the sanitary authority for so doing.

PART III.

LAW AS TO MANUFACTURING AND MINING POLLUTIONS.

4. Prohibition as to drainage into streams from manufactories.] Every person who causes to fall or flow, or knowingly permits to fall or flow or to be carried, into any stream any poisonous, noxious, or polluting liquid proceeding from any factory or manufacturing process shall (subject as in this Act mentioned) be deemed to have committed an offence against this Act.

Where any such poisonous, noxious, or polluting liquid as aforesaid falls or flows or is carried into any stream along a channel used, constructed, or in process of construction at the date of the passing of this Act, or any new channel constructed in substitution thereof, and having its outfall at the same spot, for the purpose of conveying such liquid, the person causing or knowingly permitting the poisonous, noxious, or polluting liquid so to fall or flow or to be carried shall not be deemed to have committed an offence against this Act if he shows to the satisfaction of the court having cognizance of the case that he is using the best practicable and reasonably available means to render harmless the poisonous, noxious, or polluting liquid so falling or flowing or carried into the stream.

5. Prohibition as to drainage into stream from mines.]

Every person who causes to fall or flow, or knowingly permits to fall or flow or to be carried, into any stream any solid matter from any mine in such quantities as to prejudicially interfere with its due flow, or any poisonous, noxious, or polluting solid or liquid matter proceeding from any mine, other than water in the same condition as that in which it has been drained or raised from such mine, shall be deemed to have committed an offence against this Act, unless in the case of poisonous, noxious, or polluting matter he shows to the satisfaction of the court having cognizance of the case that he is using the best practicable and reasonably available means to render harmless the poisonous, noxious, or polluting matter so falling or flowing or carried into the stream.

6. Restriction on proceedings under this part of the Act.] Unless and until Parliament otherwise provides the following enactments shall take effect, proceedings shall not be taken against any person under this part of this Act save by a sanitary authority, nor shall any such proceedings be taken without the consent of the Local Government Board: Provided always, that if the sanitary authority, on the application of any person interested alleging an offence to have been committed, shall refuse to take proceedings or apply for the consent by this section provided, the person so interested may apply to the Local Government Board, and if that Board on inquiry is of opinion that the sanitary authority should take proceedings, they may direct the sanitary authority accordingly, who shall thereupon commence proceedings.

The said Board in giving or withholding their consent shall have regard to the industrial interests involved in the case and to the circumstances and requirements of the locality.

The said Board shall not give their consent to proceedings by the sanitary authority of any district which is the seat of any manufacturing industry, unless they are satisfied, after due inquiry, that means for rendering harmless the poisonous, noxious, or polluting liquids proceeding from the processes of such manufactures are reasonably practicable and available under all the circumstances of the case, and that no material injury will be inflicted by such proceedings on the interests of such industry.

Any person within such district as aforesaid, against whom proceedings are proposed to be taken under this part of this Act, shall, notwithstanding any consent of the Local Government Board, be at liberty to object before the sanitary authority to such proceedings being taken, and such authority shall, if required in writing by such person, afford him an opportunity of being heard against such proceedings being taken, so far as the same relate to his works or manufacturing processes. The sanitary authority shall thereupon allow such person to be heard by himself, agents, and witnesses, and after inquiry such authority shall determine, having regard to all the considerations to which the Local Government Board are by this section directed to have regard, whether such proceedings as aforesaid shall or shall not be taken; and where any such sanitary authority has taken proceedings under this Act, it shall not be competent to other sanitary authorities to take proceedings under this Act till the party against whom such proceedings are intended shall have failed in reasonable time to carry out the order of any competent court under this Act.

PART IV.

ADMINISTRATION OF LAW.

7. Sanitary authority to afford facilities for factories draining into sewers.] Every sanitary or other local authority having sewers under their control shall give facilities for enabling manufacturers within their district to carry the liquids proceeding from their factories or manufacturing processes into such sewers:

Provided that this section shall not extend to compel any sanitary or other local authority to admit into their sewers any liquid which would prejudicially affect such sewers or the disposal by sale, application to land, or otherwise of the sewage matter conveyed along such sewers, or which would from its temperature or otherwise be injurious in a sanitary point of view:

Provided also, that no sanitary authority shall be required to give such facilities as aforesaid where the sewers of such authority are only sufficient for the requirements of their district, nor where such facilities would interfere with any order of any court of competent jurisdiction respecting the sewage of such authority.

8. Power of sanitary authority to enforce Act.] Every sanitary authority shall, subject to the restrictions in this Act contained, have power to enforce the provisions of this Act in relation to any stream being within or passing through or by any part of their district, and for that purpose to institute proceedings in respect of any offence against this Act which causes interference with the due flow within their district of any such stream, or the pollution within their district of any such stream, against any other sanitary authority or person, whether such offence is committed within or without the district of the first-named sanitary authority.

Any expenses incurred by a sanitary authority in the execution of this Act shall be payable as if they were expenses properly incurred by that authority in the execution of "The Public Health Act, 1875."

Proceedings may also, subject to the restrictions in this Act contained, be instituted in respect of any offence against this Act by any person aggrieved by the commission of such offence.

9. Power of Lee Conservancy Board to enforce Act.] The Conservancy Board constituted under "The Lee Conservancy Act, 1868," shall, within the area of their jurisdiction, have, to the exclusion of any other authority, the powers for enforcing the provisions of this Act which sanitary authorities have under this Act.

The said Conservancy Board may also enforce the provisions of "The Lee Conservancy Act, 1868," under the head or division "Protection of Water," by application to the county court having jurisdiction in the place in which any offence is committed against those provisions, and such court may by summary order require any person to abstain from the commission of any such offence, and the provisions of this Act with respect to summary orders of county courts and appeal therefrom shall apply accordingly.

LEGAL PROCEEDINGS.—SAVING CLAUSES.—DEFINITIONS.

(1) Legal Proceedings.

10. Offences to be restrained by summary order of county court.] The county court having jurisdiction in the place where any offence against this Act is committed may by summary order require any person to abstain from the commission of such offence, and where such offence consists in default to perform a duty under this Act may require him to perform such duty in manner in the said order specified; the court may insert in any order such conditions as to time or mode of action as it may think just, and may suspend or rescind any order on such undertaking being given or condition being performed as it may think just, and generally may give such directions for carrying into effect any order as to the court seems meet. Previous to granting such order the court may, if it think fit, remit to skilled parties to report on the "best practicable and available means" and the nature and cost of the works and apparatus required, who shall in all cases take into consideration the reasonableness of the expense involved in their report.

Any person making default in complying with any requirement of an order of a county court made in pursuance of this section shall pay to the person complaining, or such other person as the court may direct, such sum, not exceeding fifty pounds a day for every day during which he is in default, as the court may order; and such penalty shall be enforced in the same manner as any debt adjudged to be due by the court; moreover, if any person so in default persists in disobeying any requirement of any such order for a period of not less than a month or such other period less than a month as may be prescribed by such order, the court may in addition to any penalty it may impose appoint any person or persons to carry into effect such order, and all expenses incurred by any such person or persons to such amount as may be allowed by the county court shall be deemed to be a debt due from the person in default to the person or persons executing such order, and may be recovered accordingly in the county court.

11. Appeal from county court, and removal of case into High Court of Justice.] If either party in any proceedings before the county court under this Act feels aggrieved by the decision of the court in point of law or on the merits, or in respect of the admission or rejection of any evidence, he may appeal from that decision to the High Court of Justice.

The appeal shall be in the form of a special case to be agreed upon by both parties or their attorneys, and, if they cannot agree, to be settled by the judge of the county court upon the application of the parties or their attorneys.

The court of appeal may draw any inferences from the facts stated in the case that a jury might draw from facts stated by witnesses.

Subject to the provisions of this section, all the enactments, rules, and orders relating to proceedings in actions in county courts, and to enforcing judgments in county courts and appeals from decisions of county court judges, and to the conditions of such appeals, and to the power of the superior courts on such appeals, shall apply to all proceedings under this Act, and to an appeal from such action, in the same manner as if such action and appeal related to a matter within the ordinary jurisdiction of the court.

Any plaint entered in a county court under this Act may be removed into the High Court of Justice by leave of any judge of the said High Court, if it appears to such judge desirable in the interests of justice that such case should be tried in the first instance in the High Court of Justice and not in a county court, and on such terms as to security for and payment of costs, and such other terms (if any) as such judge may think fit.

12. Certificate of inspector of Local Government Board as to best practicable means.] A certificate granted by an inspector of proper qualifications appointed for the purposes of this Act by the Local Government Board to the effect that the means used for rendering harmless any sewage matter or poisonous, noxious, or polluting solid or liquid matter falling or flowing or carried into any stream, are the best or only practicable and available means under the circumstances of the particular case, shall in all courts and in all proceedings under this Act be conclusive evidence of the fact; such certificate shall continue in force for a period to be named therein, not exceeding two years, and at the expiration of that period may be renewed for the like or any less period.

All expenses incurred in or about obtaining a certificate under this section shall be paid by the applicant for the same.

Any person aggrieved by the grant or the withholding of a certificate under this section may appeal to the Local Government Board against the decision of the inspector; and the Board may either confirm, reverse, or modify his decision, and may make such order as to the party or parties by whom the costs of the appeal are to be borne as to the said Board may appear just.

13. Restriction on proceedings for offences.] Proceedings shall not be taken under this Act against any person for any offence against the provisions of parts II. and III. of this Act until the expiration of twelve months after the passing of this Act; nor shall proceedings in any case be taken under this Act for any offence against this Act until the expiration of two months after written notice of the intention to take such proceedings has been given to the offender, nor shall proceedings under this Act be taken for any offence against this Act while other proceedings in relation to such offence are pending.

14. Orders as to costs of inquiries.] The Local Government Board may make orders as to the costs incurred by them in relation to inquiries instituted by them under this Act, and as to the parties by whom such costs shall be borne; and every such order and every order for the payment of costs made by the said Board under section twelve of this Act may be made a rule of her Majesty's High Court of Justice.

15. Power of inspectors of Local Government Board.] Inspectors of the Local Government Board shall, for the purposes of any inquiry directed by the Board under this Act, have in relation to witnesses and their examination, the production of papers and accounts, and the inspection of places and matters required to be inspected, similar powers to those which the inspectors of the said Board have under "The Public Health Act, 1875," for the purposes of that Act.

(2) Saving Clauses.

16. Powers of Act cumulative.] The powers given by this Act shall not be deemed to prejudice or affect any other rights or powers now existing or vested in any person or persons by Act of Parliament, law, or custom, and such other rights or powers may be exercised in the same manner as if this Act had not passed; and nothing in this Act shall legalise any act or default which would but for this Act be deemed to be nuisance or otherwise contrary to law: Provided nevertheless, that in any proceedings for enforcing against any person such rights or powers the court before which such proceedings are pending shall take into consideration any certificate granted to such person under this Act.

17. Saving of rights of impounding and diverting water.] This Act shall not apply to or affect the lawful exercise of any rights of impounding or diverting water.

18. Saving of certain Conservancy Acts.] Nothing in or done under this Act shall extend to interfere with, take away, abridge, or prejudicially affect any right, power, authority, jurisdiction, or privilege given by the Thames Conservancy Acts, 1857 and 1864, or by "The Thames Navigation Act, 1866," or by "The Lee Conservancy Act, 1868," or any Act or Acts extending or amending the said Acts or either of them, or affect any outfall or other works of the Metropolitan Board of Works (although beyond the metropolis) executed under "The Metropolis Management Act, 1855," and the Acts amending or extending the same, or take away, abridge, or prejudicially affect any right, power, authority, jurisdiction, or privilege of the Metropolitan Board of Works.

19. Saving of works of certain local authorities.] Where any local authority or any urban or rural sanitary authority has been empowered or required by any Act of Parliament to carry any sewage into the sea or any tidal waters, nothing done by such authority in pursuance of such enactment, shall be deemed to be an offence against this Act.

CAP. LXXVI.

An Act to extend the privileges of Municipal Corporations in Ireland.

[15th August, 1876.]

CAP. LXXVII.

An Act to amend the Law relating to Cruelty to Animals.

[15th August, 1876.]

Whereas it is expedient to amend the law relating to cruelty to animals by extending it to the cases of animals which, for medical, physiological, or other scientific purposes, are subjected, when alive, to experiments calculated to inflict pain:

Be it enacted, &c.:

1. Short title. This Act may be cited for all purposes as "The Cruelty to Animals Act, 1876."

2. Prohibition of painful experiments on animals. A person shall not perform on a living animal any experiment calculated to give pain, except subject to the restrictions imposed by this Act. Any person performing or taking part in performing any experiment calculated to give pain, in contravention of this Act, shall be guilty of an offence against this Act, and shall, if it be the first offence, be liable to a penalty not exceeding fifty pounds; and, if it be the second or any subsequent offence, be liable, at the discretion of the court by which he is tried, to a penalty not exceeding one hundred pounds, or to imprisonment for a period not exceeding three months.

3. General restrictions as to performance of painful experiments on animals. The following restrictions are imposed by this Act with respect to the performance on any living animal of an experiment calculated to give pain; that is to say,

- (1) The experiment must be performed with a view to the advancement, by new discovery, of physiological knowledge, or of knowledge which will be useful for saving or prolonging life or alleviating suffering; and
- (2) The experiment must be performed by a person holding such licence from one of her Majesty's principal Secretaries of State, in this Act referred to as the Secretary of State, as is in this Act mentioned, and in the case of a person holding such conditional licence as is hereinafter mentioned, or of experiments performed for the purpose of instruction in a registered place; and
- (3) The animal must, during the whole of the experiment, be under the influence of some anaesthetic of sufficient power to prevent the animal feeling pain; and
- (4) The animal must, if the pain is likely to continue after the effect of the anaesthetic has ceased, or if any serious injury has been inflicted on the animal, be killed before it recovers from the influence of the anaesthetic which has been administered; and
- (5) The experiment shall not be performed as an illustration of lectures in medical schools, hospitals, colleges, or elsewhere; and
- (6) The experiment shall not be performed for the purpose of attaining manual skill.

Provided as follows; that is to say,

- (1) Experiments may be performed under the foregoing provisions as to the use of anaesthetics by a person giving illustrations of lectures in medical schools, hospitals, or colleges, or elsewhere, on such certificate being given as in this Act mentioned, that the proposed experiments are absolutely necessary for the due instruction of the persons to whom such lectures are given, with a view to their acquiring physiological knowledge or knowledge which will be useful to them for saving or prolonging life or alleviating suffering; and
- (2) Experiments may be performed without anaesthetics on such certificate being given, as in this Act mentioned, that insensibility cannot be produced without necessarily frustrating the object of such experiments; and
- (3) Experiments may be performed without the person who performed such experiments being under an obligation to cause the animal on which any such experiment is performed to be killed before it recovers from the influence of the anaesthetic on such certificate being given as in this Act mentioned, that the so killing the animal would necessarily frustrate the object of the experiment, and provided that the animal be killed as soon as such object has been attained; and
- (4) Experiments may be performed not directly for the advancement by new discovery of physiological knowledge, or of knowledge which will be useful for saving or prolonging life or alleviating suffering, but for the purpose of testing a particular former discovery alleged to have been made for the advancement of such knowledge as last aforesaid, on such certificate being made, as is in this Act mentioned, that such testing is absolutely necessary for the effectual advancement of such knowledge.

4. Use of urari as an anaesthetic prohibited. The substance known as urari or curare shall not, for the purposes of this Act, be deemed to be an anaesthetic.

5. Special restrictions on painful experiments on dogs, rats, &c. Notwithstanding anything in this Act contained, an experiment calculated to give pain shall not be performed without anaesthetics on a dog or cat, except on such certificate being given as in this Act mentioned, stating, in addition to the statements hereinbefore required to be made in such certificate, that for reasons specified in the certificate the object of the experiment will be necessarily frustrated unless it is performed on an animal similar in constitution and habits to a cat or dog, and no other animal is available for such experiment; and an experiment calculated to give pain shall not be performed on any horse, ass, or mule except on such certificate being given, as in this Act mentioned, that the object of the experiments will be necessarily frustrated unless it is performed on a horse, ass, or mule, and that no other animal is available for such experiment.

6. Absolute prohibition of public exhibition of painful experiments. Any exhibition to the general public; whether admitted on payment of money or gratuitously, of experiments on living animals calculated to give pain shall be illegal.

Any person performing or aiding in performing such experiments shall be deemed to be guilty of an offence against this Act, and shall, if it be the first offence, be liable to a penalty not exceeding fifty pounds, and if it be the second or any subsequent offence, be liable at the discretion of the court by which he is tried, to a penalty not exceeding one hundred pounds or to imprisonment for a period not exceeding three months.

And any person publishing any notice of any such intended exhibition by advertisement in a newspaper, placard, or otherwise shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding one pound.

A person punished for an offence under this section shall not for the same offence be punishable under any other section of this Act.

Administration of Law.

7. Registry of place for performance of experiments. The Secretary of State may insert, as a condition of granting any licence, a provision in such licence that the place in which any experiment is to be performed by the licensee is to be registered in such manner as the Secretary of State may from time to time by any general or special order direct; provided that every place for the performance of experiments for the purpose of instruction under this Act shall be approved by the Secretary of State, and shall be registered in such manner as he may from time to time by any general or special order direct.

8. Licence by Secretary of State. The Secretary of State may license any person whom he may think qualified to hold a licence to perform experiments under this Act. A licence granted by him may be for such time as he may think fit, and may be revoked by him on his being satisfied that such licence ought to be revoked. There may be annexed to such licence any conditions which the Secretary of State may think expedient for the purpose of better carrying into effect the objects of this Act, but not inconsistent with the provisions thereof.

9. Reports to Secretary of State. The Secretary of State may direct any person performing experiments under this Act from time to time to make such reports to him of the result of such experiments, in such form and with such details, as he may require.

10. Inspection by Secretary of State. The Secretary of State shall cause all registered places to be from time to time visited by inspectors for the purpose of securing compliance with the provisions of this Act, and the Secretary of State may, with the assent of the Treasury as to number, appoint any special inspectors, or may from time to time assign the duties of any such inspectors to such officers in the employment of the Government, who may be willing to accept the same, as he may think fit, either permanently or temporarily.

11. Certificate of scientific bodies for exceptions to general regulations.] Any application for a licence under this Act and a certificate given as in this Act mentioned must be signed by one or more of the following persons; that is to say,

The President of the Royal Society;
The President of the Royal Society of Edinburgh;
The President of the Royal Irish Academy;
The Presidents of the Royal Colleges of Surgeons in London, Edinburgh, or Dublin;
The Presidents of the Royal Colleges of Physicians in London, Edinburgh, or Dublin;
The President of the General Medical Council;
The President of the Faculty of Physicians and Surgeons of Glasgow;
The President of the Royal College of Veterinary Surgeons, or the President of the Royal Veterinary College, London, but in the case only of an experiment to be performed under anaesthesia with a view to the advancement by new discovery of veterinary science; and also (unless the applicant be a professor of physiology, medicine, anatomy, medical jurisprudence, materia medica, or surgery in a university in Great Britain or Ireland, or in University College, London, or in a college in Great Britain or Ireland, incorporated by Royal charter) by a professor of physiology, medicine, anatomy, medical jurisprudence, materia medica, or surgery in a university in Great Britain or Ireland, or in University College, London, or in a college in Great Britain or Ireland, incorporated by Royal charter.

Provided that where any person applying for a certificate under this Act is himself one of the persons authorized to sign such certificate, the signature of some other of such persons shall be substituted for the signature of the applicant.

A certificate under this section may be given for such time or for such series of experiments as the person or persons signing the certificate may think expedient.

A copy of any certificate under this section shall be forwarded by the applicant to the Secretary of State, but shall not be available until one week after a copy has been so forwarded.

The Secretary of State may at any time disallow or suspend any certificate given under this section.

12. Power of judge to grant licence for experiment when necessary in criminal case.] The powers conferred by this Act of granting a licence or giving a certificate for the performance of experiments on living animals may be exercised by an order in writing under the hand of any judge of the High Court of Justice in England, of the High Court of Session in Scotland, or of any of the superior courts in Ireland, including any court to which the jurisdiction of such last-mentioned courts may be transferred, in a case where such judge is satisfied that it is essential for the purposes of justice in a criminal case to make any such experiment.

Legal Proceedings.

13. Entry on warrant by justice.] A justice of the peace, on information on oath that there is reasonable ground to believe that experiments in contravention of this Act are being performed by an unlicensed person in any place not registered under this Act may issue his warrant authorizing any officer or constable of police to enter and search such place, and to take the names and addresses of the persons found therein.

Any person who refuses admission on demand to a police officer or constable so authorized, or obstructs such officer or constable in the execution of his duty under this section, or who refuses on demand to disclose his name or address, or gives a false name or address, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding five pounds.

14. Prosecution of offences and recovery of penalties in England.] In England offences against this Act may be prosecuted and penalties under this Act recovered before a court of summary jurisdiction in manner directed by "The Summary Jurisdiction Act."

In England "Summary Jurisdiction Act" means the Act of the session of the eleventh and twelfth years of the reign of her present Majesty, chapter forty-three, intituled "An Act to facilitate the performance of the duties of justices of the peace out of sessions within England and Wales with respect to summary convictions and orders," and any Act amending the same.

"Court of summary jurisdiction."] "Court of summary jurisdiction" means and includes any justice or justices of the peace, metropolitan police magistrate, stipendiary or other magistrate, or officer, by whatever name called, exercising jurisdiction in pursuance of "The Summary Jurisdiction Acts": Provided that the court, when hearing and determining an information under this Act, shall be constituted either of two or more justices of the peace in petty sessions, sitting at a place appointed for holding petty sessions, or of some magistrate or officer sitting alone or with others at some court or other place appointed for the administration of justice, and for the time being empowered by law to do alone any act authorized to be done by more than one justice of the peace.

15. Power of offender in England to elect to be tried on indictment, and not by summary jurisdiction.] In England, where a person is accused before a court of summary jurisdiction of any offence against this Act in respect of which a penalty of more than five pounds can be imposed, the accused may, on appearing before the court of summary jurisdiction, declare that he objects to being tried for such offence by a court of summary jurisdiction, and thereupon the court of summary jurisdiction may deal with the case in all respects as if the accused were charged with an indictable offence, and not an offence punishable on summary conviction, and the offence may be prosecuted on indictment accordingly.

16. Form of appeal to quarter sessions.] In England, if any party thinks himself aggrieved by any conviction made by a court of summary jurisdiction on determining any information under this Act, the party so aggrieved may appeal therefrom, subject to the conditions and regulations following:

- (1) The appeal shall be made to the next court of general or quarter sessions for the county or place in which the cause of appeal has arisen, holden not less than twenty-one days after the decision of the court from which the appeal is made; and
- (2) The appellant shall, within ten days after the cause of appeal has arisen, give notice to the other party and to the court of summary jurisdiction of his intention to appeal, and of the ground thereof; and
- (3) The appellant shall, within three days after such notice, enter into a recognizance before a justice of the peace, with two sufficient sureties, conditioned personally to try such appeal, and to abide the judgment of the court thereon, and to pay such costs as may be awarded by the court, or give such other security by deposit of money or otherwise as the justice may allow; and
- (4) Where the appellant is in custody the justice may, if he think fit, on the appellant entering into such recognizance, or giving such other security as aforesaid, release him from custody; and
- (5) The court of appeal may adjourn the appeal, and upon the hearing thereof they may confirm, reverse, or modify the decision of the court of summary jurisdiction, or remit the matter to the court of summary jurisdiction with the opinion of the court of appeal thereon, or make such other order in the matter as the court thinks just, and if the matter be remitted to the court of summary jurisdiction the said last-mentioned court shall thereupon hear and decide the information in accordance with the order of the said court of appeal. The court of appeal may also make such order as to costs to be paid by either party as the court thinks just.

17. Prosecution of offences and recovery of penalties in Scotland.] In Scotland, offences against this Act may be prosecuted, and penalties under this Act recovered, under the provisions of "The Summary Procedure Act, 1864," or if a person accused of any offence against this Act in respect of which a penalty of more than five pounds can be imposed, on appearing before a court of summary jurisdiction, declare that he objects to being tried for such offence in the court of summary jurisdiction, proceedings may be taken against him on indictment in the Court of Justiciary in Edinburgh or on circuit.

Every person found liable in any penalty or costs shall be liable in default of immediate payment to imprisonment for a term not exceeding three months, or until such penalty or costs are sooner paid.

18. Prosecution of offences and recovery of penalties in Ireland.] In Ireland, offences against this Act may be prosecuted, and penalties under this Act recovered in a summary manner, subject and according to the provisions with respect to the prosecution of offences, the recovery of penalties, and to appeal of "The Petty Sessions (Ireland) Act, 1851," and any Act amending the same, and in Dublin of the Acts regulating the powers of justices of the peace or of the police of Dublin metropolis. All penalties recovered under this Act shall be applied in manner directed by "The Fines (Ireland) Act, 1871," and any Act amending the same.

19. Power of offender in Ireland to elect to be tried on indictment, and not by summary jurisdiction.] In Ireland, where a person is accused before a court of summary jurisdiction of any offence against this Act in respect of which a penalty of more than five pounds can be imposed, the accused may, on appearing before the court of summary jurisdiction, declare that he objects to being tried for such offence by a court of summary jurisdiction, and thereupon the court of summary jurisdiction may deal with the case in all respects as if the accused were charged with an indictable offence, and not an offence punishable on summary conviction, and the offence may be prosecuted on indictment accordingly.

20. Interpretation of "the Secretary of State" as to Ireland.] In the application of this Act to Ireland the term "the Secretary of State" shall be construed to mean the Chief Secretary to the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland for the time being.

CAP. LXXVIII.

An Act to amend the Procedure connected with Trial by Jury in Ireland. [15th August, 1876.]

CAP. LXXIX.

An Act to make further provision for Elementary Education. [15th August, 1876.]

Whereas it is expedient to make further provision for the education of children, and for securing the fulfilment of parental responsibility in relation thereto, and otherwise to amend and to extend the Elementary Education Acts:

Be it enacted, &c. :

Preliminary.

1. Short title.] This Act may be cited as "The Elementary Education Act, 1876."

2. Extent of Act.] This Act shall not, save as otherwise expressly provided, apply to Scotland or Ireland.

3. Commencement of Act.] This Act shall, save as otherwise expressly provided, come into operation on the first day of January, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-seven (which day is in this Act referred to as the commencement of this Act).

PART I.

Law as to Employment and Education of Children.

4. Declaration of duty of parent to educate child.] It shall be the duty of the parent of every child to cause such child to receive efficient elementary instruction in reading, writing, and arithmetic, and if such parent fail to perform such duty, he shall be liable to such orders and penalties as are provided by this Act.

5. Regulation as to employment of child under 10, and certificate of education or previous school attendance being condition of employment of child over 10.] A person shall not, after the commencement of this Act, take into his employment (except as hereinafter in this Act mentioned) any child—

- (1) Who is under the age of ten years ; or
- (2) Who, being of the age of ten years or upwards, has not obtained such certificate either of his proficiency in reading, writing, and elementary arithmetic, or of previous due attendance at a certified efficient school, as is in this Act in that behalf mentioned, unless such child, being of the age of ten years or upwards, is employed, and is attending school in accordance with the provisions of the Factory Acts, or of any bye-law of the local authority (hereinafter mentioned) made under section seventy-four of "The Elementary Education Act, 1870," as amended by "The Elementary Education Act, 1873," and this Act, and sanctioned by the Education Department.

6. Penalty for employing a child in contravention of Act.] Every person who takes a child into his employment in contravention of this Act shall be liable, on summary conviction, to a penalty not exceeding forty shillings.

7. Enforcement of Act by school board or school attendance committee of existing local authority or by inspectors of factories or mines.] The provisions of this Act respecting the employment of children shall be enforced—

- (1) In a school district within the jurisdiction of a school board, by that Board ; and
- (2) In every other school district by a committee (in this Act referred to as a school attendance committee) appointed annually, if it is a borough, by the council of the borough, and if it is a parish, by the guardians of a union comprising such parish.

A school attendance committee under this section may consist of not less than six nor more than twelve members of the council or guardians appointing the committee, so, however, that, in the case of a committee appointed by guardians, one-third at least shall consist of ex-officio guardians, if there are any and sufficient ex-officio guardians.

Every such school board and school attendance committee (in this Act referred to as the local authority) shall, as soon as may be, publish the provisions of this Act within their jurisdiction in such manner as they think best calculated for making those provisions known.

Provided that it shall be the duty of the inspectors and sub-inspectors acting under the Acts regulating factories, workshops, and mines respectively, and not of the local authority, to enforce the observance by the employers of children in such factories, workshops, and mines of the provisions of this Act respecting the employment of children ; but it shall be the duty of the local authority to assist the said inspectors and sub-inspectors in the performance of their duty by information and otherwise.

It shall be the duty of such local authority to report to the Education Department any infraction of the provisions of section seven of "The Elementary Education Act, 1870," in any public elementary school within their district which may come to their knowledge, and also to forward to the Education Department any complaint which they may receive of the infraction of those provisions.

Every master of a British ship who knowingly takes the same to sea in such unseaworthy state that the life of any person is likely to be thereby endangered shall be guilty of a misdemeanour, unless he proves that her going to sea in such unseaworthy state was, under the circumstances, reasonable and justifiable, and for the purpose of giving such proof he may give evidence in the same manner as any other witness.

The assessors shall be persons of nautical engineering or other special skill and experience; one of them shall be appointed by the Board of Trade, either generally or in each case, and the other shall be summoned in accordance with the rules under this Act by the registrar of the court, out of a list of persons periodically nominated for the purpose by the local marine board of the port, or, if there is no such board, by a body of local shipowners or merchants approved for the purpose by a Secretary of State, or, if there is no such list, shall be appointed by the judge; if a Secretary of State thinks fit at any time, on the recommendation of the Government of any British possession or any foreign State, to add any person or persons to any such list, such person or persons shall, until otherwise directed by the Secretary of State, be added to such list, and if there is no such list shall form such list.

All such rules while in force shall have effect as if enacted in this Act, and the expression "prescribed" in the provisions of this Act relating to the detention of ships or court of survey means prescribed by such rules.

10. Liability of Board of Trade and shipowner for costs and damages.] If it appears that there was not reasonable and probable cause, by reason of the condition of the ship or the act or default of the owner, for the provisional detention of the ship, the Board of Trade shall be liable to pay to the owner of the ship his costs of and incidental to the detention, and survey of the ship, and also compensation for any loss or damage sustained by him by reason of the detention or survey.

For the purposes of this Act the costs of and incidental to any proceeding before a court of survey, and a reasonable amount in respect of the remuneration of the surveyor or officer of the Board of Trade, shall be deemed to be part of the costs of the detention and survey of the ship, and any dispute as to the amount of costs under this Act may be referred to one of the masters or registrars of the Supreme Court of Judicature, who, on request made to him for that purpose by the Board of Trade, shall ascertain and certify the proper amount of such costs.

An action for any costs or compensation payable by the Board of Trade under this section may be brought against the secretary thereof by his official title as if he were a corporation sole; and if the cause of action arises in Ireland, it shall be lawful for any of the superior courts of common law in Ireland in which such action may be commenced to order that the summons or writ may be served on the Crown and Treasury Solicitor for Ireland, in such manner and on such terms as to extension of time and otherwise as to the court shall seem fit, and that such service shall be deemed good and sufficient service of such summons or writ upon the Secretary of the Board of Trade.

11. Power to require from complainant security for costs.] Where a complaint is made to the Board of Trade or a detaining officer that a British ship is unsafe, the Board or officer may, if they or he think fit, require the complainant to give security to the satisfaction of the Board for the costs and compensation which he may become liable to pay as hereinafter mentioned.

Provided that where the complaint is made by one-fourth, being not less than three, of the seamen belonging to the ship, and is not in the opinion of the Board or officer frivolous or vexatious, such security shall not be required, and the Board or officer shall, if the complaint is made in sufficient time before the sailing of the ship, take proper steps for ascertaining whether the ship ought to be detained under this Act.

Where a ship is detained in consequence of any complaint, and the circumstances are such that the Board of Trade are liable under this Act to pay to the owner of the ship any costs or compensation, the complainant shall be liable to pay to the Board of Trade all such costs and compensation as the Board incur or are liable to pay in respect of the detention and survey of the ship.

12. Supplemental provisions as to detention of ship.] (1) A detaining officer shall have for the purpose of his duties under this Act the same powers as an inspector appointed by the Board of Trade under "The Merchant Shipping Act, 1854."

(2) An order for the detention of a ship, provisional or final, and an order varying the same, shall be served as soon as may be on the master of the ship.

(3) When a ship has been detained under this Act she shall not be released by reason of her British register being subsequently closed.

(4) For the purposes of a survey of a ship under this Act any person authorized to make the same may go on board the ship and inspect the same and every part thereof, and the machinery, equipments, and cargo, and may require the unloading or removal of any cargo, ballast, or tackle.

(5) The provisions of "The Merchant Shipping Act, 1854," with respect to persons who wilfully impede an inspector, or disobey a requisition or order of an inspector, shall apply as if those provisions were herein enacted, with the substitution for the inspector of any judge, assessor, officer, or surveyor who under this Act has the same powers as an inspector or has authority to survey a ship.

Foreign Ships, Overloading.

13. Application to foreign ships of provisions as to detention. Where a foreign ship has taken on board all or any part of her cargo at a port in the United Kingdom, and is whilst at that port unsafe by reason of overloading or improper loading, the provisions of this Act with respect to the detention of ships shall apply to that foreign ship as if she were a British ship, with the following modifications:

- (1) A copy of the order for the provisional detention of the ship shall be forthwith served on the consular officer for the State to which the ship belongs at or nearest to the place where the ship is detained;
- (2) Where a ship has been provisionally detained, the consular officer, on the request of the owner or master of the ship, may require that the person appointed by the Board of Trade to survey the ship shall be accompanied by such person as the consular officer may select, and in such case, if the surveyor and such person agree, the Board of Trade shall cause the ship to be detained or released accordingly, but if they differ, the Board of Trade may act as if the requisition had not been made, and the owner and master shall have the appeal to the court of survey touching the report of the surveyor which is before provided by this Act;
- (3) Where the owner or master of a ship appeals to the court of survey, the consular officer, on the request of such owner or master, may appoint any competent person who shall be assessor in such case in lieu of the assessor, who, if the ship were a British ship, would be appointed otherwise than by the Board of Trade.

In this section the expression "consular officer" means any consul-general, vice-consul, consular agent, or other officer recognized by a Secretary of State as a consular officer of a foreign State.

Appeal on Refusal of Certain Certificates to Ships.

14. Appeal on refusal of certain certificates under Merchant Shipping and Passengers Acts. Whereas by section three hundred and nine of "The Merchant Shipping Act, 1854," and enactments amending the same, the owner of a passenger steamer as defined in that Act is required to cause the same to be surveyed by a shipwright surveyor and an engineer surveyor, and those surveyors are required to give declarations of certain particulars with respect to the sufficiency or conformity with the Act of the ship and equipments, and to the limits beyond which the ship is not fit to ply, and to the number of passengers which the ship is fit to carry, and of other particulars in the said section mentioned, and the Board of Trade, under section three hundred and twelve of the same Act, issue a certificate upon such declarations, and the passenger steamer cannot lawfully proceed to sea without obtaining such certificate;

And whereas under sections eleven and fifty of "The Passengers Act, 1855," and the enactments amending the same, a passenger ship within the meaning of those sections (in this Act referred to as an emigrant ship) cannot lawfully proceed to sea without a certificate of clearance from an emigration officer, or other officer in those sections mentioned, showing that all the requirements of the said sections and enactments have been complied with, and that the ship is in the officer's opinion seaworthy, and that the passengers and crew are in a fit state to proceed to sea, and otherwise as therein mentioned;

And whereas by section thirty of "The Merchant Shipping Act Amendment Act, 1862," provision is made for preventing a ship from proceeding to sea in certain cases without a certificate from a surveyor or person appointed by the Board of Trade to the effect that the ship is properly provided with lights, and with the means of making fog signals;

And whereas it is expedient to give in the said cases such appeal as hereinafter mentioned: Be it therefore enacted that—

If a shipowner feels aggrieved,

- (1) by a declaration of a shipwright surveyor or an engineer surveyor respecting a passenger steamer under the above-recited enactments, or by the refusal of a surveyor to give the said declaration;
- (2) by the refusal of a certificate of clearance for an emigrant ship under the above-recited enactments;
- (3) by the refusal of a certificate as to lights or fog signals under the above-recited enactment, the owner may appeal in the prescribed manner to the court of survey for the port or district where the ship for the time being is.

On such appeal the judge of the court of survey shall report to the Board of Trade on the question raised by the appeal, and the Board of Trade, when satisfied that the requirements of the report and the other provisions of the said enactments have been complied with, may—

- (1) In the case of a passenger steamer give their certificate under section three hundred and twelve of "The Merchant Shipping Act, 1854," and
- (2) In the case of an emigrant ship give, or direct the emigration or other officer to give, a certificate of clearance under the above-mentioned enactments, and
- (3) In the case of a refusal of a certificate as to lights or fog signals, give or direct a surveyor or other person appointed by them to give a certificate under section thirty of "The Merchant Shipping Act Amendment Act, 1862."

Subject to any order made by the judge of the court of survey, the costs of and incidental to an appeal under this section shall follow the event.

Subject as aforesaid, the provisions of this Act with respect to the court of survey and appeals thereto, so far as consistent with the tenor thereof, shall apply to the court of survey when acting under this section, and to appeals under this section.

Where the survey of a ship is made for the purpose of a declaration or certificate under the above-recited enactments, the person appointed to make the survey shall, if so required by the owner, be accompanied on the survey by some person appointed by the owner, and in such case, if the said two persons agree, there shall be no appeal to the court of survey in pursuance of this section.

Scientific Referees.

15. Reference in difficult cases to scientific persons. If the Board of Trade are of opinion that an appeal under this Act involves a question of construction or design or of scientific difficulty or important principle, they may refer the matter to such one or more out of a list of scientific referees from time to time approved by a Secretary of State, as may appear to possess the special qualifications necessary for the particular case, and may be selected by agreement between the Board of Trade and the appellant, or in default of any such agreement by a Secretary of State, and thereupon the appeal shall be determined by the referee or referees instead of by the court of survey.

The Board of Trade, if the appellant in any appeal so require and give security to the satisfaction of the Board to pay the costs of and incidental to the reference, shall refer that appeal to a referee or referees so selected as aforesaid.

The referee or referees shall have the same powers as a judge of the court of survey.

Passenger Steamers and Emigrant Ships.

16. Exemption of certain steamers from passenger certificates. Any steamship may carry passengers not exceeding twelve in number although she has not been surveyed by the Board of Trade as a passenger steamer, and does not carry a Board of Trade certificate as provided by "The Merchant Shipping Act, 1854," with respect to passenger steamers.

17. Colonial certificates for passenger ships. Where the Legislature of any British possession provides for the survey of and grant of certificates for passenger steamers, and the Board of Trade report to her Majesty that they are satisfied that the certificates are to the like effect, and are granted after a like survey, and in such manner as to be equally efficient with the certificates granted for the same purpose in the United Kingdom under the Acts relating to Merchant Shipping it shall be lawful for her Majesty by Order in Council—

- (1) To declare that the said certificates shall be of the same force as if they had been granted under the said Acts; and
- (2) To declare that all or any of the provisions of the said Acts which relate to certificates granted for passenger steamers under those Acts shall, either without modification or with such modifications as to her Majesty may seem necessary, apply to the certificates referred to in the order; and
- (3) To impose such conditions and to make such regulations with respect to the said certificates, and to the use, delivery, and cancellation thereof, as to her Majesty may seem fit, and to impose penalties not exceeding fifty pounds for the breach of such conditions and regulations.

18. Provision against double survey in case of passenger steamers and emigrant ships.] In every case where a passenger certificate has been granted to any steamer by the Board of Trade under the provisions of "The Merchant Shipping Act, 1854," and remains still in force, it shall not be requisite for the purposes of the employment of such steamer under the Passengers Acts that she shall be again surveyed in her hull and machinery in order to qualify her for service under "The Passengers Act, 1855," and the Acts amending the same; but for the purposes of employment under those Acts such Board of Trade certificate shall be deemed to satisfy the requirements of the Passengers Acts with respect to such survey, and any further survey of the hull and machinery shall be dispensed with, and so long as a steamship is an emigrant ship that is a passenger ship within the meaning of "The Passengers Act, 1855," and the Acts amending the same, and the provisions contained in the said Passengers Acts as to the survey of her hull, machinery, and equipments have been complied with, she shall not be subject to the provisions of "The Merchant Shipping Act, 1854," with respect to the survey of or certificate for passenger steamers, or to the enactments amending the same.

19. Provision as to survey of foreign passenger steamer or emigrant ship.] Where a foreign ship is a passenger steamer subject to "The Merchant Shipping Act, 1854," and the Acts amending the same, or an emigrant ship subject to "The Passengers Act, 1855," and the Acts amending the same, and the Board of Trade are satisfied, by the production of a foreign certificate of survey attested by a British consular officer at the port of survey, that such ship has been officially surveyed at a foreign port, and are satisfied that the requirements of the said Acts, or any of them, are proved by such survey to have been substantially complied with, the Board may, if they think fit, dispense with any further survey of the ship in respect of the requirements so complied with, and give or direct one of their officers to give a certificate, which shall have the same effect as if given upon survey under the said Acts or any of them: Provided that her Majesty may by Order in Council direct that this section shall not apply in the case of an official survey at any foreign port at which it appears to her Majesty that corresponding provisions are not extended to British ships.

20. Power to modify Passengers Acts as to food, space, and accommodation in emigrant ships.] It shall be lawful for the Board of Trade, if satisfied that the food, space, accommodation, or any other particular or thing provided in an emigrant ship for any class of passengers is superior to the food, space, accommodation, or other particular or thing required by "The Passengers Act, 1855," and the Acts amending the same, to exempt such ship from any of the requirements of those Acts with respect to food, space, or accommodation, or other particular or thing, in such manner and upon such conditions as the Board of Trade may think fit.

21. Provision of signals of distress, inextinguishable lights, and life buoys in passenger steamers and emigrant ships.] Every sea-going passenger steamer and every emigrant ship shall be provided to the satisfaction of the Board of Trade—

- (1) With means for making the signals of distress at night specified in the first schedule to "The Merchant Shipping Act, 1873," or in any rules substituted therefor, including means of making flames on the ship which are inextinguishable in water, or such other means of making signals of distress as the Board of Trade may previously approve; and
- (2) With a proper supply of lights inextinguishable in water and fitted for attachment to life buoys.

If any such steamer or ship goes to sea from any port of the United Kingdom without being so provided as required by this section, for each default in any of the above requisites the owner shall, if he appears to be in fault, incur a penalty not exceeding one hundred pounds, and the master shall, if he appears to be in fault, incur a penalty not exceeding fifty pounds.

Grain Cargoes.

22. Stowage of cargo of grain, &c.] No cargo of which more than one-third consists of any kind of grain, corn, rice, paddy, pulse, seeds, nuts, or nut kernels, hereinafter referred to as "grain cargo," shall be carried on board any British ship, unless such grain cargo be contained in bags, sacks, or barrels, or secured from shifting by boards, bulkheads, or otherwise.

If the managing owner or master of any British ship or any agent of such owner who is charged with the loading of the ship, or the sending her to sea, knowingly allows any grain cargo or part of a grain cargo to be shipped therein for carriage contrary to the provisions of this section, he shall for every such offence incur a penalty not exceeding three hundred pounds, to be recovered upon summary conviction.

Deck Cargoes.

23. Space occupied by deck cargo to be liable to dues.] If any ship, British or foreign, other than home trade ships as defined by "The Merchant Shipping Act, 1854," carries as deck cargo, that is to say, in any uncovered space upon deck, or in any covered space not included in the cubical contents forming the ship's registered tonnage, timber, stores, or other goods, all dues payable on the ship's tonnage shall be payable as if there were added to the ship's registered tonnage the tonnage of the space occupied by such goods at the time at which such dues become payable.

The space so occupied shall be deemed to be the space limited by the area occupied by the goods and by straight lines inclosing a rectangular space sufficient to include the goods.

The tonnage of such space shall be ascertained by an officer of the Board of Trade or of Customs, in manner directed by sub-section four of section twenty-one of "The Merchant Shipping Act, 1854," and when so ascertained shall be entered by him in the ship's official log-book, and also in a memorandum which he shall deliver to the master, and the master shall, when the said dues are demanded, produce such memorandum in like manner as if it were the certificate of registry, or, in the case of a foreign ship, the document equivalent to a certificate of registry, and in default shall be liable the same penalty as if he had failed to produce the said certificate or document.

24. Penalty for carrying deck-loads of timber in winter.] After the first day of November, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-six, if a ship, British or foreign, arrives between the last day of October and the sixteenth day of April in any year at any port in the United Kingdom from any port out of the United Kingdom, carrying as deck cargo, that is to say, in any uncovered space upon deck, or in any covered space not included in the cubical contents forming the ship's registered tonnage, any wood goods coming within the following descriptions; that is to say,

- (a) Any square, round, waney, or other timber, or any pitch pine, mahogany, oak, teak, or other heavy wood goods whatever; or
- (b) Any more than five spare spars or store spars, whether or not made, dressed, and finally prepared for use; or
- (c) Any deals, battens, or other light wood goods of any description to a height exceeding three feet above the deck;

the master of the ship, and also the owner, if he is privy to the offence, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding five pounds for every hundred cubic feet of wood goods carried in contravention of this section, and such penalty may be recovered by action or on indictment or to an amount not exceeding one hundred pounds (whatever may be the maximum penalty recoverable) on summary conviction.

Provided that a master or owner shall not be liable to any penalty under this section—

- (1) In respect of any wood goods which the master has considered it necessary to place or keep on deck during the voyage on account of the springing of any leak, or of any other damage to the ship received or apprehended; or
- (2) If he proves that the ship sailed from the port at which the wood goods were loaded as deck cargo at such time before the last day of October as allowed a sufficient interval according to the ordinary duration of the voyage for the ship to arrive before that day at the said port in the United Kingdom, but was prevented from so arriving by stress of weather or circumstances beyond his control; or
- (3) If he proves that the ship sailed from the port at which the wood goods were loaded as deck cargo at such time before the sixteenth day of April as allowed a reasonable interval according to the ordinary duration of the voyage for the ship to arrive after that day at the said port in the United Kingdom, and by reason of an exceptionally favourable voyage arrived before that day.

Provided further, that nothing in this section shall affect any ship not bound to any port in the United Kingdom which comes into any port of the United Kingdom under stress of weather, or for repairs, or for any other purpose than the delivery of her cargo.

Deck and Load Lines.

25. Marking of deck-lines. Every British ship (except ships under eighty tons register employed solely in the coasting trade, ships employed solely in fishing, and pleasure yachts) shall be permanently and conspicuously marked with lines of not less than twelve inches in length and one inch in breadth, painted longitudinally on each side amidships, or as near thereto as practicable, and indicating the position of each deck which is above water.

The upper edge of each of these lines shall be level with the upper side of the deck plank next the waterway at the place of marking.

The lines shall be white or yellow on a dark ground, or black on a light ground.

26. Marking of load-line on foreign-going British ships. With respect to the marking of a load-line on British ships the following provisions shall have effect :

- (1) The owner of every British ship (except ships under eighty tons register employed solely in the coasting trade, ships employed solely in fishing, and pleasure yachts) shall, before entering his ship outwards from any port in the United Kingdom upon any voyage for which he is required so to enter her, or, if that is not practicable, as soon after as may be, mark upon each of her sides amidships, or as near thereto as is practicable, in white or yellow on a dark ground, or in black on a light ground, a circular disc twelve inches in diameter, with a horizontal line eighteen inches in length drawn through its centre;
- (2) The centre of this disc shall indicate the maximum load-line in salt water to which the owner intends to load the ship for that voyage;
- (3) He shall also, upon so entering her, insert in the form of entry delivered to the collector or other principal officer of Customs a statement in writing of the distance in feet and inches between the centre of this disc and the upper edge of each of the lines indicating the position of the ship's decks which is above that centre;
- (4) If default is made in delivering this statement in the case of any ship, any officer of Customs may refuse to enter the ship outwards;
- (5) The master of the ship shall enter a copy of this statement in the agreement with the crew before it is signed by any member of the crew, and no superintendent of any mercantile marine office shall proceed with the engagement of the crew until this entry is made;
- (6) The master of the ship shall also enter a copy of this statement in the official log-book;

(7) When a ship has been marked as by this section required, she shall be kept so marked until her next return to a port of discharge in the United Kingdom.

27. Marking of load-line in case of coasting vessels. With respect to the marking of a load-line on British ships employed in the coasting trade, the following provisions shall have effect :

- (1) The owner of every British ship employed in the coasting trade on the coasts of the United Kingdom (except ships under eighty tons register employed solely in that trade) shall, before proceeding to sea from any port, mark upon each of her sides amidships, or as near thereto as is practicable, in white or yellow on a dark ground, or in black on a light ground, a circular disc twelve inches in diameter, with a horizontal line eighteen inches in length drawn through its centre;
- (2) The centre of this disc shall indicate the maximum load-line in salt water to which the owner intends to load the ship, until notice is given of an alteration;
- (3) He shall also, in every twelve months, immediately before the ship proceeds to sea, send or deliver to the collector or other principal officer of Customs of the port of registry of the ship a statement in writing of the distance in feet and inches between the centre of the disc and the upper edge of each of the lines indicating the position of the ship's decks which is above that centre;
- (4) The owner, before the ship proceeds to sea after any renewal or alteration of the disc, shall send or deliver to the collector or other principal officer of Customs of the port of registry of the ship notice in writing of such renewal or alteration, together with such statement in writing as before mentioned of the distance between the centre of the disc and the upper edge of each of the deck-lines;
- (5) If default is made in sending or delivering any notice or statement required by this section to be sent or delivered the owner shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding one hundred pounds;
- (6) When a ship has been marked as by this section required, she shall be kept so marked until notice is given of an alteration.

28. Penalty for offences in relation to marks on ships. Any owner or master of a British ship who neglects to cause his ship to be marked as by this Act required, or to keep her so marked, or who allows the ship to be so loaded as to submerge in salt water the centre of the disc, and any person who conceals, removes, alters, defaces, or obliterates, or suffers any person under his control to conceal, remove, alter, deface, or obliterate, any of the said marks, except in the event of the particular thereby denoted being lawfully altered, or except for the purpose of escaping capture by an enemy, shall for each offence incur a penalty not exceeding one hundred pounds.

If any of the marks required by this Act is in any respect inaccurate, so as to be likely to mislead, the owner of the ship shall incur a penalty not exceeding one hundred pounds.

Investigation into Shipping Casualties.

29. Appointment, duties, and powers of wreck commissioners for investigating shipping casualties. For the purpose of rendering investigations into shipping casualties more speedy and effectual, it shall be lawful for the Lord High Chancellor of Great Britain to appoint from time to time some fit person or persons to be a wreck commissioner or wreck commissioners for the United Kingdom, so that there shall not be more than three such commissioners at any one time, and to remove any such wreck commissioner; and in case it shall become necessary to appoint a wreck commissioner in Ireland the Lord Chancellor of Ireland shall have the appointment and the power of removal of such wreck commissioner.

It shall be the duty of a wreck commissioner, at the request of the Board of Trade, to hold any formal investigation into a loss, abandonment, damage, or casualty (in this Act called a shipping casualty) under the eighth part of "The Merchant Shipping Act, 1854," and for that purpose he shall have the same jurisdiction and powers as are thereby conferred on two justices, and all the provisions of the Merchant Shipping Acts, 1854 to 1876, with respect to investigations conducted under the eighth part of "The Merchant Shipping Act, 1854," shall apply to investigations held by a wreck commissioner.

30. Assessors and rules of procedure on formal investigations into shipping casualties.] The wreck commissioner, justices, or other authority holding a formal investigation into a shipping casualty shall hold the same with the assistance of an assessor or assessors of nautical engineering or other special skill or knowledge, to be appointed by the commissioner, justices, or authority out of a list of persons for the time being approved for the purpose by a Secretary of State.

The commissioner, justices, or authority, when of opinion that the investigation is likely to involve the cancellation or suspension of the certificate of a master or mate, shall, where practicable, appoint a person having experience in the merchant service, to be one of the assessors.

Each assessor shall either sign the report made on the investigation, or report to the Board of Trade his reasons for his dissent therefrom.

The Lord High Chancellor of Great Britain may from time to time, with the consent of the Treasury so far as relates to fees, make, and when made, revoke, alter, and add to general rules for carrying into effect the enactments relating to formal investigations into shipping casualties, and in particular with respect to the summoning of assessors, the procedure, the parties, the persons allowed to appear, the notice to such parties and persons or to persons affected, and the amount and application of fees.

All such rules, while in force, shall have effect as if enacted in this Act.

Every formal investigation into a shipping casualty shall be conducted in such manner that if a charge is made against any person that person shall have an opportunity of making a defence.

31. Power for wreck commissioner to institute examination with respect to ships in distress under 17 & 18 Vict. c. 104, s. 448.] A wreck commissioner may, at the request of the Board of Trade, by himself, or by some deputy approved by the Board of Trade, institute the same examination as a receiver of wreck under section four hundred and forty-eight of "The Merchant Shipping Act, 1854," and shall for that purpose have the powers by that section conferred on a receiver of wreck.

32. Power to hold inquiries or formal investigations as to stranded and missing ships.] In the following cases—

- (1) Whenever any ship on or near the coasts of the United Kingdom or any British ship elsewhere has been stranded or damaged, and any witness is found at any place in the United Kingdom, or
- (2) Whenever a British ship has been lost, or is supposed to have been lost, and any evidence can be obtained in the United Kingdom as to the circumstances under which she proceeded to sea or was last heard of, the Board of Trade (without prejudice to any other powers) may, if they think fit, cause an inquiry to be made or formal investigation to be held, and all the provisions of "The Merchant Shipping Acts, 1854 to 1876," shall apply to any such inquiry or investigation as if it had been made or held under the eighth part of "The Merchant Shipping Act, 1854."

33. Place of investigation.] A formal investigation into a shipping casualty may be held at any place appointed in that behalf by the Board of Trade, and all enactments relating to the authority holding the investigation shall, for the purpose of the investigation, have effect as if the place so appointed were a place appointed for the exercise of the ordinary jurisdiction of that authority.

Miscellaneous.

34. Enforcing detention of ship.] Where, under the Merchant Shipping Acts, 1854 to 1876, or any of them, a ship is authorized or ordered to be detained, any commissioned officer on full pay in the naval or military service of her Majesty, or any officer of the Board of Trade or Customs, or any British consular officer may detain the ship, and if the ship after such detention or after service on the master of any notice or order for such detention proceeds to sea before it is released by competent authority, the master of the ship, and also the owner, and any person who sends the ship to sea, if such owner or person be party or privy to the offence, shall forfeit and pay to her Majesty a penalty not exceeding one hundred pounds.

Where a ship so proceeding to sea takes to sea when on board thereof in the execution of his duty any officer authorized to detain the ship, or any surveyor or officer of the Board of Trade or Customs, the owner and master of the ship shall each be liable to pay all expenses of and incidental to the officer or surveyor being so taken to sea, and also a penalty not exceeding one hundred pounds, or, if the offence is not prosecuted in a summary manner, not exceeding ten pounds for every day until the officer or surveyor returns, or until such time as would enable him after leaving the ship to return to the port from which he is taken, and such expenses may be recovered in like manner as the penalty.

35. Service of order on master, &c.] Where any order, notice, statement, or document requires, for the purpose of any provision of this Act, to be served on the master of the ship, the same shall be served, where there is no master, and the ship is in the United Kingdom, on the managing owner of the ship, or if there is no managing owner, on some agent of the owner residing in the United Kingdom, or where no such agent is known or can be found, by affixing a copy thereof to the mast of the ship.

Any such order, notice, statement, or document may be served by delivering a copy thereof personally to the person to be served, or by leaving the same at his last place of abode, or in the case of a master by leaving it for him on board the ship with the person being or appearing to be in command or charge of such ship.

Any person who obstructs the service of any order, notice, statement, or document on the master of a ship shall incur a penalty not exceeding ten pounds, and if the owner or master of the ship is party or privy to such obstruction he shall be guilty of a misdemeanour.

36. Ship's managing owner or manager to be registered.] The name and address of the managing owner for the time being of every British ship registered at any port or place in the United Kingdom shall be registered at the Custom-house of the ship's port of registry.

Where there is not a managing owner there shall be so registered the name of the ship's husband or other person to whom the management of the ship is intrusted by or on behalf of the owner; and any person whose name is so registered shall, for the purposes of the Merchant Shipping Acts, 1854 to 1876, be under the same obligations, and subject to the same liabilities, as if he were the managing owner.

If default is made in complying with this section the owner shall be liable, or if there be more owners than one, each owner shall be liable in proportion to his interest in the ship, to a penalty not exceeding in the whole one hundred pounds each time the ship leaves any port in the United Kingdom.

37. Power for her Majesty by Order in Council to apply certain provisions of Merchant Shipping Acts to foreign ships.] Whenever it has been made to appear to her Majesty that the Government of any foreign State is desirous that any of the provisions of the Merchant Shipping Acts, 1854 to 1876, or of any Act hereafter to be passed amending the same, shall apply to the ships of such State, her Majesty may by Order in Council declare that such of the said provisions as are in such order specified shall (subject to the limitations, if any, contained in the order) apply, and thereupon, so long as the order remains in force, such provisions shall apply (subject to the said limitations) to the ships of such State, and to the owners, masters, seamen, and apprentices of such ships, when not locally within the jurisdiction of such State, in the same manner in all respects as if such ships were British ships.

38. Provision as to Order in Council.] Where her Majesty has power under "The Merchant Shipping Act, 1854," or any Act passed or hereafter to be passed amending the same, to make an Order in Council, it shall be lawful for her Majesty from time to time to make such order in Council, and by Order in Council to revoke, alter, or add to any order so made.

Every such Order in Council shall be published in the London Gazette, and shall be laid before both Houses of Parliament within one month after it is made if Parliament be then sitting, or if not, within one month after the then next meeting of Parliament.

Upon the publication of any such order in the London Gazette, the order shall, after the date of such publication, or any later date mentioned in the order, take effect as if it were enacted by Parliament.

39. Fees, salaries, and costs.] On and after the first day of January, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-seven, all fees payable in respect of the survey or measurement of ships under the Merchant Shipping Acts, 1854 to 1876, or in respect of any services performed by any person employed under the authority of "The Passengers Act, 1855," shall continue to be paid to the superintendent of a mercantile marine office at such times and in such manner as the Board of Trade from time to time direct, but shall be paid into the receipt of her Majesty's Exchequer in such manner as the Treasury from time to time direct, and shall be carried to and form part of the Consolidated Fund of the United Kingdom.

On and after the same day the salaries of all surveyors appointed under the Merchant Shipping Acts, 1854 to 1876, and so much of the expenses connected with the survey and measurement of ships under those Acts, and of the salaries and expenses of persons employed under "The Passengers Act, 1855," as has heretofore been paid out of the Mercantile Marine Fund, shall be paid out of moneys provided by Parliament, and the Treasury shall have the like control over such salaries and expenses as has heretofore been vested in the Board of Trade.

CAP. LXXXI.

An Act for amending the Law relating to Crossed Cheques. [15th August, 1876.]

Be it enacted, &c. :

1. Short title.] This Act may be cited as "The Crossed Cheques Act, 1876."

2. Repeal of Acts in schedule.] The Acts described in the schedule to this Act are hereby repealed, but this repeal shall not affect any right, interest, or liability acquired or accrued before the passing of this Act.

3. Interpretation.] In this Act—

"Cheque" means a draft or order on a banker payable to bearer or to order on demand, and includes a warrant for payment of dividend on stock sent by post by the Governor and Company of the Bank of England or of Ireland, under the authority of any Act of Parliament for the time being in force:

"Banker" includes persons or a corporation or company acting as bankers.

4. General and special crossings.] Where a cheque bears across its face an addition of the words "and company," or any abbreviation thereof, between two parallel transverse lines, or of two parallel transverse lines simply, and either with or without the words "not negotiable," that addition shall be deemed a crossing, and the cheque shall be deemed to be crossed generally.

Where a cheque bears across its face an addition of the name of a banker, either with or without the words "not negotiable," that addition shall be deemed a crossing, and the cheque shall be deemed to be crossed specially, and to be crossed to that banker.

5. Crossing after issue.] Where a cheque is uncrossed, a lawful holder may cross it generally or specially.

Where a cheque is crossed generally, a lawful holder may cross it specially.

Where a cheque is crossed generally or specially, a lawful holder may add the words "not negotiable."

Where a cheque is crossed specially, the banker to whom it is crossed may again cross it specially to another banker, his agent for collection.

6. Crossing material part of cheque.] A crossing authorized by this Act shall be deemed a material part of the cheque, and it shall not be lawful for any person to obliterate or, except as authorized by this Act, to add to or alter the crossing.

7. Payment to banker only.] Where a cheque is crossed generally, the banker on whom it is drawn shall not pay it otherwise than to a banker.

Where a cheque is crossed specially, the banker on whom it is drawn shall not pay it otherwise than to the banker to whom it is crossed, or to his agent for collection.

8. Cheque crossed specially more than once not to be paid.] Where a cheque is crossed specially to more than one banker, except when crossed to an agent for the purpose of collection, the banker on whom it is drawn shall refuse payment thereof.

9. Protection of banker and drawer where cheque crossed specially.] Where the banker on whom a crossed cheque is drawn has in good faith and without negligence paid such cheque if crossed generally to a banker, and if crossed specially to the banker to whom it is crossed or his agent for collection being a banker, the banker paying the cheque and (in case such cheque has come to the hands of the payee) the drawer thereof shall respectively be entitled to the same rights, and be placed in the same position in all respects, as they would respectively have been entitled to and have been placed in if the amount of the cheque had been paid to and received by the true owner thereof.

10. Banker paying cheque contrary to provisions of Act to be liable to lawful owner.] Any banker paying a cheque crossed generally otherwise than to a banker, or a cheque crossed specially otherwise than to the banker to whom the same shall be crossed, or his agent for collection, being a banker, shall be liable to the true owner of the cheque for any loss he may sustain owing to the cheque having been so paid.

11. Relief of banker from responsibility in some cases.] Where a cheque is presented for payment which does not at the time of presentation appear to be crossed, or to have had a crossing which has been obliterated, or to have been added to or altered otherwise than as authorized by this Act, a banker paying the cheque, in good faith and without negligence, shall not be responsible or incur any liability, nor shall the payment be questioned, by reason of the cheque having been crossed, or of the crossing having been obliterated, or having been added to or altered otherwise than as authorized by this Act, and of payment being made otherwise than to a banker or the banker to whom the cheque is or was crossed, or to his agent for collection being a banker (as the case may be).

12. Title of holder of cheque crossed specially.] A person taking a cheque crossed generally or specially, bearing in either case the words "not negotiable," shall not have and shall not be capable of giving a better title to the cheque than that which the person from whom he took it had.

But a banker who has in good faith and without negligence received payment for a customer of a cheque crossed generally or specially to himself shall not, in case the title to the cheque proves defective, incur any liability to the true owner of the cheque by reason only of having received such payment.
